Durham's juvenile lacrosse team was defeated in Hanover on Sunday last by the score of 17 to 10. It is alleged that thereabouts were junior players on the Hanover team.

A gang of stalwart parishioners were busy on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week at the rectory, moving the old stable to its new foundation. The building was engineered safely and successfully, and now there only remains a little carpenter work to do to make a very comfortable and convenient stable.

When returning from Hanover one night last week, one of the ham's young men got himself a peck of trouble by getting into the rural mail boxes along the line. The owner of the boxes, Mr. Underwood, has offered to have the matter drop if all damaged repaired. Our advice to the man would be to hurry up and settle. Interfering with the service of the country is a serious offense.

The Chesley baseball team to show up on Monday for a league game with the local grounds here. They are a local management and even didn't intend filling the date is the second time the local advertised this league with the Chesley bunch. Both occasions the result has been the same. Chesley's baseball team has certainly picked themselves a bunch of pinks.

On Friday morning, attached to H. Burnett's cart, ran away from in front of house on Albert street, making his way to the market started up through town, turned east at The Corner, and captured a stallion up Saddler street. The animal was not really running, we believe, merely going a rather lively clip, and was not been turned east, was passed along to his owner, broken wheel, and a broken cart was the only damage.

A number of petty thieves were committed here on night or Saturday morning but no heavy thefts were reported. The thieves entered the back window of Lemah's hardware store and carried only a few cents worth left in the till. They made their entrance into Limin's shop, where they got up American nickels that left in the cash register of course, were carried off 35 or 40 cents in all. McLachlan's entrance was through a screened door at the back door. A number of boxes were placed on another, when the window was cut and entrance made. From the register, a few dollars in change were taken. The coppers were not on Dr. Hutton's office was watered and the safe rifled, not locked, and as the money in it, their efforts were unrewarded. Barrister's office in the same building Black's hardware store entered, but no thefts discovered. Local men were expected, and there was ground for the suspicion money they were after, chose the wrong night. It was the night previous, considerable haul would be made at Limin's, as it was that night to take out sales of the day.

THE WILY FOREIGNER.

And now, following many fakes of a more or less kindred nature, comes the wily foreigner with the real Irish lace. A lady phoned The Times yesterday and stated that this gentlemanly and stated that this gentlemanly lace pedlar insinuated himself into the house and refused to be shooed out with anything less than an axe. He began talking and kept right on talking meantime instinctively reaching down and digging up a few yards of Irish lace and quoting fire sale prices. But this particular lady firmly and authoritatively steered the protesting son of the Latin races toward the door. Mr. Lace Vendor went to the next door neighbor and sold several yards of his goods. The When investigated it was found to be some sort of cottony substance, and withal but a very poor imitation when subjected to the water process. Of course the salesman had evaporated before this interesting little discovery had been made. It is but proper to add that the sample lace looked like the real lace. The good housefraus of the town would do well to exercise more than the ordinary precaution when purchasing real Irish lace from itinerant sellers. After all, the greatest satisfaction is to be obtained by purchasing from established places of business.-O. S. Times.

CALEDON EAST TOT WANDERS

Dr. T. W. Allison's little three-year-old-girl, Irene, strayed away from her nurse girl in the berry patch and was lost for seven hours. When the news spread in the town, business places were closed and all hastened to search for the baby. After a six-hours search her footmarks were traced on the road, and her father speeded his horse and located her seven miles from where she was lost, walking every step of the way. When word was given that she was found a shot was fired, and everyone shouted for joy, returning and waiting at the home of the baby to see the little record breaker.

SUNDAY THEATRICALS.

Sunday theatricals had a rough time of it at one period of England's history. On Sunday, Sept. 27, 1631, Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" was privately performed in the bishop of Lincoln's house in London. The Puritans had the affair inquired into and there is a suspicion of humor in the punishment awarded to the performer of Bottom, the weaver. "We do order that Mr. Wilson, as he was a special plotter and contriver of this business and did in such a brutish manner act the same with an ass' head, shall upon Tuesday next from 6 o'clock in the morning till 6 o'clock at night sit in the porter's lodge at my lord bishop's house with his feet in the stocks and attired with an ass' head and a bottle of hay before him and this inscription on his breast: "Good people, I have played the best of all things to pass. I was a man, but thus have made myself a silly ass."
