COLDEST INHABITED CITY.
Verkhoyansk, Siberia, is said to be the coldest inhabited city in the world. It is in north latitude 67 degrees on the Arctic plane and scarcely more than 150 feet above the sea level.
Its annual temperature is 3 above zero and in winter the maximum is 85 below zero. The Russian government owns the place and is interested in having an administrative centre where clever and industrious Yokuts, fur traders Jews of Siberia, carry on their operations.
All the inhabitants of Verkhoyansk, with the exception of a few officials and Russian traders are Yokuts. The Yokuts are such ambitious and aggressive people that they do not seem to mind the fact that the rivers freeze to the bottom and that small trees have been known to snap and split from the biting force of the cold.
Still many Russians even seem to prefer it to warmer posts. Its atmosphere is always clear and the air still, and there are no blizzards or snow storms. Then the Siberian dress adds considerably to the enjoyment of this Arctic city. It consists of two suits of fur, an outer and an inner, and a huge hood to pull over the face so that there is just enough space to see and breathe through.
The summer is hotter than might be expected, the average temperature being 59 above zero in July. The earth is green and vegetation thrives, but the surface of the ground is scarcely thawed.

DORNOCH.

Misses Norma Black and Lyla McKnight paid a visit to Durham friends Saturday and Monday last.
Mr. A. Allen and Miss C. Mortley paid a flying visit to Williamsford on Sunday last.
We are very sorry to hear that Mrs. S. Black is not improving any. We hope to hear of a speedy change for the better.
Miss Bella Rae spent Sunday at her home in Glenelg.
One evening of last week a number of our young lads and lassies took in the "time" at Mr. Jas. Sullivan's. The report says that the first solar ray had risen over the horizon, and still the music lasted. The young people report a good time.
