Lord Ritchie saw his bill through the lords, where he found three peers ent. in a private room seated before three empty tumblers with a touch of sarcasm. "It is," was the reply.

The minister sniffed. "Do I smell whisky?" he asked.

"You do." said one noble lord. "You may observe that the glasses are empty. Unless they are immediately refilled one of us will go, you will not have a quorum, and your bill will not go through."

A Spider and a Fish.

"The amazing strength of spiders is shown in a number of well authenticated instances," a biologist says. "Thus we have an instance of a half inch spider catching a two inch fish. It was of the ground or wolf family. A scientist came upon it struggling with a fish on the edge of a little pool. Its claws were buried in the fish's tail. It had the tail out of the water, but the head still remained underneath. Like a fiend the spider struggled to pull the fish up on the bank, and the fish struggled desperately to draw the spider into the pool. For ten minutes the scientist watched this silent and deadly fight. Then he hurried away for a bottle in which to put the combatants when he captured them. He was gone about half an hour, and on his return the end had come. The fish was dead, and the spider was slowly dragging its victim away."-London

Some Apple Terms.

In describing the fruit the word "base" means the part of the apple at the stem end; "apex," the portion at the blossom end; "cavity" is the depression around the flower end; "calyx" the so called flower in the apex of the apple. The general form is referred to as being "round," "oblate," "conical" and "oblong." As regards size, apples are said to be "small" when two and one-half inches in diameter or under; from two and onehalf to three and one-half inches they are termed "medium" and above this "large."-Rural Californian.

Rubinstein's face was close to mine, a countenance distorted by every phase of fear, despair, agony, remorse and anger. I started up, turned on all the lights and stood for a moment shaking in every limb till I put fear from me and decided that it was merely a dream. I had for the moment completely forgotten our compact. News is always late in Paris, and it was Le Petit Journal, published in the afternoon, that had the first account of his sudden death.

"Four years later Teresa Carreno, who had just come from Russia and was touring America-1 had met her in St. Petersburg frequently at Rubinstein's dinner table-told me that Ru- Picture Framing on short binstein died with a cry of agony impossible of description. The profits of his lecture this time were $800. Before leaving us somebody reminded him of his previous visit, whereupon the genial Bob laughingly inquired what motive had animated us in thus despoiling him. 'We just wanted to see, governor, if you were game,' spoke up one of the townsmen, and in recounting the affair later Bob Taylor always added, You can bet your life I was glad that I had proved game."-Los Angeles Times.

The "Toothache" Signal In Chile. Drink is the curse of Chile. "For some time after our arrival," writes Mrs. Hugh Fraser in "Further Reminiscences," "Hugh and I used to be puzzled at the prevalence of toothache in the town (Santiago) Every day one would see men in the streets, frock coated and tophatted, their faces almost hidden by a handkerchief tied around their jaws-not one or two or occasionally, but half a dozen at a time and on every day of the week. Later we found out that it was a signal and meant: 'I was drinking last night. Do not speak to me."
