Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Here He Is-

are just the right medicine for the children. When they are constipated -when their kidneys are out of order -when over-indulgence in some favorite food gives them indigestion -Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills will quickly and surely put them right. Purely vegetable, they neither sicken, weaken or gripe, like harsh purgatives. Guard your children's health by always keeping a box of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills in the house, They

Swat Him!

Or, Better Yet-

Prevent the my from breeding by screening stables, keeping manure in closed pits or bins and sprinkling it with dry plaster or slaked lime.

Under the Swatter's Banner. Of course it isn't pleasant to think of flies trailing their contaminated wings over your food, but you can't make war with rosewater, and civilization has declared was on the fly. Therefore you must think of these things. If the pest is to be exterminated it must be in the home, and every housewife must become a crusader and march under the sign of the swatter. When that instrument of man's supremacy and enlightenment shall hang over every mantel in the land-even displacing the crayon portrait of grandfather, if necessary—then, and not till then, the fly's epitaph will be written. In hoc signo vinces (by this sign you shall conquer.)-New York Times, June 5, 1911.

A HOMEMADE FLY POISON.

Beat together the yolk of one egg, one-third cupful sweet milk, one level tablespoonful of sugar and a level teaspoonful of black pepper. Put on plates and set where files abound. After a few hours, says Emma P. Telford, you will find the floor covered with dead or stunned flies. Sweep up and burn

FARMERS MUST FIGHT THE PEST.

Don't allow the manure to accumulate about the barns. Manure is the principal breeding place for flies. Flies do not travel great distances. Most of their life is spent close to where they are hatched and where they get their food. Keep the garbage can closed. Screen the doors and the windows of the farmhouse. Do not pour slop, skimmilk or other hog feed on the ground. Filth and flies have no place in modern standards of living.-Kansas Farmer.

WINGED SCAVENGERS.

Travelers tell us that many oriental countries are content to let dogs be their scavengers and do the work of garbage cans and carts.

We have long been content to let flies finish up after our street cleaners and careless stablemen and to infect our houses by means of their dirty

This mechanical transfer is a slight matter in comparison with the matter in filth too disgusting to describe. Probably ninety-five out of a hundred flies walking over our food were hatched in the filth of the stable or cesspool. - Bulletin of Health Education

Babyhood In Japan.

The great day in the Japanese child's life is the Miyamairi, or the temple visit, which may be said to correspond roughly with the western christening. The infant, if a boy, on the thirty-first day, and if a girl, on the thirty-third, is carried to the temple and is placed under the guardianship of a special deity chosen by the parents. For this occasion the most beautiful crape clothes that the parents or grandparents can afford are used, consisting of a set of three, the outer one being marked with the family crest and gay with silk linings. Except in dress, no difference is made in the first year or two of a male or female infant's life. White is the color of mourning and is never used for children. Scarlet is the baby's color, but after the first year the boy baby's clothing is of blue or brown and black striped materials, while the kimono of the little girl is much brighter, with large patterns of birds and flowers and leaves, with a profusion of crimson and pink, which diminishes with age.-Chicago Record-Herald

A Timely Light. A French minister tells of an incldent during a voyage to India: "One dark evening I sat in my cabin feeling thoroughly unwell, as the sea was rising fast and I was but a poor sailor. Suddenly the cry of 'Man overboard!' made me spring to my feet. I heard a trampling overhead, but resolved hot to go on dock lost I should interfere with the crew in their efforts to save the poor man.

"'What can I do?' I asked myself, and, instantly unbooking my lamp, I held it near the top of my cabin and close to my bullseye window, that its light might shine on the sea and aş near the ship as possible. In a half minute's time I heard the joyful cry, 'It's all right; he's safe!' upon which I put my lamp in its place. The next day, however, I was told that my little lamp was the sole means of saving the man's life. It was only by the timely light which shone upon him that the knotted rope could be thrown to as to come within his reach."-Christian Herald.

