THE "SERVICE" BOOK.

How Government Handles Servant
Problem in Germany.

Germany seems to have solved her domestic problems thoroughly. The "character" custom in vogue there has done away with all dangers of uncertainty. If a man or woman applies for work in any mental capacity he brings his "service" book along with him.

No book, no job, is the underlying principle that is in operation, and all officially by police authorities, and in it is entered the applicant's name, age, appearance, religion and various qualities of temperament and temper.
So when a situation is applied for a would-be employer can see at a glance whether the applicant has been in service before, what kind of work he has done, and what his lines of good or bad disposition, starting out late or coming in early qualities may be.

If the mistress or employer approves of the book and enters the applicant in service the book remains in the employer's hands as long as the engagement lasts, and he returns it on the servant's leaving, with a few additional lines as to his opinion of some qualities and the reasons for departure. If disputes arise and the maid and mistress or servant and employer cannot settle the trouble between them the matter is referred for arbitration to the police.

The servant is spared the necessity of pursuing former mistresses for recommendations and the mistresses are not forced to take servants without being informed pretty definitely concerning them. Forced characters are practically impossible since the whole system is under police supervision.
The same system holds good in regard to laboring service, or clerkship of various kinds.

The municipal authorities take matters into their own hands in still another direction. Destitution in old age is almost unknown among the servant classes and lower classes of laborers, since it is compulsory for all those who earn less than $500 a year to insure themselves against future want and dependence on the state by giving a little each year to the city authorities, who in turn provide a pension for them after a certain age limit has been reached.

What We Eat.

If you should live to be 75 years old, have you any idea how much food you would have consumed in the course of the years, taking it for granted that you are a person of average height, weight and appetite?

Both solids and liquids you would have consumed something like 1,300 times your own weight or 54 tons of solid food and 53 tons of liquid.
Probably if your desires were normal you would have eaten so many loaves of bread, that if they were all piled together they would equal in size a small family hotel. On that bread you would have spread about a bread you would have spread about a stretch it out in a long single slice it would stretch about four miles. You would have managed to have eaten about five tons of fish and some 12,000 eggs, while if you were at all a lover of cheese you could easily get outside of 400 pounds of it.

It is interesting to imagine how, if you were to see all the vegetables you had consumed pass before you in review, they would make a train of cars at least three and one-half miles long. Also on that train you could add 10,000 pounds of sugar and 1,500 pounds of salt.

If you were a smoker you would have used some half ton of tobacco in pipes, or one-half million cigarettes.

Oddities of Translation.

When the Bible was translated into Japanese an equivalent to the word "baptize" could not be found, and the word "soak" had to be used instead, so that Japanese Biblical students are acquainted with a person named "John the Soaker," and with a doctrine of "soaking for remission of sins." In that case the mistranslation is due to inadequacy of language. It is oftener due to ignorance.
A schoolboy once rendered "Miserere, Domine!" into "Oh, heartbroken schoolmaster!" And another recovered from German the text, "The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak," in the form, "The ghost, of course, is ready, but the meat is feeble."—London Standard.

Adopted a Mother.

A woman left penniless by her husband was arrested as a vagrant as she had no money and no idea of how to make it. She served the sentence in jail, and, having been released, was again arrested. Then a young Milwaukee woman, where the arrested woman lived, asked that sentence be not passed on her, as she would adopt her as her mother. She declared that she was lonesome since the death of her own mother. The poor woman was wild with joy when told that the judge would allow her to be "adopted."

How to Make Military Salad.

Here is a salad recipe from the officers' mess at West Point that ones tried will not thereafter be neglected: To a can of soured mackerel (freed of bone and skin and broken up) add one can and skin and broken up) add double the quantity of celery cut in quarter inch pieces and a suspicion of onion chopped fine. Mix thoroughly and heap on lettuce leaves, then cover liberally with the mayonnaise which should really be a tartare sauce, with mustard (English), chopped pickles and capers.

Crown Attorney Since 1867.

By the retirement of the crown attorney of Wellington County, Ward H. Bowly, K.C., of Berlin, crown attorney of Waterloo County, is now the oldest in point of service in the Province of Ontario, having been appointed by the Sandfield Macdonald Government on Dec. 24, 1867.

Ominous.

The following notice appears in a Harlequin butcher's shop: "Wanted, a boy for sausages."

HYMENEAL

COCKING—JACK.

At the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Alfred Cresswell, 32 Condor avenue, Toronto, in the presence of about 50 friends, the wedding was solemnized by Miss Margaret Jack, the youngest daughter of the late John Jack, of Durham, to Mr. Charles Cocking, of Toronto.
The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Talbot, at 8.30 p. m. The bride was dressed in white mull, and carried a shower of carnations.
Miss Margaret Cowan, 37 Melville avenue, Toronto, was bridesmaid, and was dressed in white and carried a bouquet of carnations. Mr. Alex. Jack supported the groom. After the ceremony, a dainty wedding supper was served.
