CLASSIC CITY CHRONICLES.

The elections are over, and once more the country is pursuing the even tenor of its way. The battle of the ballots was a strenuous one from start to finish.

Shortly after the bulletin was posted up to-day, the 29th, announcing that war had been declared between Italy and Turkey, your scribe heard a man remark "This will bring good times."

The Normal school opened on the 26th with 160 students in attendance—about fifty less than last year.

Our city was favored this week with a visit from Mrs. Scott-Raff, principal of the Margaret Eaton school of Literature, and Expression, Toronto.

In the matter of the estate of Robert Ewen, the elder, late of the Town of Durham, in the County of Grey, Farmer, deceased.

NOTICE is hereby given, pursuant to "The Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897 chapter 129, that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of the said Robert Ewen the elder, who died on or about the twenty-third day of May, 1911, are required on or before the 21st day of October, A.D. 1911 to send by post prepaid or to deliver to David Jamieson executor of the last Will and Testament of the said deceased their Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, and the nature of the securities, if any, held by them.

And further take notice that after such last mentioned date the said Executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which he shall have notice, and that the said Executor will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claims notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Durham this 12th day of September, A.D. 1911. DAVID JAMIESON, Durham P.O.

Executor of the last Will and Testament of the said Robert Ewen, the elder, deceased. Dated at Durham this 19th day of September, A.D. 1911.

If you have young children you have perhaps noticed that disorder of the stomach are their most common ailment. To correct this you will find Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets excellent. They are easy and pleasant to take, and mild and gentle in effect. For sale by all dealers.

Quality in tea may mean to you flavor or strength or fragrant richness. Red Rose Tea is blended with such nicety that it is the combination of all three points of merit. Will you try a package.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS FOR A GOOD STOMACH

This Offer Should be a Warning to Every Man and Woman.

The newspapers and medical journals recently have had much to say relative to a millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others

Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give everything he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is commonly caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices, or by lack of tone in the walls of the stomach. The result is that the stomach loses its power to digest food.

We are now able to supply certain missing elements—to help to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power, and to aid in making the stomach strong and well.

We know that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a most dependable remedy for disordered stomachs, indigestion and dyspepsia.

We want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result.

Three sizes, 25c., 50c. and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Macfarlane & Co.

"THE DEVIL'S HORSE"

Just off the main road from London to Cambridge, between Ware and Puckeridge, is a straggling hamlet called Standon Green End. Here in the middle of a meadow, says "Cycling," stands a remarkable monument, known as the Balloon Stone.

Under a hinged metal flap is a bronze plate bearing an inscription chronicling the first balloon ascent. Lancelotti's ascent created a tremendous sensation, all London turning out to witness his departure into the upper atmosphere. His sole companions were a dog, a cat, and a pigeon.

When he was nearing the earth in the field where the Balloon Stone stands, five laborers declined to take hold of his mooring ropes, and swearing they would have nothing to do with the "devil's horse," took to their heels. But for the plucky conduct of a young servant girl from an adjoining farm-house, who seized the rope and summoned assistance, the pioneer balloonist would not have effected a landing.

MOUJIK WEDDING FEAST

Peasants Give Themselves Up to the Enjoyments of the Occasion

When the day's work is done the Russian moujik's recreations are of the simplest. Perhaps he dances, or plays the concertina, or sings some melancholy air. But when a wedding has to be celebrated, and the priest has duly united the couple, the peasants give themselves up to the enjoyments of the occasion.

The writer well remembers peeping into the brightly-lit rooms of a tiny two-roomed log-cabin where such a revel was in progress. The evening was a hot one. In one room, so small that only four couples could with difficulty wheel about, dancing was in progress. The perspiring couples had made up their minds to enjoy themselves. There was a kind of determined-to-see-it-through they had great faces, and evidently they had great staying powers (says a writer in Chambers' Journal). In the same room, closely packed and lining the walls, were onlookers waiting till a couple should drop out to take their place in the dance.

The second apartment was laid out with refreshments. A side-table groaned with all kinds of dishes dear to the peasant palate. One knife, one table napkin, one fork, did service for the party; but some scored even these aids, and picked up here a sardine, there a hunch of melon, or tore at a hard sausage.

One tall man was pointed out as the stationmaster of a tiny wayside station near by. He was conspicuous as being better groomed and less savage in appearance than his fellows, and one heard afterwards that the seductive charms of a wedding feast made him forget on that evening his duty as signalman. A freight train waits two hours before a signal at danger, and then—for the signalman is quaffing vodka and dancing at the wedding—the train proceeds. The driver reports at the next town.

Result: Two months afterwards the stationmaster, for neglect of duty in his capacity of signalman, is degraded to a charge at a smaller station.

Japanese Workman Has Carved Great Piece of Wood in the World

One of the most marvellous workmen in the world is Hananuma Masakichi, of Tokio, Japan, who has carved a figure in wood so like himself that when the two are placed side by side it is said to be almost impossible to tell which lives and breathes and which does not.

By several connoisseurs in art the wooden figure has been pronounced the most perfect and human image of man ever made. Masakichi has faithfully reproduced the human image of the figure, so composed of 2,000 pieces of wood, dovetailed and jointed with such wonderful skill that no seams can be detected.

Tiny holes were drilled for the reception of hairs, and the wooden figure has glass eyes and eyelashes in which no dissimilarity to Masakichi's own can be detected.

The Japanese artist posed between two mirrors while modelling this figure, and for some time after its completion he posed frequently beside it, to the confusion of spectators, who were often entirely at a loss as to which was the artist. The figure stands with a little mask in one hand and an instrument for carving in the other; the life-like eyes are apparently gazing at the mask, and the face wears a look of intense absorption.

CURT K. OF K.

From what I have seen of Kitchener I am not at all surprised that there is little anxiety for his company at the War Office. He detests circumlocution, and his criticism is apt to be rather withering. Personally, he cares nothing for what is said of him.

I know a man on the staff of a paper which criticised him rather outspokenly not long ago who called upon him and asked for a rejoinder. "Sir," said K. of K., fixing him with a glassy stare, "your editor has said that I'm a fool. My opinion on any subject cannot, therefore, interest anybody, and he must be a pretty sort of ass to think it will. Good-day to you!"

Before he could collect his wits for a reply, my friend, who is himself a keen Territorial, found himself gently but firmly piloted to the door.

"Whew!" he ejaculated, as the front door slammed behind him. "I shouldn't like to be in his regiment!"

FOSSILS AND GOLD

In Alaska the bones, and often the entire bodies, of extinct animals, such as the mammoth, the mastodon, the reindeer, and the bison, are found most abundantly in layers of soil directly above gold bearing gravels. So intimate is this association between fossil animal remains and auriferous deposits that one scientist, who has just been exploring Alaska, says fossils serve prospectors as indexes of the metallic richness of the soil.

In ancient times both the gold and the bones and the bodies of the animals were deposited at the bottoms of valleys by action of rivers and smaller streams, many of which have now disappeared. Consequently the appearance of fossils is, it is claimed, an almost certain indication that gold will be found in the neighborhood.
