SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VII.—Second Quarter, For May 18, 1913.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Gen. xlii, 3-17. Memory Verses, 15, 16—Golden Text, Gal. vi, 7.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The seven years of plentyousness were ended, and the seven years of dearth began to come, and the dearth was in all the lands, and even in Egypt, and all countries came into Egypt to Joseph to buy corn (xlii, 53-57). One might infer from xlii, 55, that some of the Egyptians rather disliked going to Joseph the Hebrew, and so appealed to Pharaoh, but he laid them low by saying, "Go unto Joseph: what he saith unto you, do." So it came to pass that in all Egypt, as it had been in the prison, whatsoever they did Joseph was the doer of it (xxxix, 22). How like the great truth concerning the Lord Jesus, "Neither is there salvation in any other" (Acts iv, 12), and how searching and humiliating to human pride is the fact that if any who know of Him will not accept His free gift of Himself they cannot be saved! Here is a great contrast. Corn had to be bought in Egypt, but Jesus Christ, having obtained eternal redemption by the sacrifice of Himself, gives it freely to "whosoever will."

Jacob said to his sons, "Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt" (xlii, 2). He could not have heard unless some one had told. Many have never heard of eternal life in Christ because so few tell, or seem to have anything worth telling. How is it? Is it nothing to you? Do you care? In due time there appeared before Joseph, among those who came to buy corn, his ten brothers, Benjamin having been left at home, and Joseph knew them, but they did not know him (verses 3-8). Twenty years may have made more change in some than in others, but they would never have thought of seeing in the ruler of Egypt the boy of seventeen whom they had sold as a slave, and as to his, to them, foolish and absurd dreams, they had no doubt long since ceased to give them a thought.

Joseph had forgiven them and had learned to see the hand of God in it all, and now his opportunity had come to return love for their hatred, but they must be humiliated and convicted of their great sin against him. There is no life eternal for any except penitent sinners, and Israel as a nation must become penitent before they can be saved, but a sight of Him will do it all. First he accused them of being spies, to which they replied, "We are true men, * * * twelve brethren, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; and behold, the youngest is this day with our father, and one is not" (verses 11, 13). When we consider their treatment of Joseph and of their father at that time they must have changed greatly to have become true men; but if they meant true men as men go, or true in the sense of their not being spies, but having come truly for corn and naught else, then it stands all right.

They would have time to do some unusual thinking during their three days in prison. And here is another third day story of deliverance, for on the third day Joseph talked with them and agreed to let nine of them return home with corn, provided one was left a prisoner as an assurance that when they came again for corn they would bring their younger brother with them. Then they talked with one another in Joseph's presence of their guilt of long ago, for which they felt that they were now suffering, and they remembered the anguish of his soul as he besought them not to deal so with him, yet they would not return to his father, yet they would not hear him. I wonder if they did not hear those heartrending cries many a time during those twenty years. The memory of some things will constitute no small part of the torment of the lost, for it was said to the rich man who was in torment, "Son, remember" (Luke xvi, 25). Sins forgiven and blotted out by the blood of the Lamb will not be remembered against us (Isa. xliii, 25), and need not be remembered by us. Joseph understood all they were saying, but he spoke to them through an interpreter that they might not know him just yet. His heart was greatly touched, and he turned away from them and wept, but returned again and commended with them. Then, retaining Simeon a prisoner, he commanded to $2 their sacks, put each man's money in his sack and gave them provision for the way.

When they reached home without Simeon and told all to their father, and that they could not go again unless they took Benjamin also, Jacob was in great distress, said that Benjamin should never go, and exclaimed most bitterly, "All these things are against me" (verse 36). If he only could have seen the outcome as we now know it how differently he would have felt and talked! But this was written for us that we might believe that all things, however dark they look, are for our good (Rom. viii, 28). If we would live in the love of God, His perfect love would cast out all fear (1 John iv, 18). Miss Habershon's typical suggestions on this chapter are concerning the "none other name" that though the world and even His own knew Him not, He knew all men; the Spirit interpreting His words to us, and He giving us of His fullness (John i, 10, 11; 14, 25; 16; Acts iv, 12; John xvi, 13).

LET THE GRASS GET STARTED.

