Lesson XI.—First Quarter, For March 12, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Heb. xi, 32, to xii, 2—Memory Verses, xii, 1, 2—Golden Text, Heb. xii, 1, 2—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson on the heroes and martyrs of faith was probably suggested to the committee by the previous lesson on the death of Stephen. If a word or phrase gives the key to a chapter or portion this is certainly the "faith" chapter of the Bible, for the word is found twenty-four times in this chapter. But we must look at chapter x, 38, for the reason why of this chapter, "The just shall live by faith," a sentence quoted three times in the New Testament, the other two places being Rom. i, 17; Gal. iii, 11, and all three quotations of Hab. ii, 4. Before we can live by faith we must be justified by faith, made just or righteous (Rom. v, 1), and that takes us to the first "believe" in the Bible in connection with righteousness (Gen. xv, 6), "He believed in the Lord, and He counted it to him for righteousness." This also is quoted just three times in the New Testament (Rom. iv, 3; Gal. iii, 6; Jas. ii, 23), so these must be very important sayings.

Our first great need is righteousness, the kind that God requires and has provided fully in Christ and can be obtained only by faith (Rom. x, 3, 4). Then, being saved, we must glorify God by a righteous life, and this also is by faith, for as we have received Christ Jesus the Lord so must we walk in Him (Col. iii, 6). Faith and patience are the two essential things in the daily life of the believer, steadfastly beholding the Lord Jesus, implicitly believing His word and waiting patiently for His return (Heb. vi, 12, 15; x, 35-37; xii, 1-3). Faith is not what we feel or see, but is a simple trust in what the God of Love has said of Jesus as the Just. Unsaved people cannot possibly please God (Rom. viii, 8), and only by faith and obedience can saved people please Him. By believing Gen. i, 1, with Ps. xxxiii, 6, we know how the world was made.

Abel believed that the only way for a sinner to approach God was by sacrifice and shedding of blood as taught to his father in Gen. iii, 21. Cain did not believe God, and therefore his rejection by God. Enoch was fully agreed with God in everything and was willing to bear the scoffing of the ungodly (Amos iii, 3; Jude 14, 16). Noah believed in an approaching judgment and in obedience to God prepared for it. Abraham did not consider himself nor Sarah nor seeming impossibilities, but was fully persuaded that God was able and would do what He promised (Rom. iv, 19-21). The word of God concerning things to come sustained Isaac and Jacob and Joseph and the parents of Moses and Moses himself. The unseen heavenly city and the recompense of the reward were veritable realities to Abraham and to Moses, enabling the one to live as a stranger and a pilgrim here and the other to turn his back upon all the pleasures and treasures and prospect of preferment in Egypt. Daniel feared not the lions' den, nor his friends the fiery furnace, nor David the giant Goliath, because to each the living God was a glorious reality.

While many are mentioned by name in this list of people of God, we cannot but adore the grace which mentions Rahab among such as these and even associates her with Abraham in James ii, 23-25. We wonder as we read of Barak and not of Deborah, but we notice the words "and others" of verse 35 and pray for grace to be willing to be counted among the "others," though not mentioned by name. The mystery of the sufferings of the saints we may not understand, but we can trust the wisdom of a God of love and wait patiently for Him to make it plain. This is our faith and patience. These all "and others" died in faith, not having received the promises, but, having seen them afar off, were persuaded of them and embraced them (verses 30, 39). I believe that the believing ones before the deluge saw more of resurrection and glory in the cherubim within the garden of Eden than many believers now see. (Write L. and K., box 216 Harrisburg, Pa., for booklet on the cherubim.) That they without us should not be made perfect seems to me to indicate that they, with us, are waiting for the manifestation of the Sons of God in our resurrection bodies (verse 40; Rom. viii, 19-21).

In the opening verses of chapter xii we are told that even our blessed Lord Himself was sustained in His sufferings by the joy set before Him. He ever lived in the love of His Father and in the glory of the kingdom of which He was always speaking and for which He is still waiting, so Paul prays in II Thess. iii, 5, that our hearts may be directed into the love of God and the patience of Christ (margin). As we consider Him at the right hand of the throne of God and remember His promise that when He comes to His own throne the overcomers shall be with Him there (Rev. iii, 21) such love and such glory should constrain us to lay aside all weights and besetting sins and live no longer unto ourselves, but unto Him alone, for "every one that hath this hope set on Him purifieth himself even as He is pure" (I John iii, 3, R. V.). Whatever there may be to endure in the conflict, a thought of Him who endured so much for us should keep us from being weary or faint.

BILLY SUNDAY'S SERMON

Subject "Barabbas"

Text: Matt. 27:26—Then released he Barabbas unto them; and when he had scourged Jesus, he delivered Him to be crucified.

In the castle of Antonio, at Jerusalem, is Barabbas, bound with heavy fetters, for he is a dangerous man, and it would mean death to more than one Roman soldier if he should make his escape. He was the captain of an insurgent robber band, and had caused the government much trouble, for he had long resisted and defied its authority. He was tried and found guilty of both murder and treason, and sentence of death had been pronounced upon him. In the dark solitude of his dungeon Barabbas has been compelled to think—and think—the weary hours away.

And so Barabbas sits and thinks, as scene after scene from the olden time comes into his mind, of when child after child came into his home, until at last he awakes from his reverie with a start. A cold damp gathers on his brow, and there is a pang in his heart as he thinks of the sorrow his misconduct has brought upon his home. No chance to warn his boy and girls against the snare into which his own feet fall. No chance to say a word of encouragement to Rachel or to Stephen—who had grown up to be such a brave lad—and who had been like a right arm to his mother, for so it was whispered to him in his prison.

