Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good they can possibly derive from them. Halls Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F.J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Halls Catarrh Cure, be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F.J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

When your child has whooping cough, be careful to keep the cough loose and expectoratory easy by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as may be required. This remedy will also liquify the tough mucus and make it easier to expectorate. It has been used successfully in many epidemics and is safe and sure. For sale by all dealers.

Admission to West Point.

A candidate for the Military academy at West Point must first get the indorsement of the senator or congressman from his district. The question of appointment is generally settled in each district by competitive examination, the representative in congress appointing the boy who obtains the highest marks. Once the candidate has passed this competitive examination and received the appointment to the academy he must pass both a mental and physical examination at the hands of the army officers assigned to duty at the West Point institution. All appointees must be between seventeen and twenty-two years old, free from any infirmity which might render them unfit for military service and be able to pass an examination in English grammar, English composition, English literature, algebra through quadratic equations, plane geometry, descriptive geography and the elements of physical geography, United States history and the outlines of general history.

Ingenious Old Jars.

From time to time fresh illustrations are afforded as to the ancients' ingenuity, with special reference to what are termed the "lost arts." Recently it has been shown that the old Peruvians must have understood the laws of atmospheric pressure in order to construct the curious jars and vases they left. One of these pieces of pottery was ornamented with the figures of two monkeys, and when water was poured into or out of the vessel sounds like the screeching of monkeys were heard. Another similar vessel has the figure of a bird that uttered appropriate notes; another was ornamented with a cat that mewed and another with snakes that hissed. An ingenious water jar bore the form of an aged woman on whose cheeks tears were seen to trickle, while sobs were heard when water was poured from the jar.—New York Tribune.

Famous Venetian Palace.

Vendramin is not only one of the most beautiful residences on the canal in Venice, but it is closely associated with the history of the city of the doges. It was built in 1441. German princes occupied it at first. Then it passed into the possession of the Duke of Mantua, who purchased it for 50,000 ducats of gold. It was the scene of great social events under the Archduke Charles Ferdinand of Austria and his wife, Anne de Medici, in 1652, and through them the palace has come into the possession of the present owners through marriage. It was here that Richard Wagner died in 1883. The desk at which he wrote "Tristan and Isolde" is carefully preserved. Some years ago a plaque was affixed to the palace showing its connection with the great composer.—London Globe.

Shearing Sheep in Syria.

The manner of shearing sheep in Syria and all Asiatic Turkey does not differ materially from the ancient methods of the people as applied to practically every other vocation. While the sheep industry is one of the oldest in the country, having existed for centuries in the same pastures where the ancestors of the present herders also tended flocks, there does not appear to have been any improvement in the manner of shearing or breeding the sheep. Shearing is still accomplished in the crude way, the workers always leaving a considerable amount of wool on the animal, while the fleece removed is cut most unevenly. The shearers frequently cut great holes in the skins of the sheep, which by the use of modern shearing machines could easily be avoided.

Writer's Cramp.

Those who have to do a great deal of writing are liable to get an attack of writer's cramp. The first indication of writer's cramp is a feeling of tiredness in the hand and arm. Then words are formed very slowly, and suddenly the pen will fly upward or outward. This is due to a sudden spasm of the muscles affected. Anybody who is attacked with writer's cramp should give writing up for a time, since paralysis of the muscles may follow. He should treat the limb with an electrical battery and generally lie up and keep quiet.—Pearson's Weekly.

Ptolemy's Big Boat.

Ptolemy (Philopator) was fond of building big boats. One of these is said to have been 420 feet long, 57 feet broad and 72 feet deep from the highest point of the stern. This vessel had four rudders or what some would call steering oars, as they were not fastened, each forty-five feet long. She carried 4,000 rowers, besides 3,000 marines, a large body of servants under her decks and stores and provisions. Her oars were fifty-seven feet long, and the handles were weighted with lead. There were 2,000 rowers on a side, and it is supposed that these were divided into five banks. That this extraordinary vessel ever put to sea is doubted, but that she was launched and used at times, if only for display, several historians are agreed.

Curious English Well.

