The Doctor's Revenge. It is always a pleasure to hear or read of arrogance rebuked; hence this little tale, which might be headed "The Doctor's Revenge. ' An elderly lady whose characteristics entitle her to the present name of Mrs. Portly Pompous had a pet monkey which suddenly became ill. She had the assurance to send for a prominent physician to treat the little beast. When the doctor was introduced to his patient he was very much enraged, but he did not betray himself. He took the sick monkey's pulse and asked the usual questions. Now, in the room was a little boy, Mrs. Portly Pompous' grandson. The doctor approached the boy, examined his pulse also and then said solemnly to the lady: "Madam, your two little grandchildren are suffering from indigestion. Give them only light food, with plenty of exercise, and they will come out all right."-Boston Tran-

When Beecher "Hollered."

Coming home from the morning service one Sunday Dr. Beecher threw nimself on a lounge and said in a tone of deep dejection. "I believe that was the worst sermon I ever preached." One of his daughters protested that she had seldom heard him when he was more energetic. "Oh, yes," was the impatient reply, "when I haven't anything to say I always holler."-Outlook.

> The three things most difficult are to keep a secret, to forget an injury and to make good use of leisure.

Awed by the Servant.

The amusing mistake once made by two Abyssinian delegates of the Emperor Menelek to France is narrated splendor of his gold lace uniform and the solemnity of his imposing manner, they mistook the usher at the door of the foreign minister's office for M. de Selves himself. As they were brought into the anteroom the usher was standing with his hands on the door handle ready to announce them. But at the sight of his silver chain his medals, his sword, his gold topped cane and his three cornered hat the Abyssinians could not be expected to know they were in the presence of a mere servant. So bowing low repeatedly, they approached him slowly and with great respect until they were within reach of his coattails, which, one on either side, they seized in their hands and kissed. The usher did not know what to do, but the appearance of the minister relieved the situation.

Bathing In Gold.

A Parisian journalist who had speculated in railway shares won 200,000 francs as the result of a lucky venture. Drawing it in gold, he proceeded to a hotel, emptied the bags of gold in the bed and went to sleep literally in the sands of Pactolus. The man was so crazed by his good fortune that he found indescribable pleasure in reveling in a golden bath.

Paganini, the violinist, when he received the proceeds of his concerts (he insisted upon being paid in gold) used to wash his hands in sovereigns.

A French novelist, Soulie, wrote a book called "The Memoirs of the Dev-It was successful. The publishers paid him for the first volume $10,-000 in gold. The author carried the gold to his bedroom, poured it into a foot bath and enjoyed for half an hour the excitement of moving his feet to and fro in a bath of gold coins, smoking meanwhile the biggest of Havanas.

Old Leather Bottles.

Leather bottles, or blackjacks, were common in Europe two centuries ago. The bottles were often made of one skin doubled up and closely stitched together, leaving an aperture for the neck. The thick piece between was inserted for the slip. It was meant to be slung at the back, a leather thong passed through two loops placed on either side of the neck, and it was sufficiently flat at the base to stand when put down. The stopper was made of wood, horn or old leather. A good deal of care was required in the preparation of the leather, which had to be oiled and worked with hammers to make it supple and then washed with a lye so that all the impurity was entirely removed, leaving the leather clean and dry. No moisture or air had any effect on it. Blackjacks were, in fact, flagons made in various sizes. They were sometimes pitched inside.

A Hair Trigger Constitution. Some one has said that animals have a hair trigger constitution, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. They go off on the slightest provocation, because they act from impulse. They do not know how to control themselves. The animal instinct dom-

Self control is the first condition of all achievement. It is said that the first sign of insanity is the loss of self control. When a person is no longer the master of his own acts he is not only in danger, but any degree of achievement is impossible to him.

Every thought tends to result in an act, so that thought always leads. The mental attitude at any moment is the pattern which the life processes weave. The lives of many of us are grotesque crazy quilts.

Lung Capacity of Corset Wearers. The lung capacity of the average woman who does not wear corsets is about 2,800 cubic centimeters, or 171 cubic inches; of one who is in the habit of wearing corsets only 2,200 cubic centimeters, or 134 cubic inches, so that the capacity of the normal and unrestricted lungs is about 27.3 per cent more than that of those which have been compressed by the corset .-Scientific American.

A Technical Mind.

"What in the name of common sense are you arresting me for?" asked the motorist who had accidentally violated a regulation.

"I ain't arrestin' you in the name of common sense," replied the rustic sheriff. "I'm arrestin' you in the name of the law."-Washington Star.

Self Educated.

"But don't you think you could learn to love me?" he inquired of the beautiful heiress.

"Pa always- said I was hard to learn," she replied tantalizingly. "But I am not a book," he protested.

"Oh. I can read you all right," she answered.-Pittsburg Dispatch.

