CHURCHES JOINING FIGHT AGAINST WHITE PLAGUE.

December 1st will be observed as Tuberculosis Sunday throughout the province of Ontario. A movement fraught with tremendous possibilities for good has been launched in the form of a request that the churches of Ontario should set aside each year a Sabbath to be observed as "Tuberculosis Sunday." The Interdenominational Ministerial Association of Toronto gave a ready assent when the proposal was laid before them, and they have fixed upon Sunday, December 1st, as the day upon which they will seek to awake the sympathy and interest of their congregations in the noble work being done to succor needy consumptives, stay the ravages of the disease, educate the public in preventive measures, and finally stamp out the scourge of tuberculosis. A general appeal issued to the clergy of all denominations in Ontario is meeting with a cordial response, and in hundreds of pulpits the sermons of December 1st will be devoted to this vitally important subject. The active co-operation of the churches of the province should result in a mighty impetus being given to the war upon tuberculosis in Ontario.

CHINESE FURNITURE.

Practically all Chinese furniture—even planned table tops and the most intricate and delicate fittings—is hand made. Furniture is planned in parts which generally dovetail together in order to eliminate screws or nails and the various parts are shaped for the carver. The latter squats on the earth floor and works with various knives, chisels and other tools of native workmanship, but with no other vise or bench than his legs, toes, and the earth floor, or, in exceptional cases, a log combination of seat and bench. Workmen in these shops are practically bred to the business. An apprentice serves three years with no other pay than his rice. He then earns perhaps $10 silver or $4.50 gold a month for several years. A full-fledged carver will ordinarily receive $20 silver or $9.50 gold a month.

YOUNGEST WOMAN PASTOR.

Rev. Miss Ina L. Morgan, of the Methodist church of Georgetown and Arrowsic, Maine, is the youngest woman pastor in New England. She is in her early twenties and has been engaged in church work for nearly four years, having received a license in 1908 from Bishop John W. Hamilton, of Worcester.

LAST WORDS.

(The Explanation of the Patient's Anxiety About His Letter.

In a New York hospital a cadaverous Spaniard, with the aid of oxygen and a pump, was staving off the final moment of exit. Rallying temporarily, he stretched out a hand and clutched at the arm of the nurse, motioning her to lean over and put her ear to his mouth. "My doctor go?" "Yes, he's gone." "Shut a door?" "Lock him," he begged—it was the custom to humor the dying.

He beckoned her closer and pulled her down to him again. "You make promise?" "Yes, indeed. What is it?" "Get paper, pencil and—what you call?—envelope." Shielding his writing with one hand he managed to scrawl a single line on the note paper and to address the message, but before loosening his hold on the paper he called her to him once more.

"Now, you promise for me again? You promise you not show this to doctor. Not show it to night nurse—not to anybody? Just mail it—you promise?" She nodded. He slipped the sheet from the envelope once more, grinning with what had every appearance of fiendish exultation.

"That fix him," he muttered. "That fix him." An hour later, when the doctor returned, he found the nurse crying. "He died fifteen minutes ago, and I don't know what to do. I ought to mail this, but I'm afraid it's some Black Hand business or something. Would you be willing to look it over and see if it's all right to send? You read Spanish." She handed him the letter.

He glanced at the one single line and shook his head. "Is it a Black Hand message?" she whispered. "No," he said plaintively; "it's to his brother. He just writes, 'Don't pay the doctor.'"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Folly of Betting. William B. Trembley, the swimming hero of Funston's regiment in the Philippines, visited New Orleans with a friend while city clerk of Kansas City. Kan. Riding down Dauphine street one morning, the friend was boasting how he would bankrupt the bookmakers. Looking up from the paper he was reading, Trembley saw a boulevard ahead marked "Oleander way."

"You beat the races!" he exclaimed. "Why, I'll bet you $10 you can't guess the name of that street yonder." The friend looked ahead and saw the sign. "I'll take you, even money," he said. "It's Oleander way, you rummy. There's the sign."

"So it is," said Trembley, "but you oughtn't to believe in signs. Look here." Trembley, being a city clerk, naturally was attracted by a column story of the proceedings of the New Orleans council on the night before. Right in the lead paragraph he showed his friend the tragic evidence—the passage of an ordinance changing the name of Oleander way to Jackson boulevard.—Kansas City Star.

His Choice of Weapons. John P. Irish of San Francisco was counsel before the state department in the matter of a claim of an American client against one of the Latin American republics. The Latin republic didn't want to pay, and there was a long dispute, during which the representative of the southern country claimed Irish had put a stain on his honor and said he intended to challenge Irish to a duel.

John Hay, then secretary of state, told Irish about the affair and asked, "What will you do, Irish?" "Accept it, of course." "Accept it?" "Certainly, and I shall name the weapons."

