coming spectacle, staring fascinated at the white man with death in his hands who stood alone on the great veranda. "Astoa," Sheldon said, seizing the psychological moment, "I count three fella time. Then I shoot you fella dead, good by, all finish you."

And Sheldon knew that when he had courted three he would drop him in his tracks. The black knew it, too. That was why Sheldon did not have to do it, for when he had counted one, Astoa reached out his hand and took the whip. And right well Astoa laid on the whip, angered at his fellows for not supporting him, and venting his anger with every stroke. From the veranda, Sheldon egged him on to strike with strength, till the two tried savages screamed and bowled while the blood oozed down their backs. The lesson was being well written in red.

When the last of the gang, including the two howling culprits, had passed out through the compound gate, Sheldon sank down half fainting on his couch.

"You're a sick man," he groaned. "A sick man."
"But you can sleep at ease tonight," he added, half an hour later.

SUCCESSFUL DAIRYING

There are such excellent concrete examples now and again outcropping of men who prove that it pays to take up cow testing, that their records of success make stimulating reading for dairy farmers all over the Dominion. Here is a good sample of what one man at Cedar Hall, Que., in the Gaspé peninsula, accomplished by carefully watching his fairly good cows and feeding them better:

The first year his eight cows gave him 33,511 pounds of milk, an average of 4,188 pounds, at a feed cost of $32.50, netting a total profit of $76.82, an average of $9.60 profit per cow. Two of the best cows in the herd the first year were lost accidentally, two heifers made up the herd to eight; a pure-bred sire is kept.

The next year his eight cows gave him 41,408 pounds of milk, an average of 5,176 pounds, or 1,000 pounds of an increase per cow. The feed cost $42.12 more per cow, but the total profit was $177.29, or an average of $22.16 per cow. This is an increase of 130 per cent. in the profit. It pays to give additional feed if the cows kept are of the type to make use of it profitably.

The forcible realities are these: The gross income from milk increased by $133.43 from the same number of cows, the profit far more than doubled, and the owner has received every encouragement to try for still better results. That is where a trial cow testing trip generally lands the herd owner.
