Thousands of ambitious young people are being instructed in heir homes by our Home Study Dept. You may finish at College if you desire. Pay whenever you wish. Thirty Years' Experience. Largest trainers in Canada. Enter any day. Positions guaranteed. If you wish to save board and learn while you earn, write for particulars.

NO VACATION

Walkerton Business College GEO. SPOTTON, President

Pumps, Curbing, Tile

ANYONE ONE NEEDING New Pumps, Pump Repairs, Cement Curbing or Culvert Tile, see . . . JNO. SCHULTZ or myself at the shop

George Whitmore

-THE-BIG 4

HE SELLS CHEAP

CURTAINS

WE HAVE THEM

2 yds. long, 27 in. wide, 25c. pair " 50c. "

37 in. " 75c. " 60 in. " 1.00. "

58 in. " 1.00. "

54 in. " 1.50 "

W. H. BEAN

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

and the state of the

We handle the well known brands of Flour such as

Five Roses Chesley Good Luck Milverton Three Jewel

McGowan's Eclipse and Sovereign

WINDSOR SALT BRAN and SHORTS

Goods delivered to all parts of the town on short notice.

always kept in stock.

MRS. A. BEGGS & SON

Alma (Ladies) College

ST. THOMAS, ONT.

Unsurpassed for residential education. The "Ideal College-Home" in which to secure a training for your life's work. Thorough courses in Music, Painting, Oratory, High School, Business College and Domestic Large campus, inspiring environ-Resident nurse insures health of students. Rates moderate. Every girl needs an ALMA training. Handsome prospectus sent on application to Principal. 42

TOYS WILL BE DEARER. Owing to the price of tin being higher than for the past thirty years, Christmas toys may cost more. The forecast of a high authority on the London Metal Market, uttered Friday, indicates that the price of tin-a year ago $950, and to-day about $1150 per tonwill go still higher in the coming year. Sixpenny tramcars, said a wholesale toy merchant, have been put up by the maker by about 75c. a gross, and when the wholesaler has taken his legitimate profit, there is nothing left for the retailer if he still sells the article at 12c. The same condition applies to the 25c. toys.

Throughout the world the total She Actually Fried the Bacon Herself. number of Roman Catholics is estimated at 264,500,000, and of placency upon her, confident and sat-

Britain and Ireland.

CHAPTER III.

The Story and the Letters. Imagine, if you please, the forest primeval; yes, the murmuring pines and the hemlocks of the poem as well, by the side of a rapidly rushing mountain torrent fed by the eternal snows of the lofty peaks of the great range. A level stretch of grassy land where a mountain brook joined the creek was dotted with clumps of pines and great boulders rolled down from the everlasting hills-half an acre of open clearing. On the opposite side of the brook the canon wall rose almost sheer for perhaps five hundred feet, ending in jagged, needle-edged pinnacles of rock, sharp, picturesque and beautiful. A thousand feet above ran est peak in the main range. The white tents of the little encampment which had gleamed so brightly in the clear air and radiant sunshine of Colorado, now stood dim and ghostlike in the red reflection of a huge campfire. It was the evening of the first day in the wilderness.

as cold as ice, as clear as crystal and as soft as milk. There was pasthe other side of the mountain brook. haps the first time since creation.

Unpacking the burros, setting up the tents, making the camp, building ers had great difficulty in keeping the the fire, had used up the late remainder of the day which was theirs when they had arrived. Opportunity would stinate, cross-grained and determined come tomorrow to explore the country, to climb the range, to try the stream that tumbled down a succession of waterfalls to the right of the camp and roared and rushed merrily around its feet until, swelled by the volume of the brook, it lost itself in tree-clad depths far beneath. Tonight rest after labor, tomorrow play after

