FORTY MEN COULD NOT HAVE SEEN ICEBERG IN TIME. J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star Line, made some important additions to his testimony in the United States, when on the stand in London last week at the Board of Trade enquiry into the Titanic disaster.

Ismay explained the relations between the White Star and the International Mercantile Marine Company. Asked by Lord Mersey why the American company, which really owned the steamers of the various companies in the combine, preferred to have them under the British flag, the witness replied that as the vessels were built in England, they could not have American register. He also explained that the combine held only a controlling interest in the Leyland Line, to which the Californian belonged.

At this point, the attorney for the Seamen's Union enquired, "What right had you, as an ordinary passenger, as you have described yourself, to dictate to the captain concerning the speed of his ship?" Lord Mersey interrupted, saying, "I can answer that. He had no right at all."

Attorney—If those in charge of the ship had warned the passengers of the White Star, could not more have been saved? Lord Mersey.—That is a question for me to decide.

Lord Mersey expressed the opinion that if forty men had been on the lookout they could not have seen the iceberg in time to avoid a collision, and glasses would not have helped them.

JAPANESE LIFEBOAT CARDS.

A correspondent of the New York Times says: When taking two voyages recently on vessels of the Japanese steamships, operated by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha (Oriental Steamship Co.), operating between San Francisco, Japan and Hong Kong, my attention was called, when entering my cabin for the first time on each voyage, to a plainly printed card which was framed and hung in the cabin in a prominent place. This card gave the number and the location of the particular lifeboat to which the occupants of that cabin were assigned, and if recalled correctly, stated the officer in charge of that boat. Having my attention called thus to the place allotted to me in case of disaster, it was natural to go to that boat to find where and what it was, and I found that other passengers had done the same thing. In like manner also, one became acquainted with the officer in whose charge he would be in case of trouble.

TO PARADE NAKED CHILDREN.

Naked children by the score will, it is planned, appear in the streets through the congested quarter of the west ward of Chicago next week as a striking protest against the suffering brought to women and children by reason of the high price of kosher meat. This was decided upon at a meeting of Hebrew mothers on Saturday.

It is designed to attract the attention of the public to what they characterize as unnecessary high prices fixed by wholesalers and retailers upon the only meat they eat.

AMERICA'S FOSSIL CAMELS.

The first fossil camels ever found intact in America are being set up in the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh, and curious little animals they are, being not much larger than greyhounds, with slender legs and long necks.

These skeletons were clothed with flesh ages ago, and existed in the Nionrara Valley in Western Nebraska, where Prof. O.A. Peterson, of the Carnegie Museum, and Dr. F.B. Loomis, of Yale University found them.

These fossil camels are said to be the remote ancestors of the modern camels and dromedaries of Arabia and Africa, and of the llamas of South America. The camel originated in America. The earliest form being no larger than a European are. The species represented by the new specimens at Pittsburg is a later type, to be found in the Miocene strata. Twenty-nine specimens were found in more or less complete preservation. From the fact that all the skeletons were found in one spot it is believed that they constituted a herd which was suddenly mired to death or overtaken by some catastrophe of nature.—From Popular Mechanics Magazine.

PRESIDENT OF SWITZERLAND IS ONLY A FIGUREHEAD.

The President of Switzerland is so hedged about by the Constitution that, except for official purposes and to facilitate the exchange of courtesies and of amicable understandings with foreign nations he has no more standing than the other six members of the Council of which he forms a part. He is elected for one year, has no official residence, and his chief business is to sign the documents of the Bundesrat, or council of seven. His salary is, in our money, equal to about $3,600 a year, and there is no provision for private expenses, such as travelling, or entertaining. He is expected to live in the capital of the country during the year he holds office. His associate members in the Bundesrat get $3000 a year, and they are elected for three years, their votes having the same force as that of the President.

As a rule the President of Switzerland is before election a member of this Council, and is elected to the higher office without opposition; but in 1853 he had a rival, and though he won in the election he was unable to support what in his country is looked upon as an affront, and committed suicide before his inauguration. In this connection it might be well to note, too, that Switzerland is the one country on the globe where it costs nothing to die, as in certain cantons rich and poor are buried at the expense of the State.—Harper's Weekly.