Longevity.

"Longevity? I should say longevity did run in the family," said Mrs. Spriggins. "Why, John was six foot two, Bill was six foot four, and George had more longevity than any man I ever see. He was six foot seven if he was a foot."-Exchange.

Consideration.

Kindly words, sympathizing attentions, watchfulness against wounding know. men's sesitiveness-these cost very little, but they are priceless in their value.

They were used in Solomon's temple and in its successor and also in the church that Constantine built at Jerusalem.

The surviving trees are called by the Arabs the "trees of God," and under their widespreading branches the clergy of the Greek church occasionally celebrate mass.

Several of the trees in the grove are over 1,500 years old and have a height of 100 feet and a circumference of 50. In appearance they more resemble the aged larch or the majestic oak than the cedar that is known in America .-Harper's Weekly.

A Clause In Napoleon's Will. Peter the Great is said to have made a will in which he exhorted his heirs to approach as nearly as possible to Constantinople and toward India, but the authenticity of this document had been disputed, and it is shrewdly suspected to have been forged late in the eighteenth century by August von Kotzebue.

Water and Electricity.

Since the general introduction of electricity into the cities it has been known that it was possible to secure a very considerable shock through a stream of water, and firemen in all large cities are on the lookout for this. Wires which look as if they might conduct heavy currents are cut before a stream of water is thrown in their direction. Recently in the construction of an electric railway in South Africa it was noticed that a column of steam from a locomotive could be the means of conveying the current, and several workmen were shocked in this man-

A Quick Reply.

The Duchess of Lauraguais, who was somewhat given to making poetry, could not think of a word to rhyme with coif. Visiting card, differ in style accord ing to latitude, and as an example a the ambassador greatly impressed the Chinese statesmen, particularly their "doyen." When the negotiations had been completed and M. de Lagrene was ready to embark a delegation brought him a great roll of paper. The ambassador seeing this parcel at once thought this was a present, knowing Chinese methods, but to his surprise they started to unroll the cylinder, which extended to about fifty meters of paper, over 162 feet. Then he learned that it was the visiting card of the "doyen." In returning his modest little bristol board the humiliated ambassador added a few words, which read, "The ambassador of France regrets that he is able to offer only these simple words to your excellency."

The Building of Homes.

Dwelling houses may be constructed of anything from paper to concrete.

When built of paper they consist of ground plans, front elevations and mortgages. When they progress to something more substantial they do not resemble in any way the front elevation or the ground plan of the paper stage and are therefore disappointing in these particulars. The mortgage, Of the genuineness, however, of the however, always comes up to expectalast will and testament of Napoleon I. tions. The houses of the elect may there can be no manner of doubt. Serpents and Music.

Barnard concludes from his person al observation of cobras in Ceylon, says the Scientific American, that the serpent's traditional love for music mouth was the most noticeable thing is a pure fable and that the only effect of music is to arouse the reptile's curiosity, which is excited by any loud and acute sound. Blow the Steam Aside. The wise woman sent a sudden vigor ous puff of breath at the jet of steam rising from the copper teakettle she was tilting, repeated it hastily as she filled the blue teapot and set the kettle back on the stove with a nod of triumph. "That trick has saved me many a scalded hand," she asserted. "Whether I read it or was told it I am not sure, but until I tried it I was always getting most painfullittle burns. Public Baths Abroad.

London probably possesses more private baths than any other city, but in the matter of public baths it cannot claim first or even second place, says the London Chronicle. Tokyo, Japan, has over 800 public baths, where 300,000 persons bathe daily at a cost of about one halfpenny each. Constantinople probably ranks second; then comes St. Petersburg, famous for the vast vapor baths to which the Russians flock in thousands every Saturday evening. The finest public bath in the world is at Vienna. It has a basin 578 ter visited Mrs. R. H. Moore over feet long by 156 feet wide and can Sunday. accommodate 1,500 persons. The blast of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway contractors is echoing against the rocky walls of Tete Jaune Cache to make way for civilization and the shrill echoes of the locomotive whistle later on.

Going westward from Edmonton along the Grand Trunk Pacific route the traveller sees the trail of the second comer already strongly marked. and Tete Jaune Cache is the objective point at present for the end of steel by the spring of 1912. At present the Grand Trunk Pacific steel is beyond the Great Divide, and over the summit of the Yellowhead Pass.

Historically, Tete Jaune is a centre of interest in Western Canada, as this point was the site of one of the Hudson Bay posts one hundred years ago, when the route from the Pine, the Peace and the Fraser Rivers brought the furs and merchandise through this gateway. At the present time there is only a band of Shuswap Indians camped on the south side of the Fraser, and as soon as the steel reaches this locality and civilization with its kodaks and pocket books will effect the establishment of a permanent order of