The evening meal was over. Enid could not help think with what scorn and contempt her father would have regarded the menu, how his gorge would have risen-hers, too, for that matter!-had it been placed before him on the old colonial mahogany of the dining-room in Philadelphia. But up there in the wilds she had eaten the coarse homely fare with the zest of the hills. Anxious to be of service, she had burned her hands and smoked her hair and scorched her face by usurping the functions of the young ranchman who had been brought along as cook, and had actually fried the bacon herself! Imagine a goddess with a frying pan! The black thick coffee and the condensed milk, drunk from the granite ware cup, had a more delicious aroma and a more delight ful taste than the finest Mocha and Java in the daintiest porcelain of France. Optimum condimentum. The girl was frankly ravenously hungry the air, the altitude, the exertion, the excitement made her able to eat any thing and enjoy it.

She was gloriously beautiful, too: even her brief experience in the west had brought back the missing roses to her cheek, and had banished the bistre circles from beneath her eyes Robert Maitland, lazily reclining propped up against a boulder, his feet to the fire, smoking an old pipe that would have given his brother the horrors, looked with approving com-these there are 5,758,000 in Great isfled that his prescription was working well. Nor was he the only one gimme cards an' grades an' beat me.

who looked at her that way. Marion and Emma, his two daughters, worshipped their handsome Philadelphia cousin and they sat one on either side of her on the great log lying between the tents and the fire. Even Bob Junior condescended to give her approving glances. The whole camp was at her feet. Mrs. Maitland had been greatly taken by her young niece. Kirkby made no secret of his devotion, Arthur Bradshaw and Henry Philips, each a "tenderfoot" of the extremist character, friends of business connections in the east, who were spending their vacation with Maitland, shared in the general devotion; to say nothing of George the cook and Pete, the packer and horse wrangler.

Philips, who was an old acquaintthe timber line, and four thousand ance of Enid's, had tried his luck with feet above that the crest of the great- her back east and had sense enough to accept as final his failure. Bradshaw was a solemn young man without that keen sense of humor which was characteristic of the west. The others were suitably dressed for adventure, for Bradshaw's idea of an appropriate costume was distinguished chiefly by long green felt puttees For two days since leaving the which swathed his huge calves and wagon, the Maitland party with its excited curious inquiry and ribald long train of burros heavily packed, comment from the surprised denizens its horsemen and the steady plodders of each mountain hamlet through on foot, had advanced into unexplored | which they had passed, to all of which and almost inaccessible retreats of Bradshaw remained serenely oblivious. the mountains-into the primitive in- The young man, who does enter espedeed! In this delightful spot they had | cially into this tale, was a vestryman pitched their tents and the perma- of the church in his home in the nent camp had been made. Wood suburbs of Philadelphia. His piety was abundant, the water at hand was | had been put to a severe strain in the mountains.

That day everybody had to work on turage for the horses and burros on the trail-everybody wanted to for that matter. The hardest labor con-The whole place was a little amphi- sisted in the driving of the burros. theater which humanity occupied per- Unfortunately there was no good and trained leader among them through an unavoidable mistake, and the campburros on the trail. To Arthur Bradshaw had been allotted the most obof the unruly band, and old Kirkby and George paid particular attention to instructing him in the gentle art of manipulating him over the rocky mountain trail.

"Wall," said Kirkby with his somewhat languid, drawling, nasal voice, "that there burro's like a ship wich I often seed 'em w'en I was a kid down east afore I come out to God's country. Nature has pervided 'em with a kind of a hellum. I remember if you wanted the boat to go to the right you shoved the hellum over to the left. Sta'boad an' port was the terms as I recollects 'em. It's jest the same with burros, you takes 'em by the tiller, that's by the tail, git a good tight twist on it an' ef you want him to head to the right, slew his stern and relish of the most seasoned ranger sheets around to the left, an' you got mule came wandering into the camp, to be keerful you don't git no kick back wich ef it lands on you is worse 'n the ree-coil of a mule."