WHAT TOADS ARE WORTH.

Science offers a new solution for the bug problem. It is to employ in its professional capacity, so to speak, the toad—the ordinary hop toad of the field and garden—as an insect destroyer, declares a writer to the Technical World magazine.

In this business the humble toad is unequalled by any other living animal. He is the greatest bug exterminator in the world. It is entirely practicable to utilize his services on an extensive scale, employing him systematically as an ally, to keep in check the insects which levy an annual tax of over eight hundred million dollars upon our agricultural resources.

There is no reason why the farmers of the country should not hatch and rear their own supply of toads for local service. With a pond, or even a small pool insured against drying up during late spring, the creatures will breed of their own accord in any desired numbers up to the limit of food supply available in the shape of insects. But one thing absolutely essential is that they shall be protected against their natural enemies, and by no means the least destructive of their enemies are small boys who, through mere thoughtlessness, kill toads whenever they get a chance.

It is estimated that an average toad is worth to the farmer five dollars a year for the cut-worms alone which it destroys. But this is only one item. The amount a toad will eat is astonishing. A large specimen has been known to devour one hundred rose beetles at a single meal. One toad needed 77 myria-pods—the common household centipede—to satisfy his appetite; another, fifty-five army-worms; and yet another, sixty-five gypsy-moth caterpillars. Still another toad was seen to eat thirty-five large, full-grown celery worms in three hours, while another accepted eighty-six flies, fed to him in less than ten minutes.

It is a common thing, when the occupants of an ants' nest are swarming, and the insects are emerging in large numbers, to see an enterprising toad sit at the entrance of the burrow and snap up every ant that comes out. The slaughter he accomplishes under such circumstances is frightful. But, of course, most ants are not reckoned as insects injurious to man; and the toad unquestionably destroys some species which are beneficial to the farmer. Upon the whole, he is immensely useful, devouring countless numbers of the very worst bug foes of the crops.

CORNER CONCERNS

Those who attended the circus in Mt. Forest on Saturday night, report it far short of what was advertised.

Mr. James Allan was so unfortunate as to lose a valuable mare last week through her having been turned onto fresh pasture while damp. She was an excellent brood mare and leaves a foal to be pail fed.

Mr. Wm. Allan has made some trips to Fairbairn of late. His daughter, Mrs. Aitkins, underwent a critical operation, which has proved quite successful.

The wet weather has done considerable damage to crops, so it appears, but just how much cannot be ascertained for some time.

We extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hunter, who a week ago joined heart and hand at the bride's home in Galt.

Mr. and Mrs. James Eccles, of Dromore, attended the service in St. Paul's on Sunday, and spent the evening at the home of your humble servant.

Rev. Thos. Farr will preach in St. Paul's church on Sunday. We will all be pleased to meet an old friend and neighbor again.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Marshall visited over the week end with friends in the vicinity of Mt. Forest.

Your Blyth's Corners man says lambs are a very scant crop down in his part owing to farmers not having sufficient nourishment for the ewes last fall and winter. The crops down there were so poor that the farmers were not able to feed a sheep, so to speak, yet his theory, we believe, must be correct, as so many sheep raisers over here have such an abundant crop of lambs.

An agent for rural telephones has been working in this part of late, with considerable success.

A sprain may as a rule be cured in from three to four days by applying Chamberlain's Liniment and observing the directions with each bottle. For sale by all dealers.

A POET SUCCESSFUL AND LAZY. Aspirants to success who are discouraged by the very early rising of Coke and Kant should think of the successful poet Thomson, and be comforted. For Thomson was one of the laziest men that lived, and seldom rose before noon. And yet in "The Seasons" he managed to give us one of our finest descriptions of a sunrise. It is said of him that he would eat the sunny side off the peaches in his garden with his hands in his pockets but when such late rising and his Castle of Indolence did not prevent his becoming famous, —London Chronicle.