"Making the Best of Things." There are several injudicious ways of making the best of things. One of them is illustrated by the humble young curate, pictured long ago in Punch, who protested when the bishop, his host, expressed doubts of an egg the curate was eating, "Oh, no, my lord; I assure you some parts of it are excellent." Fancy looking on the bright side of a bad egg! The effort was surely less ingratiating than the curate supposed. Indeed, this habit of seeing good in everything may become the most unendurable of virtues-as distressing as grim patience, which is a common and effective method of wearing out the mind. I like to remember the complacent old lady who said when a friend reminded her that she had had little trouble in life, "Yes, but I've made the most of what I have had." She chose more wisely than the people who come exhausted out of their victories over circumstance. Wounds of the spirit are glorious only when the battle has been mighty.-Atlantic Monthly.

Where the Guns Kick Hard. Duck shooting at an altitude of 14,-000 feet, on the Junin pampa, along the shore of the lake of that name, is a sport that can be followed in Peru. Very peculiar effects are noted in this rarefied region, probably the highest altitude for this sport in the world. The guns kick viciously and the shot does not scatter promptly, making long shots successful. This phenomenon is due to the lack of density of the air, which is only about eight pounds to the square inch against fifteen at sea level. Another interesting fact is that the ducks have no fishy taste, as fish do not exist in this altitude.

A Parson's Three Prices. A good tale is told of an old Welsh minister in the sixties who when written to as to his terms for officiating at special preaching festival replied that he had three prices: "For 15 shillings I will make all the people laugh, for a sovereign I will make them laugh and weep alternately, while for 30 shillings I will make them jump on top of the benches."-Cardiff Western Mail.

Undertakers. In England in 1614 undertakers were men of influence who undertook for a consideration to get such persons returned to parliament as would prove submissive to the royal will of King James 1. The three chief undertakers of 1614 were Lords Bacon, Somerset and Neville. They undertook to bribe the chief speakers and men of influence in parliament that year over to the side of the king, with but partial success. Then there were undertakers in Ireland in 1608. They were English and Scotch colonists sent to north Ireland and were each allotted 2,000 acres of land. They were men of capital and undertook to pay a mark a year for every six acres and to admit no recusant for tenants; hence the name as applied to them. But neither the histories nor the dictionaries give any reason for calling the men who bury our dead undertakers.

Granite Telegraph Poles. The great abundance of granite rocks and the lack of timber in the southern part of Switzerland have led to the employment of the former for purposes usually filled by the latter. Thus in many sections of the southern country the fences are of granite instead of wood, the supports for the grapevines are granite posts, and pavements, etc., are of granite. Perhaps the most striking departure from the ordinary, however, is the use of granite pillars in place of the usual wooden telegraph, telephone and electric power transmission poles. Near Lake Como and Lake Maggiore the old .highroads originally constructed by the Romans are fringed with granite pillars eighteen feet high carrying telegraph wires.-Popular Mechanics.

Where Gannets Swarm. One of the most remarkable sights in the world is Bird'island, in South Africa, for the reason that during some menths of the year it is literally covis to be seen anywhere. Day after day thousands of gannets strut around, and they are so close to each other that the whole island seems actually alive. Those who have seen this sight say that it is one which can never be forgotten.

NORWAY'S ARMY GO

One of the most fascinating military sights in the world is to watch Norwegian infantry, mounted on skis, with rifle and full marching-kit on his back, a Norwegian solder, when equipped with his snowshoes, can travel at the rate of thirty miles an hour on a slight grade, and even on level ground he can cover from fifteen to twenty miles an hour. The skis used by the Norwegian soldiers consist of flat pieces of wood 8 feet to 12 feet long, and 42 to 6 inches broad. The Norwegian infantryman is trained from childhood in the use of skis, and his skill is such that he glides in and out of the trees without a crackle to betray his whereabouts.