Arthur faithfully followed directions, narrowly escaping the outraged brute's small but sharp pointed heels on occasion. His efforts not being productive of much success, finally in his despair he resorted to brute strength; he would pick the little animal up bodily, pack and all—he was a man of powerful physique—and swing him around until his head pointed in the right direction; then with a prayer that the burro would keep it there for a few rods anyway, he would set him down and start him all over again. The process oft repeated became monotonous after awhile. Arthur was a slow thinking man, deliberate in action; he stood it as long as he possibly could. Kirkby, who rode one horse and led two others, and therefore was exempt from burro driving, observed him with great interest. He and Bradshaw had strayed way behind the rest of the party.

At last Arthur's resistance, patience and piety, strained to the breaking point, gave way suddenly. Primitive instincts rose to the surface and overwhelmed him like a flood. He deliberately sat down on a fallen tree by the side of a trail, the burro halting obediently, turned and faced him with hanging head, apparently conscious that he merited the disapprobation that was being heaped upon him, for from the desperate tenderfoot there burst forth so amazing, so fluent, so comprehensive a torrent of assorted profanity, that even the old past master in objuration was astonished and bewildered. Where did Bradshaw, mild and inoffensive, get it? His proficiency would have appalled his rector and amazed his fellow vestrymen. Not the Jackdaw of Rheims himself was so cursed as that little burro. Kirkby sat on his horse

Arthur only stopped when he had the roughly emptied himself, possibly of an accumulation of years of repres-in fits of silent laughter until the tears ran down his cheek, the only outward and visible expression of his

"Wall," gaid Kirkby, "you sure do overmatch any one I ever heard w'en it comes to cursin'; w'y, you could an' I was thought to have some gift that-a-way in the old days."

"I didn't begin to exhaust myself," answered Bradshaw, shortly, "and what I did say didn't equal the situation. I'm going home."

"I wouldn't do that," urged the old man. "Here, you take the horses an' I'll tackle the burro."

"Gladly," said Arthur. "I would rather ride an elephant and drive a herd of them than waste another minute on this infernal little mule."

The story was too good to keep, and around the camp fire that night Kirkby drawled it forth. There was a freedom and easiness of intercourse in the camp, which was natural enough. Cook, teamster, driver, host, guest, men, women, children, and I had almost said burros, stood on the same level. They all ate and lived together. The higher up the mountain range you go, the deeper into the wilderness you plunge, the further away from the conventional you draw, the more homogeneous becomes society and the less obvious are the irrational and unscientific distinctions of the lowlands. The guinea stamp fades and the man and the woman are pure gold or base metal inherently and not by any artificial standard.

George, the cattle man, who cooked, and Pete, the horse wrangler, who assisted Kirkby in looking after the stock, enjoyed the episode uproariously, and would fain have had the exact language repeated to them, but here Robert Maitland demurred, much to Arthur's relief, for he was thoroughly humiliated by the whole performance. It was very pleasant lounging around the camp fire and one good story easily led to another.

"It was in these very mountains," said Robert Maitland, at last, when his turn came, "that there happened one of the strangest and most terrible adventures that I ever heard of. I have pretty much forgotten the lay of the land, but I think it wasn't very far from here that there is one of the most stupendous canons through the range; nobody ever goes there; I don't suppose anybody has ever been there since. It must have been at least five years ago that it all happened."

"It was four years an' nine months exactly, Bob," drawled old Kirkby, who well knew what was coming.

"Yes, I dare say you are right. I was up at Evergreen at the time looking after timber interests, when a

"It Was in These Very Mountains," Said Robert Maitland.

saddle and pack still on his back." "I knowed that there mule," said

Kirkby, "I'd sold it to a feller named Newbold, that had come out yere an' married Louise Rosser, old man Rosser's daughter, an' him dead, an' bein' an' orphan an' this feller bein' a fine young man from the east, not a bit of a tenderfoot nuther, a minin' engi neer he called hisself."