As the days warm up and the growth of grass commences, there grows an anxiety to get rid of a lot of chores by turning the stock all way to pasture. There is no surer method of doing the pasture injury from which it will not be able to thoroughly recuperate during the entire summer than by pasturing closely too early in the season. The grass must be given a chance. Early pasture is very tender, is largely composed of water, has a pronounced loosening effect upon the action of the bowels of the cattle, and is very susceptible to injury due to close cropping. The writer has seen pastures where the stock has been allowed out on them almost as soon as the snow was off in the spring, year after year, and just as surely as summer came each year those pastures remained extremely short and bare and produced very little feed during the entire season, while just across the fence in a field upon which cattle were not allowed until well on towards the first of June, each year, an excellent pasture resulting. One field grew practically no feed while the other almost entirely manured, due almost entirely to manuring in pasturing. It is well where such is possible, to save some of the pasture as long as convenient before turning upon it. When two or more fields are used for pasture, this may easily be done. Let the stock on one only at first, and allow them to eat it down fairly well, but not so close as to hinder its further rapid growth during the season, and then turn on the other field, letting the field number one grow up. By alternating the pasturing of the fields in this way, greater growth of grass is procured, and better feed throughout the summer results. Do not turn the cattle out too soon. A few days more mean a great deal more grass.—Orangeville Banner.

It would surprise you to know of the great good that is being done by Chamberlain's Tablets, Darius Downey, of Newberg Junction, N.B., writes, "My wife has been using Chamberlain's Tablets and finds them very effective, and doing her lots of good." If you have any trouble with your stomach or bowels, give them a trial. For sale by all dealers.

HEAVIER GRAIN - BETTER QUALITY.

G. F. Thornicroft, Lambeth, Ont., writes: "Last spring I purchased some Homestead Bone Black Fertilizer from Mr. H. Hamlyn, Lambeth, and used some on half a field of oats. As a result I found that the grain was heavier and of better quality on that part. I am exceedingly well pleased with the results." Homestead Fertilizers are manufactured and sold by the Michigan Carbon Works, Detroit, Michigan, who will send free to any farmer their book on fertilizers with a handsome calendar, postage paid. They want agents where they are not now represented. Address Michigan Carbon Works, Post-office, Drawer 814-A, Detroit, Michigan, asking for terms.

PRICES MUST ADVANCE.

The Bowmanville Statesman, one of the oldest and best local newspapers in Ontario, and published by one of the oldest publishers, has this to say, which is every word true: Office help costs 50 per cent. more than five years ago, living has advanced 25 to 50 per cent. in the same time. Eggs were sold at 8 to 12 cents, butter 12 to 20 cents, chickens 25 to 50 cents per pair, potatoes 15 to 20 cents a bushel, apples 75c. to $1.25 per barrel, beef from 6 to 12 cents a pound. Servant girls received $4 to $7 per month, and so on. Now citizens have to pay about double these prices and in some instances more. The reasonable solution to this condition is that higher prices we might be charged for what we have to sell. In the publishing and printing business we sell three things—paper, advertising space and printing. Wholesale paper dealers have notified customers of advance in prices, so ordinarily weekly newspapers cannot be profitably published at one dollar a year. This has long been known to publishers themselves and some of them have advanced the subscription price to $1.25 or $1.50 a year. Advertising space must also be charged at higher rates. It actually costs as much to set the type and look after the advertisement in many papers as they receive for the space. We have already raised rates. This year, but ready raised rates of labor and paper are advancing now, further increase in rates must be made to do a business at a living profit. Printing is the product of skilled labor and costly stock and as both have materially increased, the printer's prices must go up correspondingly. No one is so small as to expect another person to work without profit and board himself. We must all live and let live, so the newspaperman must charge higher prices from this time onward or eventually go under.

ADVICE TO BOYS.

See here, boys! Whatever you try to do, do it the very best you can; do it better than it was ever done before. Don't yield to temptation to slight your work. And above all things, do what is right every time. Never mind the scoffs and leers of others, but go ahead and do what is right. Be brave about it, too. Everyone hates a coward. And another thing, don't be afraid of doing right for fear you will make enemies. Enemies are as necessary to success as vinegar is to pickles. Don't, above all things, be a hypocrite. The thief may steal our property, but the hypocrite betrays one's confidence and only waits an opportunity to stab him in the back. If you have a mind of your own don't be afraid to express your opinion, and if you feel that it is right, stand by it. People will talk and fools will turn grindstones for others to sharpen their axes on. Think for yourself. Lay your course of action in accordance with the idea that some day you will be a man and called upon to take an active part in life's great battles. Don't imagine for a moment that you can please everybody, not yourself. Few people care for you and you must care for yourself or be left in the cold. Also, but few people will love you, although you may profess to. They love you merely for what they can make out of you. Society looks upon you as an orange—to be squeezed for its benefit. When you are squeezed dry you will be thrown to the dogs and another orange will take its turn. Think of these things and resolve to act with wisdom.
