EARTHQUAKES OF A CENTURY

Some of the most notable of the earthquakes during the last hundred years are the following:

1797—Sanlata and Panama, 40,000 deaths.

1822—Bleppon destroyed, and 20,000 perished.

1851—Melfi, Southern Italy, 14,000 lives lost.

1856—Great Senger, "Moluccas," 3,000 deaths.

1857—Montemurro, Calabria, destroyed; 10,000 deaths.

1860—About 7,000 lives lost at Mendoza, Argentina.

1868—Many towns in Peru and Ecuador destroyed; 25,000 killed.

1875—San Jose, Spain, 14,000 killed.

1881—Casamicciola, Italy, 2,000 lives lost.

1885—Kashmere, 3,081 deaths.

1886—Tarawera, New Zealand, 101 lives lost.

1891—San Salvador, heavy mortality.

1893—Kuschan, Persia, 12,000 lost.

1896—Kamaishi, Japan, almost completely destroyed, 20,000 drowned by a tidal wave.

1902—Mont Pelee eruption, 30,000 killed.

1904—Severe shocks in Wellington, New Zealand, public buildings damaged, but no lives lost. Great damage and loss of life in northern India.

1905—Severe shocks in Calabria, Southern Italy, 5,000 killed.

1906—San Francisco, over 1,000 killed, and an enormous destruction of property. Valparaiso visited and 500 killed.

1907—Kingston, Jamaica, 900 lives lost. Shocks in Sicily, 156 killed.

1909—Messina, Italy, visited. From 50,000 to 100,000 killed.

SCHOOL BOY DRUNKARDS.

Remarkable statements concerning drunkenness amongst Russian school children are made by Mr. Consul H. M. Grove, in his report on the trade of the Moscow district for 1911. It is admitted, he writes, that inebriety is very rapidly increasing among the school children in Russia in general, and in Moscow and the Moscow province in particular. Out of 15,134 school boys in the Moscow province, from the ages of 8 to 12 years, 12,162, or 66 per cent., have taken to drink, and out of 10,404 girls of the same ages, 4,733, or 45 per cent., also drink.

THE DENTIST.

Let others knock him if they choose, But I shall evermore refuse. The dentist causes pain, 'tis true, But often he relieves it, too. For when I have a grumbling tooth That knows no tenderness nor ruth I seek the dentist's office out And have that toothache put to rout.

Then let us praise the dentist's skill, Nor kick about his little bill: For were he not so great a wiz, With bridges, crowns and things, Gee whiz! A lot of us who now can smile, Thus showing teeth of class and style, Would slink about ashamed instead Without a tooth within our head, Our beauty gone beyond repair, Our daily food reduced to soup!

And so, in spite of drills and such Which irritate us very much, We ought to sing a happy song To boost the dentist's work along!

For His Own Use.

Last week we referred to the seizure of supposed contraband goods in the customs at Listowel, consigned to Wm. Johnston, of Durham. The suspected parcel was forwarded here to Inspector Allan, and a court of enquiry called to ascertain from the consignee the use he intended to make of the consignment. Accordingly, on Thursday forenoon Mr. Johnston appeared before Magistrate Telford and Inspector Allan. Mr. Johnston admitted ordering the goods in question, and having paid for the same.

The purchase was made from a firm in Cincinnati in answer to an advertisement he saw in The Buffalo Courier. He ordered four dozen bottles, he said, for his own use, and had no intention of selling or offering for sale. The directions stated that whiskey, liquors and cordials could be made, but alcohol would have to be used. Mr. Johnston said he never used any of the extracts, in fact had never received any, as this was his first order.

Samples were sent to Toronto for analysis, and judgment was reserved for a week, or until information be received from headquarters.

These extracts, it seems, are used in the manufacture of a substitute for whiskey, and other intoxicants, and the government has been on the look-out. If used for such purposes, the government loses its revenue, and if the preparation contain more than two and one-half per cent. alcohol, the license law in local option territory is violated by offering it for sale. In any case, it isn't safe to tamper with it and get caught. Under such circumstances, the penalty would likely be severe, but as Mr. Johnston never received the consignment, and had no chance to experiment on it, it's likely no serious penalty will be attached.

—Since the foregoing was in type the License Department has advised Mr. Telford that an analysis of the seized samples showed that they contained no alcohol, and ordered that the case be dismissed and the goods delivered to Mr. Johnston. The Government will bear all costs of the proceedings.

ARC LIGHT DOOMED.

Walkerton, Nov. 21.—The town council and the Walkerton electric light company have at last come to an agreement on the lighting question here. The old arc light is doomed to extinction, and must give place to tungsten incandescent lamps. Forty of these lamps of 100 candlepower are to illuminate the front street, while 71 lamps of 50 candlepower will be distributed elsewhere throughout the town. The 100 candlepower is costing the town $12.50 per year, and the 50 candlepower is costing the town $10.00 per year up to 12 o'clock each night. This agreement seems to meet with the approval of the citizens at large, and for very little more money, Walkerton will be a well-lighted town.