"Well, I happened to be there, too, you remember," continued Maitland "and they made up a party to go and hunt up the man, thinking something might have happened."

"You see," explained Kirkby, "v was all mighty fond of Louise Rosse the hull camp was actin' like a fathe to her at the time, so long 's s: hadn't nobody else; we was all at the weddin', too, some six months afor-

The gal married him on her own hook, of course nobody makin' her, but somehow she didn't seem none too happy, although Newbold, who was a perfect gent, treated her white as far as we knowed."

The old man stopped again and resumed his pipe. "Kirkby, you tell the story," said

Maitland. "Not me," said Kirkby. / "I have seen men shot afore for takin' words out 'n other men's mouths an' I ain't never done that yit." "You always were one of the most silent men I ever saw," laughed George. "Why, that day Pete yere got shot accidental an' had his whole breast tore out w'en we was lumbering over on Black mountain, all you axle grease on him an' tie him up.' "That's so," answered Pete, "an' there must have been somethin' powerful soothin' in that axle grease, for here I am safe an' sound to this day." "It takes an old man," assented said was, 'Wash him off, put some Kirkby, "to know when to keep his mouth shet. I learned it at the muzzle of a gun." "I never knew before," laughed Maitland, "how still a man you can be. Well, to resume the story, having nothing to do I went out with the posse the sheriff gathered up-" "Him not thinkin' there had been any foul play," ejaculated the old man. "No, certainly not." "Well, what happened, Uncle Bob?"

inquired Enid.

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle-wrapper. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities enderse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses

MRS. COFFEY.

This is what MRS. GENETTI E. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicines have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds-now I weigh 135.

"I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good.

"I hope this testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

Wool Wanted ANY QUANTITY

For which we will pay the highest price in CASH OR GOODS.

:*******

Bankets, Tweeds, Woollen Goods, Ready-made Clothing, Pines, F. uneilettes, Urockery and Groceries always in stock.

Semour Lisle Thread Gloves, full length at 25c.

Silk Gloves, double tippes, full length at 50c.

Call soon or you may not be able to be supplied

S SCOTT

"Just you wait," said young Boo, who had heard the story. "This is an awful good story, Cousin Enid." "I can't wait much longer," returned the girl. "Please go on." "Two days after we left the camp, Crawford, we came across an awful figure, ragged, blood stained, wasted to a skeleton, starved-"

"I have seed men in extreme cases afore," interposed Kirkby, "but never none like him."

"Nor I," continued Maitland. "Was it Newbold?" asked Enid. "Yes."

"And what had happened to him?" "He and his wife had been prospecting in these very mountains; she had fallen over a cliff and broken herself so terribly that Newbold had to shoot

"What!" exclaimed Bradshaw. "You don't mean that he actually killed

"That's what he done," answered old Kirkby. "Poor man," murmured Enid.

"But why?" asked Philips. settlement, there wasn't a human be lain's Liniment is cheaper, better. ing within a hundred and fifty miles Dampen a piece of flannel with it of them, not even an Indian," contin- and bind it over the affected parts ued Maitland. "She was so frightfully and it will relieve the pain and broken and mangled that he couldn't soreness. For sale by all dealers. carry her away."

"But why couldn't he leave her and go for help?" asked Bradshaw. "The wolves, the bears, or the vultures would have got her. These out in Berlin for using marble inwoods and mountains were full of stead of glass in lamps, which has them then and there are some of them the effect of making the illumina-left now I guess." The two little girls crept closer to their big cousin, each casting anxious glances beyond the fire light. drawin' a bead on a big b'ar."

"And so," continued Maitland, "when she begged him to shoot her, to put her out of her misery, he did so and then he started back to the settlement to tell his story and stumbled on us looking after him." "What happened then?"

"I went back to the camp," said Maitland. "We loaded Newbold on a mule and took him with us; he was was awful."