He shambles out with the bitterness of death upon him and the centurion says: "Barabbas, you are now free! Another has taken your place and will die in your stead." He is thrust out into the great court. And so the bewildered man, with a heart wild with joy, presses on toward his home, and, as he turns the last corner, he hears glad shouts and there are the wife and children all running toward him, for they have but just heard that he is free. A moment later the heart of Barabbas almost stops beating as he sees the man who has taken his place led out into the upper portico where Pilate stands, and there is Jesus with His hands bound, the blood streaming down His pale face, from the crown of thorns on His brow, and His flesh clotted from the awful scourging he has just received! And Pilate, pointing to Him, says: "Behold the man!"

At that sight the heart of Barabbas becomes like that of a little child, and his eyes are a fountain of tears. The wickedness and bitterness that filled him so long are gone and he loves the Man who stands before him more than he ever loved his own soul. Stretching out his hands toward Him he cries: "Master! Master! I love you! I love you for taking my place!" And I can see the face of Jesus brighten with a look of ineffable peace as He lifts His eyes and seems to look into the very soul of the robber captain, whose gratitude cheers Him as He goes to the cross.

Then they led Jesus away to crucify Him, and you know the awful story of how nobody had any mercy on Him! And now I want to ask you what you would think of Barabbas to-day had he done any less than I have imagined for him? Through what Jesus did in taking his place, all that the law had against him was wiped out. Not one of you but will say that he ought to have used the life that was given back to him in doing all the good he could. That's what you say, every one of you, I know it, but listen to me—what Jesus did for Barabbas He has done for you and for me.

He took our place under the law, and died in our stead. "He was wounded for our transgressions, and was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed." Nothing could save us from the wrath of God and eternal death but the sacrifice of Jesus, and knowing this He freely poured out His blood for us, and now what kind of men are we if we will not undertake to live for Him? I want you to see in Him to-day your substitute—your sacrifice—your fulfillment of God's law. I want you to see in Him everything in the way of righteousness that God expects of you. Are you willing to accept Him to-day for all that God

REV. BILLY SUNDAY

Immediately, Says Sunday In a meeting Thomas Harrison was holding a man arose and said: "Mr. Harrison, can I be saved in ten minutes? I must leave here to take my train out then." "Yes," replied Harrison, "you can be saved in ten minutes." The man dropped on his knees, was quickly saved, and had seven minutes to spare.

ALLAN PARK

La Grippe is going its rounds, nearly everybody has had a cal from it, and he is not a welcome visitor either.

Mr. Mark Mervyn had a bee on Monday hauling brick for his house. Mr. Thomas Brigham sold a horse last week. Tom thinks he can do without him as he has a young team ready for the harness.

Mr. W. P. Bailey had a bee hauling home lumber for his new house which he intends to put up this summer. We noticed one crow flying around last week. I suppose he is looking for spring.

Mr. T. Brigham is going to run the saw mill again this spring. Tom is bound to be busy.

Mr. Wm. Adlam is having a bee this week, hauling brick for his new house, which he intends to build this summer. We wish him success.

Mr. Moses Donley has been moving some of his stuff down to the Ferguson barn near Knox church, which he intends to work for a few years. Mose is a hustler, and will make things go if anybody does.

Mrs. Thomas Brigham was visiting with her sister Mrs. D. Adlam last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey of Vickers were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hunt's one evening last week.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

Wednesday evening of last week a number of the neighbors and acquaintances gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McKeown of the Glen to bid farewell to their daughter, Sadie, now Mrs. John Beach.

Mr. Archie McCuaig was made chairman and made a very suitable opening address. Mr. Malcolm, Mr. Innis, Dan McDougal, Robt. Shortreed, Angus McArthur, Otto Konold, Dan McArthur and others made brief addresses all voicing regrets at the separation, but wishing the young couple a happy and prosperous life at their new home in Cutknife Sask. At an appropriate time the address read by Mr. A. B. McArthur and the presentation made by Mr. Malcolm McInnis and Neil McPhail. Mr. Beach replied on behalf of himself and wife very appropriately. The company spent a very pleasant evening in speeches, music and dancing and enjoyed themselves up to five in the morning when the crowd dispersed by singing, "It's a long way to Tipperary." The young couple left for his father's in Iowa from the Glen station, Thursday, 2nd March. The address is as follows:— To Mrs. John Beach "Dear Friend—We cannot let you leave us without giving you some expression of our appreciation towards you.

You have always lived here amongst us. To many of us you have been a schoolmate. You have always done what you could and your departure will leave a vacancy that will be hard to fill. We would ask you to accept this silver tea set as a small token of our appreciation. We are glad to know you have bright prospects of a happy home. We know that you will do your part to make it such. We wish you and your husband a long and happy life and our prayer for you is that when we are done meeting and parting here on earth, that we may meet where parting is no more. Signed on behalf of your neighbors:—A. B. McArthur, Neil McPhail, A. C. McCuaig, John McArthur.

MAKING TOMMY ATTRACTIVE

Ethel, the 12-year-old daughter of a family that resides in an apartment house, recently said to her mother: "Mother, I wish you'd wash Tommy's face." Now, Tommy was the son of the man whose apartment adjoined theirs. So mother was both alarmed and astonished. "The idea!" she exclaimed, "Why he's a neighbor's child! I have nothing to do with him." "But I have," exclaimed Ethel. "We've become engaged, and I want to kiss him."

HIS POINT OF VIEW

"Reading a popular novel, are you? How an immortal being can waste his time with such trash is beyond me." "Are you quite sure I am immortal?" "Of course you are." "In that case I don't see why I should be so darned economical of my time."
