THE BOYLESS TOWN. A cross old woman of long ago Declared that she hated noise; "The town would be so pleasant, you know, If only there were no boys." She scolded and fretted about it

Her eyes grew heavy as lead, And then, of a sudden, the town grew still:

For all of the boys had fled, And all through the long and dusty street. There wasn't a boy in view;

to meet Was a sight to make one blue. The grass was green on every base And the paths that the runners made; For there wasn't a soul in all the Who knew how the game was played.

The cherries rotted and went to waste-There was no one to climb the

And nobody had a single taste. Save only the birds and bees, There wasn't a messenger boy-

To speed as such messengers his home here, If people wanted their errands

They sent for a messenger man spending a month or so There was little, I ween, of frolic and noise; There was less of cheer and mirth; The sad old town, since it lacked its boys. Was the dreariest place on earth.

The poor old woman began to ed as teacher in the school here, through a lesson in arithmetic by her Then awoke with a sudden

In chapter ix, 1, 7, we see, as every. Telford, Durham. From the Utica, N.Y., Saturday where, that the blessing of the Lord meant fruitfulness, multiplication and abundance. I am often reminded of Prov. x, 22, R. V., mar., "The blessing and without a relative in the of the Lord maketh rich, and toil addworld, fell dead from his chair on eth nothing thereto." As in salvation, so in service, all must be of the Lord, and apart from Him all is vain, useless, nothing. This is the first time day in his life, and that he had attended church every Sunday for that we find an altar mentioned in the Bible, but the first sacrifice is seen in Gen. iii, 21. Both altar and sacrifice point on to Golgotha, where by the sacrifice of Himself He purged our sins (Heb. 1, 3; 1x, 11-14). A stranger knocked at a man's door

In this record of the deluge and in connection with the ark we have the first mention of a covenant (vi, 18), and in our lesson chapter the covenant is mentioned just seven times. A corenant generally required two parties. and if either failed the covenant feli through. This, however, is an unconditional covenant in which God assumes all the responsibility and says what He will do or will not do for His own sake, because He is God. He calls it "My covenant" and "the everlasting covenant" (15, 16), in which He assures Noah that He will never again destroy the earth with a flood of water.

Then He graciously calls Noah's attention to the bow in the cloud, saying, "I do set My bow in the cloud," and in condescension to our weakness He says. "I will look upon it that I may remember" (verses 13, 16). On the same line of thought He says to Israel, "Put me in remembrance; let us plead together" (Isa, xiii, 26). The rainbow is mentioned in the Bible on just four different occasions, here and in Ezek. i, Rev. iv and x, and four is the great world number.

In Rev. iv it is a green rainbow. which is very suggestive for several reasons, one being that green is earth's prominent color, and He is there seen taking possession of the earth in connection with a purification by judg "Surely," said the actor. "I believe ment. Peter tells us that as the world was once destroyed by water the world that now is is reserved unto fire, but we look for new heavens and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness (II l'et. iii, 5-13). He aiso tells us in the same chapter that many will scoff at these things, as no doubt they scoffed at Noah's prediction of a deluge, but the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor Chronicle,-A few weeks ago the editor of The Review published an editorial, asking for the formation of a Board of Trade to assist in booming the town of Durham, I am pleased to see that your paper is also taking a stand in this matter, and hope that both of the Durham papers will keep talking about this till a Board of Trade is formed, and new factories are being assisted in Here was a chance of the farmers getting cash for their good quality goods, and turning it over to the merchants, who are always growling because some one brings in bad butter, or wants credit for some purchase. Yet, what was done? Nothing. I never heard of any mover in this matter. It is the same all along the line. no matter what is wanted. Not long ago, there was a great big kick against giving Wm. McGowan some assistance in establishing his oatmeal factory, which is bringing AN'T SELL BOOZE TO BRIDGE much money into the town, and giving employment to some ten Chief of Police Ferguson receiv- people.