"Did he die?" "I don't think so," was the answer, "but really I know nothing further about him. There were some good women in that camp; we put him in their hands and I left shortly afterwards."

"I kin tell the rest," said old Kirkby. "Knowin' more about the mountains than most people hereabouts I led the men that didn't go back with Bob an' Newbold to the place w'ere he said his woman fell, an' there we found her, her body leastways."

"But the wolves?" queried the girl. "He'd drug her into a kind of a holler and piled rocks over her. He'd gone down into the canon, wich was something frightful, an' then climbed up to w'ere she'd lodged. We had plenty of rope, havin' brought it along a purpose, an' we let ourselves down to the shelf where she was a lyin'. We wrapped her body up in blankets an' roped it an' finally drug her up on the old Injun trail, leastways I suppose it was made afore there was any Injuns, an' brought her back to Evergreen camp, wich the only thing about it that was green was the swing doors on the saloon. We got a parson out from Denver an' give her a Christian burial." "Is that all?" asked Enid as the old man paused again." "Nope." "Oh, the man?" exclaimed the woman with quick intuition. "He recovered his senses so they told us, an' we'en we got back he'd

Continued on page 7.

Honour Roll for October

DURHAM

DURHAM SCHOOL. HIGH SCHOOL DEPT. Form III-R. Farquharson, J. Isaac, S. Kelsey, K. Sullivan, V.

Form II-M. Hutton, M. Leeson. E. Renwick, A. Edge, L. Mortley. Form I-E. Edge, R. Roberts, M. Prudham, M. McKechnie, M. Mc-Ilraith, J. Bell.

PUBLIC SCHOOL DEPT.

Sr. IV-T. Levine, D. McAuley, M. Daniel, G. Search, M. Hartford, Jr. IV-N. McKechnie, G. Lawson, E. Whitmore, R. Gun, C. Wakefield. Sr. II-R. Snell ,E. McDonald, M. Snell, V. Watt, W. Pilkey. Jr. II-C. Wiggins, W. Koch, W. Snell, M. Holmes, K. McAuliffe. Sr. Pt. II-W. Vollett, E. Mc-Queen, M. Bryon, E. Search, H. Eden.

Jr. Pt. II-R. Burnett, P. Morris, W. Collinson, H. Rowe, M. Mitchell and L. McDonald, equal.

Don't waste your money buying "They were five days away from a strengthening plasters. Chamber-

A LIGHT LIKE THAT OF DAY. Patents have just been taken tion scarcely distinguishable from Innumerable experidaylight. ments have been made with tinted and patterned types of glass with the idea of producing this effect, "Oh, you're all right, little gals," but all have been failures. As a said Kirkby reassuringly, "they last recourse, a sheet of white wouldn't come nigh us while this fire marble was planed down until it is burnin' an' they 've been pretty was semi-transparent, and then well hunted out I guess; 'sides there's different intensities of light were men yere who'd like nothin' better'n shown from behind. The result was exactly what so many hundreds of experiments had failed to Developing this discovery, the patentees have fitted lights to the cornice of a room with such success that it is difficult to prove that it is artificially lighted.

A Chicago woman leaped into so crazy he didn't know what was the water to save a man, who happening; he went over the shooting she discovered was her husband, again and again in his delirium. It But she was game, even then, and brought him ashore.

should have rich, red blood and sturdy, healthy bodies to withstand cold rains, changing seasons and winter storms.

If your child is weary when rising-lacks energy and ambition-has no appetite or possibly sallow skin or a pinched face—it is for want of vital bodynourishment; this growing period demands special, concentrated, easily digested food for body-development-mental strain-physical changes.

Scott's Emulsion is the greatest body-builder known-it is nature's wholesome strengthmaker-without alcohol or stimulant-makes rosy cheeks, active blood, sturdy frames and sound bodies.

But you must have SCOTT'S. Scott & Bowne, Toronto, Ontario 12-62