

PURPOSE

A Paper Read by President I. J. Halpe ny, of Ayton, at South Grey Teacher's Convention, Oct. 19th

The great question for everyone is not where are thou but what doest thou? Not what position do you occupy but what use are you making of your position.

For such, life failure is impossible. The man with a purpose is immortal, invincible and irresistible till his purpose is realized.

This conscious, continuous concentration to attain an end gives a new impulse, a new interpretation to living. At its best it means our kingship over conditions, our mastery over self.

There are many in life who are merely drifting. They float about the surface of life like jelly fish in the sea.

Some one has said that "he who drifts through life letting the golden years of his highest hopes glide uselessly away" is working overtime to accumulate remorse to darken his future.

The true man or woman is the one with a definite aim and who bends all circumstances to the accomplishment of that aim.

A single dollar wedded to a noble purpose is worth more than a million aimless dollars.

Why? Because the mites embodied the largest purpose and the most lofty desires of which the human soul is capable.

It is this purpose that takes a man out of the orchestra of life and puts him on the stage of real action.

The luxuriant but aimless idler, who though he may be a model of taste and refinement is a greater curse to society than the rude and thriftless pauper who begs his bread from door to door.

Christ is universally acknowledged to be the greatest of earth's great teachers. What is it that exalts His life above all others? What has placed Him without a peer at the summit of human living? Circumstances? Few are the men for whom circumstances has done less than for Him.

GREATEST COUNTRY OUT DOORS

Editor Chronicle— Dear Sir,— You are likely a stranger to me because the Chronicle seemed to change hands pretty often when I was a boy living in Durham, but it hardly seems as if I were writing to a stranger writing to anyone in my home town.

and is coming to the front fast, and there are some farms partly cleared here that can be bought dirt cheap, farms that if they were occupied will double themselves in value in a short time; also some homesteads are to be had that have never been filed on, and some places with small improvements on them that can be cancelled.

Anyone interested in this part of the country and wanting to get 160 acres of good land free or buy an improved farm may write to me for information of different places. I will be glad to respond in the best way I can in order to get another neighbor.

Thanking you in advance for the space in your valuable paper, I am Yours very truly, J. F. Vickers. Barnhart, Ont.