"What weapons shall you choose?" "Feet," exclaimed Irish, "good low feet, the kind I was born with, and I'll kick that diplomatist down the street until the police interfere with the proceedings."—Saturday Evening Post.

Expert Opinion. "I've lost my hat. You're not sitting on it, are you, sir?" "Is it a stiff hat or a soft one?" "A soft one." "No; this isn't yours."—Meggendorfe Blatter.

In Search of Useful Information. Donald and Jeanie were putting down a carpet. Donald slammed the end of his thumb with the hammer and began to pour forth his soul in language befitting the occasion. "Donald! Donald!" shrieked Jeanie, horrified. "Dinna swear that way!" "Wummun," vociferated Donald, "zin ye know any better way now is the time to let me know it!"—Current Literature.

IMMUNE.

He laughed with glee and said, said he: "I care not, no, not I. The price of beef brings me no grief; Let it go to the sky. And butter may go all the way To sixty cents a pound. While folk may beg to get an egg: Serene I shall be found.

"Were folk like me you'd quickly see Food prices take a fall. For trusts so bold, with goods unsold, Would soon begin to crawl. They'd make a flop, and rates would drop. Be cheap as cheap could be. The way to bust each wicked trust Is to become like me.

"I do not care for food that's rare. Care not for food that's plain. Why, its mere sight upsets me quite; To taste it gives me pain. What do I eat? I simply heat Some water in a pan And melt in it a gluten grit. I've got dyspepsia, man!" —New York Press.

Her Answer. He—You are very vain of your beauty. Believe me, beauty passes. "Yes, and ugliness lasts"—Pages Folles

Cause of the Uproar. "Hey, officer, why don't you hurry over there to stop the trouble?" "Over where?" "Across the street there. Don't you see all those women fighting and scrambling? It's your duty to turn in a riot call. Come on; I'll help you till re-enforcements arrive."

"You stay away from there." "What do you mean? Do you propose to stand here and let those women claw at one another and perhaps cause a tragedy?" "You go on about your business and never mind them women."

"But I insist that it is my duty as a citizen to interfere, and I shall report you to headquarters for your failure to look at them! The trouble's getting worse. They'll be smashing their parasols over one another in a minute. I'm going to telephone to the city hall for—"

"You'll do nothin' of the kind, and if you don't go on about your business I'll run you in." "Man, you're crazy. Do you propose to stand here and see those women trample one another under foot and tear off one another's clothes? Something horrible must have happened. Listen! Say, this is terrible. Come on, your frenzy is increasing. Turn in a general alarm."

"Say, what's the matter with you? Can't you read the sign above that door? That's an employment agency, and them women have just heard that there's a girl inside who's willin' to do housework."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Hypocrite. The Rev. George R. Lunn, the new mayor of Schenectady, says, "I don't preach 'Give to the poor,' but 'Stop taking from the poor.'" Mr. Lunn, discussing this dictum the other day, said: "The millionaire social reformer, unless he is a very sincere man, always reminds me of the husband who brought home one evening a bottle of champagne and a lobster."

"It is your birthday, dear," he said to his wife, and I purchased these delicacies as a little treat for you this evening with your birthday dinner." "You are very kind," the woman answered, "but I thought you knew I never touch champagne, love, while lobster invariably disagrees with me."

"Never mind, my dear, never mind," the husband answered. "That being the case, I'll just eat the lobster myself and drink the champagne to your health."—Albany Journal.

A REMARKABLE OPERATION.

One of the most remarkable, likewise successful operations ever performed, was that which was done on a 14-year-old boy in a Baltimore hospital, recently. The boy had been unable to move his jaws since birth, and his parents had found it necessary to feed him through a tube, for his jaw-bones were stiff, with no normal "hinges." The surgeon cut through the solid mass of bone, where the joint should have been, and molded upon the sections actual joints, such as nature normally provides. The boy can now move his jaws as well as any other person.

A jellyfish weighing one pound contains over 15 ounces of water. Ireland has 3,363 miles of railways, of which 889 are controlled by no fewer than twelve different companies.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.

Written on Glass. Miss Harriet Auber's beautiful lines, "Our Blessed Redeemer, Ere He Breathed," were written by the authoress on a windowpane in her home at Huddesdon. A dealer in curios tried to purchase this interesting and peculiar manuscript from the owner of the house after the death of Miss Auber in 1862, but he was unsuccessful. The pane of glass was subsequently stolen, and it has never since been found or its fate discovered.

Centuries ago Theodolph, bishop of Orleans, while in prison at Metz composed the hymn, "All Glory, Laud and Honor," which he wrote on the window of his cell. As the usual Palm Sunday procession passed through the town the emperor heard sounds of singing proceeding from the prison. He thereupon liberated the bishop whose hymn was afterward regularly used on each succeeding Palm Sunday as a processional, the choir taking each quatrains and the public joining in singing the chorus.
