Lesson I .- Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 6, 1912.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Mark vi, 45-56. Memory Verses, 49, 50-Golden Text, Matt. xiv, 27-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns,

This incident is recorded by Matthew, Mark and John, the latter telling us that when the people saw His mighty works they were inclined to take Him by force and make Him a king, so He departed into a mountain Himself alone (John vi, 15). They saw a man of unusual power under whose rule no one need ever be hungry or sick or die, and some thought He might be the looked for Messiah, and they would therefore proclaim Him king. They did not know that He was really the God appointed King of the Jews and did not understand that the rulers had rejected Him and were only watching their opportunity to kill Him. He knew all things and could wait His time, saying, "Even so, Father, for so it many for centuries. He held, howseemeth good in Thy sight." Here is another perplexing item to little faith. He sent the multitudes away in peace to rest, but sent these weary disciples out to a night of toil and into a storm, while He went up into a mountain | could not be perfect nor in any way apart to pray. Again let us say and acceptable to God. Faith without all hold it fast, "As for God His way is the works possible to it would not be to learn the necessary obedience for service in the kingdom by suffering, ever as He did. (Heb. ii, 10; v, 8; Phil. they were tossed with the waves. Some one has said that, while the feeding of the 5,000 sets before us our great commission to give living bread to the hungry multitudes, the boat in the storm with Jesus away on the of another feature of this present age, the conflict of the church with the him. world, the flesh and the devil, while the Lord Jesus is at the right hand of the Father on behalf of His tried and toiling people. We are certainly in a great conflict, not with flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against wicked spirits in heavenly places (Eph. vi, 12), and we need the whole armor of God to stand against the wiles of the devil. One great trouble is that we are too ignorant of his devices and are apt to be deceived by his religious activity and think it to be of God. Everything that does not honor Jesus as God and rest only on His great sacrifice for the formay seem, cannot be of God and must | not by sight. therefore be of the devil.

Consider, then, the hold that he has upon the vast majority of the people in the world; not only all in heathen- the rising Sun of Righteousness. As dom, with their many religions, but a great part of Christendom, including a very simple matter. Knowledge all the isms which deny the supernatural birth of Jesus, His deity, His spot- second place. Then good works will less life, His death as our substitute, gradually become the test and man-His present ministry at the right hand the willing and obedient will be able His literal resurrection from the dead, of the Father and His coming again to do better and better until finally to set up His kingdom of righteous- by the time of the close of Messiah's ness and peace on the earth. Truly reign, all the willing and obedient the winds are contrary, and, though the | will be perfected and able to do perstorm is not yet as great as it will be, fect works. And their judgment will it is already quite severe. In our own be according to works. Only the perland just now the highest among the fect will be granted everlasting life people are devoted to Unitarianism and Roman Catholicism, and it is far from wise in the eyes of many to say a word against either.

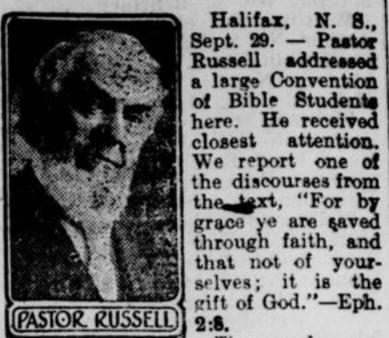

It is a good time for such as Daniel and his friends, for such as will bow to none but the living and true God. It looks like the time when the adversary shall speak great words against the Most High and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and many shall be purified, made white and tried. (Dan. vii, 25; xii, 10.) It also looks to many as it did to the disciples in the boat, as if the Lord neither saw nor cared. How comforting then, are the words, "He saw them toiling in rowing" (48). When it seemed dark as midnight to Israel because of the oppression of the Egyptians the Lord said to Moses, "I have seen, I have heard, I know, I am come down to deliver." (Ex. iii, 7, 8.) When Peter was in prison, after James had been beheaded, and unceasing prayer was made by the church unto God for him, it was not until the last night that the angel delivered him, but he was not too lete and never is.

