You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky, and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig out the corners and drive out the decayed food particles. Moreover, soap leaves your dishes with a soapy, animal fat smell that is far from inviting.

GOLD DUST is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. GOLD DUST sterilizes, as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, GOLD DUST will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

"Let the GOLD DUST Twins do your work."

THE SECRET of PAUL FARLEY

The train was in motion. Paul shot a swift glance upward which transfigured his whole face and brought a curious expression into the grey eyes above him. He released his hand, stepped back, lifted his hat ever so slightly, and turned away.

TECUMSEH BURIED WHERE HE FELL

From The London Free Press.

The body of the great Shawnee chief, Tecumseh, lies near to where he fell, fighting with the British, at the battle of the Thames, on October 5th, 1813, according to Mr. Jacob Logan, of the Muncey Reserve.

Mr. Logan, who is a delegate from Tecumseh Lodge, Muncey, to the Orange Grand Lodge, told a most interesting story to The Free Press. Information appears to be his which Governments and historians have many times during the last century sought to buy. He is prepared to assist the proper authorities in locating the last resting place of Tecumseh's bones, so that a fitting monument may be raised to the warrior's memory.

"I was down at Brantford some time ago," said Mr. Logan, "and I saw standing in the park there a statue of Joseph Brant. I thought there ought to be one also over the grave of Tecumseh. He was a great warrior. I will not say too much just now, but I can repeat every word of what I heard.

"My grandfather, Abraham Huff, was at the battle where Tecumseh was killed. Tecumseh was shot three times, and the third wound killed him. Before he died, he made the request of Captain Pheasant, one of the British officers, to have his remains buried, instead of slung up high, as was the custom. He called upon Captain Pheasant to keep the secret of the location of the grave, and never to make it known.

"Captain Pheasant one night told my grandfather. They stood by the fireplace, and talked as I lay half asleep. I was a boy of about 14 or 15 then. When I heard what they were talking about, I listened very carefully, and I could repeat every word. I remember Pheasant saying that he had to hurry in digging the grave because there were Yankees only thirty or forty yards away, and I suppose it is perhaps not more than three feet deep.

"With the body were laid a tomahawk and rifle, so that surely these could be found. You see, the Indians were fighting on one end of the line and the volunteers on the other. Tecumseh was on the right, with the volunteers, and even his relatives did not know that he had been killed until after the body had been buried.

"The Government wanted to find out where Tecumseh's body was, I think just before Alexander Mackenzie was head of the Government, but old Captain Pheasant would never tell. He only got mad and walked away. His son said to him, 'No harm to tell,' but he was firm."

Mr. Logan says there is no truth in the story that Tecumseh's body was later removed. At the time of the burial the territory was Indian land but the district is not now included in the reserve. The grave itself is on the Longwood road, he says.

Mr. Logan also makes the interesting statement that his grandfather, Abraham Huff, was of New York Dutch origin, but was brought up with the Indians, and that there are quite a number at Muncey with some Dutch blood in their veins. It is well known that the Muncey Indians came over from New York State. Mr. Logan recalls that the tribe was the first to sign a treaty with the British.

INSINCERITY IN DAILY LIFE.

The evidences of insincerity that meet our eye on every side in daily life cannot fail to have a detrimental effect. When we begin to condone dishonesty in the goods we buy we insensibly lower our own standard. We have become so used to the idea that the commercial market demands concessions that we have given up the ideal of surrounding ourselves with what is true, and accept pretense and carelessness as inevitable adjuncts of our household goods. We therefore buy deal furniture painted in imitation of mahogany or walnut, and "see no difference" between it and the real. The fact that the furniture sets out to be something which it is not does not strike us as immoral, yet that furniture is a concrete lie.

NEW PAPER FROM OLD.

A Berlin scientist has discovered a process by which discarded old newspapers can be converted into fine new paper ready to run thro' the printing presses for another edition. The paper can be used over and over again.

An alkaline preparation is used in removing the inks from the old papers. Then the pulp is put through a process with a little new material added, which produces nice, clear paper, as good as the original material. The latter process has been tried for a number of years, but when the coloring matter remained in the pulp it was not possible to produce good paper.

By this new discovery, says The Fourth Estate, old papers will become more valuable, and a great trade will be established at once in the larger cities, where thousands of tons of refuse material in the shape of unused or discarded printed matter will be collected. The process may in a measure solve the raw product problem which has been confronting paper manufacturers for some time owing to the scarcity of matter from which good pulp can be made.

CHILDREN UNINJURED

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They may cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy, which we know, for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild, but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies commonly completely relieve constipation except of course when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Three sizes of packages, 10 cents, 25 cents, and 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Durham, only at our store—The Rexall Store, Macfarlane & Co.

TAKING BIG RISKS.

The boss is rich as he can be. The business must be paying. But it is mighty strange to me it is not fast decaying. I wonder that it's not long dead. With such a numskull at its head.

He seems oblivious of ways Of bettering conditions; Most awful judgment he displays In filling his positions, For in the best ones he retains The men who've not an ounce of brains.

These lobsters he will elevate, And keep completely under The fellows who are up to date, Which seems to be a blunder You'd think that if a man were wise, True virtue he would recognize.

I worked a year and got the pay I got when first he hired me, Not only that—the other day The old chump came and fired me. But you will see. Unless I'm wrong That business won't last very long.

THE WAITING GAME.

The bachelor and the benedict were returning home after a night at the club.

"Ah, you lucky married man!" sighed the bachelor. "Think of having a hearthstone, a real home, a waiting welcome! Look—there is a light in the window for you!"

"Gracious! So there is," muttered the benedict. "Well, there's only one way out of that—let's go back to the club."

Concrete-mixing is Easily Learned

It is no more difficult than mixing bran mash, once the simple instructions have been read. The materials—sand, crushed rock or gravel and cement—each play a separate part. The rock provides the bulk of volume at very low cost. The sand fills in all crevices between the pieces of rock or gravel. The cement, mixed with water, forms a "bond," in other words a rocky "glue," that binds the other materials firmly together.

with a strength that increases with time. Concrete is really artificial rock, more firmly bound together than natural rock, which often has cracks, veins, fissures and other weaknesses. Any farmer can learn how to mix Concrete and to apply it to the hundreds of uses to which it is fitted. But in order to be absolutely sure that his proportions are correct and that his materials are properly suited to the purpose, he should send for the book,

"WHAT THE FARMER CAN DO WITH CONCRETE," and read the careful directions for mixing Concrete for all purposes. It also describes in detail hundreds of ways in which Concrete may be used to make the farm more comfortable, more convenient, more profitable and more valuable.