HITS AND MISSES

Only a mean man will take delight in injuring the character of a woman.

Sometimes people express surprise why Miss So-and-So ever married Mr. So-and-So. That's easy. She was crazy for a man, and didn't get one after all.

Many a person doesn't do wrong because he was caught in time.

Ten to one the person who readily agrees with you will do the same with the next fellow.

INDIAN LISTERS ARE ALL TO BE PHOTOGRAPHED.

The license commission at Welland have taken a unique method of identifying persons on the Indian list. Every man as soon as placed on the list, is photographed and a card with his likeness sent to the various hotels in the district. When spoken to this morning, Mr. James O'Brien, the local inspector, stated the idea was all right, but if it was introduced here he didn't know where they would find room in the hotels for such an art gallery. At the present time there are over 120 men addicted to liquor on the prohibited list.—Guelph Mercury.

ROYAL PURPLE Stock & Poultry Specifics

FREE We will send absolutely free, for the asking, postpaid, one of our large 64-page books (with insert), on the common diseases of stock and poultry. Tells how to feed all kinds of heavy and light horses, colts and mares, milk cows, calves and fattening steers, also how to keep and feed poultry so that they will lay as well in winter as in summer. It contains 369 recommendations from all over Canada, from people who have used our goods. No farmer should be without it.

You can fatten cattle and hogs in a month's less time by using our Royal Purple Stock Specific than you could possibly do without it, thereby saving a month's feed and labor and the cost to you will not be more than $1.50 for six pigs or $1.00 for one steer. It will keep your horses in show condition with ordinary feed. If you have a poor, miserable-looking animal on your place try it on this one first and see the marvellous result which will be obtained. Our Stock Specific will increase the milk flow three to five lbs. per cow per day, while being fed in the stable. A 50c package will last a cow or horse 70 days.

ROYAL PURPLE POULTRY SPECIFIC will make your hens lay just as well in the winter as in the summer, and will keep them free from disease. These goods are pure and unadulterated. We do not use any cheap filler to make a large package, entirely different from any on the market at the present time.

HER 250 WORDS.

The girls of the fifth form were asked to write a 250-word essay on the motor car. The bright hope of the form duly weighed in with this: "My uncle bought a motor car. He was riding in the country, and it broke down in going up a hill. My uncle tried to make it go, but couldn't, although he spoilt a new suit by trying. I reckon that is about forty words. The other 210 words are what uncle said when he was walking back to town; but they are not fit to write down."

WIARTON GOING AHEAD.

Wiaraton, Nov. 22.—The vote polled on the three by-laws to-day was a very heavy one. From the first it was expected that the rubber factory by-law—and the knitting factory by-law would carry, but there was doubt about Charles Reckin's by-law granting exemptions to his flour mill for another ten years. The merchants and others put up a vigorous campaign for it, with the result that the whole three carried, the vote standing: Reckin's by-law, 226 for, 68 against; rubber factory by-law, 302 for, 18 against; woollen factory by-law, 305 for, 18 against. The knitting factory will employ 40 hands at the start, and within two years the rubber factory will employ 200 hands.

HORSE SENSE.

"Does my automobile scare your horse?" asked the motorist in a mud road.

"No," replied Farmer Cortossel, "He's the tamest, most intelligent animal you ever saw. What makes him act that way is that he's trying to back around to be hitched up to your vehicle, 'cause he knows you're a goin' to need him."

TWELVE BOYS AND ELEVEN APPLES.

We once knew a boy who could run and outclimb all the other boys in the neighborhood, and this gave him a great advantage over the other boys, but he did not use these gifts so as to gratify himself and injure the other boys. A little story of what happened one day will illustrate: This boy was playing with eleven other boys about his own age and size; they thought of a large apple tree back of the orchard, and all made a dash for it, knowing the apples were nearly all gone. Our little hero outran all the other boys, climbed the tree, and put all the apples that remained on it in his pockets. When he came down to count the apples there were just eleven of them—one for each of the other boys but none for himself. Do you ask what he did? He handed each boy a big red apple, saying with a laugh and a bright smiling face, "I am glad there is an apple for each of you." Some of the other boys were not so generous as he, but every one of the eleven made haste to offer him a piece of his apple, thus giving him more apple than any other boy in the crowd. At the same time this unselfish, noble act, made an impression on the minds and hearts of all the other boys which they never forgot. They all grew to manhood and scattered into many states, but many a time did our hero hear about those eleven apples. Some of them testified after they came to manhood that the noble act of that boy was the turning point in their own lives, from which they began to conquer selfishness and cultivate kindness and generosity to others, than to use them in a mean and sordid way entirely for himself. He never lacked for friends to love him, or for ready hands and open purses to help him, always saying by his actions if not by his words, that giving brings more real joy and contentment than getting.—Word and Works.
