The Two "Dark Days."
There are two "dark days" mentioned in the annals of New England. The first occurred on Oct. 21, 1716, when it suddenly became so dark soon after noon that the people were forced to use artificial lights to do their ordinary work. This strange condition of the atmosphere lasted about three and a half hours. Again, on May 19, 1780, there was a remarkable darkening of the atmosphere, but the phenomenon did not come on so suddenly as that upon the earlier date. The darkness in this latter instance began between 10 and 11 o'clock on the morning of the day named and lasted throughout the day. The darkness extended from the northeastern part of New England westward as far as Albany and southward to Pennsylvania. The most intense and prolonged darkness, however, was confined to Massachusetts, more especially to the seaboard. It is said to have come from the southwest, but there is no mention of it made in the history of Ohio or the Virginia. The exact cause still remains one of the unexplained mysteries.

"Warned Off" the Turf.
To be "warned off" is the most severe sentence that can be imposed on any one in England connected with the turf. Not only does it debar a man from owning, training or riding horses, but until the committee decides to revoke the punishment prevents him even from showing himself on any race course. This is so owing to the fact that the decision of the national hunt committee is registered automatically by the racing authorities in France and Ireland and of course by the Jockey Club. Like the national hunt committee, the stewards of the Jockey Club also reserve to themselves the right of summoning any rider whom they suspect of sharp practices or even carelessness to appear before them and, unless the explanation given proved satisfactory, to "suspend" or punish the offender in some other way.—London Answers.

Turner's Carelessness.
Perhaps the most prolific painter who ever lived was the great Turner. When he died his house in Queen Anne street, which he had not occupied for a long time, was found to be full of masterpieces all going to rack and ruin. Even the famous "Crossing the Brook," one of the priceless treasures of the National gallery in Trafalgar square, was there, with large pieces chipped off it. Many of Turner's masterpieces which he had refused to sell for "love or money" were almost ruined by the damp coming from defective windows and ceilings. There were, besides the oil paintings, literally thousands of water color drawings "chucking about the place," any one of which would draw a little fortune at this moment from the pocket of an American millionaire. By his will he left them all to the nation.—London Spectator.

Speed of Flying Ducks.
How fast do ducks fly? is a question that sportsmen have long debated. A correspondent of Forest and Stream throws some definite light on it. Business requires him to ride frequently on a railroad in New York state that skirts a large lake. Wild fowl, startled by the train, will sometimes fly for a long distance parallel to the track at a speed the same as that of the train; hence it was easy, by timing them and getting the speed rate of the train from the conductor, to learn how fast they were going. The rate varied from forty-seven miles an hour to a little over fifty. "The belief of gunners that ducks sometimes travel at the rate of a mile a minute is therefore not far from the truth."

No College Degree in Brazil.
Brazilian law, it is claimed, prohibits the establishment of any university because "the conferring of academic distinctions is contrary to the principles of true democracy." There are many institutions in Brazil where medicine and law are taught, and these grant certificates of proficiency to pupils who complete the course in a satisfactory manner. But, however well qualified he may be, no Brazilian can legally get a degree in his own country of a doctor of medicine or of law.

Too Vigorous.
Vicar to sexton.—That pulpit cushion is worn out, Edward. I wish you would see that a new one is put on. Edward (grimly).—Yes, sir; I know it will be worn out, an' he's the third one this year. It ain't my place to pass remarks, sir, but in my opinion there's such a thing as carryin' religion a lee too far.—London Opinion.

Amicus Curiae.
"I hope this is the last sentence I shall pass upon you," said a French magistrate to a tramp who has appeared before him regularly for many years. Affecting surprise, the tramp replied. "Then you think of retiring, your worship?"—London Telegraph.

A Musical Pun.
In "Reminiscences, Impressions and Anecdotes" Francesco Berger records a pun made by the late Lord Coleridge at a public dinner. "Even in music," he said, "there is variety of opinion. Some loved their Bach often, while others preferred Offenbach!"

Fuming.
Hicks (meeting friend at 11 p. m.)—Hello, old man, what's going on out your way? Hicks—My wife is, I expect. I told her I'd be home at 8.—Boston Transcript.

When you analyze the ideal husband you will find that he hasn't the nerve to be anything else.

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing household work all day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight.

Microbes in Your Scalp
Authorities say that a microbe causes baldness. If you are losing hair try our remedy at our risk.

Professor Unna, of Germany, and Dr. Sabouraud, the great French Dermatologist, claim that a microbe causes baldness, and their theory has been verified by eminent scientists. This microbe destroys the hair follicles, in time causing the scalp pores to close and the scalp to become shiny. Then, it is believed nothing will revive the growth. If treated before this occurs, baldness may be overcome.
We know of nothing that has given such universal satisfaction in treating the scalp and hair as Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. It has been designed after long study to overcome the cause of falling hair as discovered by Prof. Unna, Dr. Sabouraud and other scalp and hair specialists, and we believe it will do more than anything else can to remove dandruff and stop falling hair; and if any bureau agency can promote a new growth of hair it will do that, too.
We want you to make us prove it. We will pay for a month's treatment of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic used during a trial, if you will use it according to directions, and we will thoroughly satisfy you. When we do this, you surely should not hesitate to at least try it.
Start the treatment today. Your mere request will get your money back if you want it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00.

Armstrong, sr., will visit her son at Meaford. While driving to the village last week, Mr. Roddy Stewart's driver took fright and upset the buggy, which was considerably damaged, but Roddy escaped injury. The horse broke away, but did not run far. It was quiet in town on the 12th, the only stir being that of the visiting lodges, Eugenia, Fourth Line and Proton Station, passing through with lively music to the celebration at Markdale. Many of our citizens followed throughout the day. Rev. Mr. McVicar was at Hornings Mills last week preaching at an induction service, and also preached at Priceville at preparatory service. Mr. John Wright is at Ottawa this week attending Masonic Grand Lodge. Miss Laura Armstrong and Master Wes. visited over the week end with friends at Durham, and were accompanied home by Miss Edna Lamm. Miss Agnes Henderson is spending this week with friends at Wingham.