In the morning watch Jesus came walking on the sea, and when they received Him into the ship the wind seased, and immediately they were at their destination (verse 51; John vi, 21). So it will be again. In that morning that is drawing near He will come, and instantly His people shall be with Him in the air, their toil and conflict forever ended. Let us all be patient till the morning. (II Sam. xxiii, 4; Ps. xlix. In proportion as Divine providence 14; cxxx, 6.) To their fears He said, grants us knowledge of Divine trings "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not it is possible for us to exercise faith afraid" (veuse 50). He is ever the proportionstely. And our works in same and is saying the same words to harmony with such faith demonstrate all our fears. May we have 'ears to the sincerity and strength of our bear. By His power Peter also walked on the water and might have walked farther if he had kept his eyes on Jesus and had not thought of wind or edge paves the way for faith and be waves. The one thing always lacking getting of the Holy Spirit. Then works on our part is faith. The admonition to the extent of opportunity should we constantly need is, "Have faith in demonstrate the degree and quantity God." "Be not afraid; only believe." and sincerity and loyalty of the faith.

NOT NOW BY WORKS

It is Not of Yourselves; it is the Gift of God.

Pastor Russell Points Out That Present Age Is the Faith Age-Next Age Will Be the Age of Works-Address to a Large Convention of Bible Students.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 29. - Pastor Russell addressed a large Convention of Bible Studente here. He received closest attention. We report one of the discourses from the text, "For by grace ye are saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the

The speaker conceded that the subject of faith and its relation to salvation had been considerably confused in the minds of ever, that clearer views are now permeating Christian minds and hearts and that the conflict between salvation by faith and salvation by works is at an end. Both are now seen to be necessary. Works devoid of faith perfect." "Just and true are Thy a living faith but merely passive ways, thou King of nations." (Ps. assent, which is not what God rexviii, 30; Rev. xv. 3.) If we are His by quires of those who would be footstep His precious blood we must be willing followers of Jesus. The judgment of the Church determines for each member life or death eternal-and if life, what the degree of glory, honor, Divine favor, "as star differeth from i, 29.) Trials are essential as part of star in glory." Thus St. James our training. (I Pet. iv. 12, 13.) Verse points out that a faith which gives 48 says that the wind was contrary. In no manifestation to do good should John vi, 18, it is said that it was a be styled a dead faith and would be great wind, and in Matt. xiv, 24, that | valueless in God's sight. He demonstrates his argument respecting the necessity of works by reminding us that although Abraham was justified by faith and not by works, nevertheless he was not justified without works but was required to demonstrate his faith by his works, even mountain top is wonderfully suggestive | though his works were imperfect and could not of themselves have justified

Pastor Russell declared the present Age the Age of faith and the oncoming period of Messiah's Kingdom the Age of works. He cautioned his hearers, nevertheless, that, in harmony with what he had already shown in the Scriptures that this would not mean that no works are now required nor that in the future Age no faith would be required. The standard or test now is faith and not works. The standard or test of the next Age will be works, not faith. The reason of this difference, he said, was manifest: because of the fallen condition of the entire race none could do perfect works now, and, if judged by works, all would be condemned afresh. Hence God now in dealing with the Church giveness of sins, however religious it requires them to walk by faith and In the next Age, during Messish's reign, he claimed that all the clouds and darkness, all the ignorance and superstition, would pass away before a result faith in the next Age will be will be so great that faith will take kind will gradually rise out of imbeyond the Messianic Kingdom.

Everything that God has arranged for human salvation is properly said to be of His grace. God is not bound by justice to do anything at all for humanity; therefore whatever is done is of Grace or unmerited favor. The next Age also will indirectly be an Age of Grace in that all the blessings that will go to mankind in the way of earthly restitution will be unmerited, so far as they are concerned. But the Grace of that time will more particularly be the Grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, because all those blessings will come from His having met the demands of Justice on man's behalf. And during the thousand years of His Reign He will be merely giving to mankind that which He purchased with His own sacrifice ..

But the present Age is peculiarly one of Divine Grace because the carl of the Church and the great blessing she is to receive as the Bride of Christ is something more than was purchased by the death of Jesus. Jesus merely purchased human rights and human nature for mankind by the sacrifice of His ewn human rights and human nature. God's grace is manifest now in that the Church is called to a glory, honor, immortality, Divine nature, which she never had and never lost and which was never redeemed by Jesus' sacrifice or other-

How shall we understand, this statement? Surely God does not exercise faith for us and then consider it something on our part which He is willing to reward. The explana-tion is this: Faith is possible only where it has a basis of knowledge.

The same principle continues throughout this Christian age. Grace opens the way to knowledge. Knowl-