In the grounds of Livesey Hall, near Blackburn, there is a spring called "Mother Livesey's well." The curious thing about this well is that the water only flows during nine months of the year and is quite dry during the other three months—June, July and August—however wet the weather may be. The water always commences to flow on the same date each year and never freezes even during the hardest frost.—Leeds (England) News.

His Preference.

"It is a positive delight to meet a man you feel you can trust," remarked the individual with the high forehead. "Oh, I don't know. I prefer a man who pays cash," replied the man who kept the grocery store.

Cause For Worry.

"You must take exercise," said the physician, "and by all means worry less. Play golf." "Doctor," replied the patient, "you mean well, but a man who plays my kind of golf game can't help worrying."—Washington Star.

Getting Plumper.

Customer—Let me see the heaviest thing you have in dress goods. Proprietor—Sorry, but she's just out at lunch.

READING THE ENVELOPES.

They Tell More Than the Name and Address to the Postman. Envelopes often tell me more about a man's financial standing than could the best "private inquiry agency." You can't "swank" a postman. And when I deliver on a certain day every month an official envelope with the relief stamp of a furniture firm on the back of it I know pretty well that the envelope contains the receipt for an installment on the furniture. When that envelope fails to turn up I keep an eye open for the other signs of impending bankruptcy.

An envelope with a crease down the middle has obviously been inclosed in another envelope. This tells me the handwriting of the householder and the kind of stationery he uses. When I deliver one of these day after day at the same house I know that the occupant is out of work and is answering advertisements. But when the envelopes stop coming I am left to wonder whether the applicant has been successful—or can afford no more stamps.

Sometimes there is tragedy in envelopes. There was a young fellow who used to stare down at me from behind the window curtain—so anxious to see what I'd got in my hand that he wouldn't wait till I'd pulled the bell. I soon tumbled to his job, for by nearly every post there would be a long envelope creased down the middle, showing it was a return. A writer he was.—Pearson's Weekly.

MAGNETIC CLEOPATRA.

Her Manner, Rather Than Her Beauty, Was Her Chief Charm.

The only authentic portrait of Cleopatra that is known to archaeologists is a bust which appears on a series of coins. It is on the reverse and bears the inscription in Greek, "Queen Cleopatra, the Divine, the Younger," while on the obverse is a portrait of "Antony, Dictator For the Third Time, Triumvir." The workmanship of the coin is far from good, and this accounts in some measure for the undeniably plain appearance of the queen. Yet the likeness, as far as the features go, is a true one, for the other coins of the same series, though of a different type, give her the same features, an aquiline nose, a strong chin, a long neck and narrow shoulders.

The fact is that her beauty was not so remarkable as one would think from the spell she cast over Caesar and Antony. Plutarch, for instance, tells us "that her beauty in itself was by no means incomparable nor calculated to amaze those who saw her," but adds that the magnetic charm of her manner, the gracefulness of her movements, the persuasiveness of her conversation and her figure were most attractive.

Enjoyed What He Paid For.

It is interesting to note the effect that reputation has on those who are not good critics of the efforts of public performers, as a clerk in a downtown bank was telling. "I happen to know a celebrated concert artist," he said. "One evening she was in the city and had nothing to do, so she came up to our very humble flat in Harlem to spend a quiet, homelike hour or two. The night was warm, and the windows were open. After dinner she sat down at the piano and sang several songs for us. The next day I heard that one of our neighbors complained loudly about the 'yelling' in our flat and said that such nuisances ought to be prohibited. Two nights later that same neighbor paid $2 a seat for himself, his wife and his daughter to hear our friend sing at a concert."—New York Sun.

Cause for Alarm

Loss of appetite or distress after eating—a symptom that should not be disregarded. It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, healthiest persons are moderate eaters. Nothing will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people contract serious maladies through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all who suffer from indigestion, or dyspepsia, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the understanding that we will refund the money paid us without question or formality, if after use you are not perfectly satisfied with results.

We recommend Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets to customers every day, and have yet to hear of one who has not been benefited. We believe them to be without equal. They give prompt relief, aiding to neutralize acidity, stimulate flow of gastric juice, strengthen the digestive organs, and thus promote perfect nutrition and correct unhealthy symptoms. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. You can buy Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets in this community only at our store: MACFARLANE & CO.
