Lesson XII.—First Quarter, For March 19, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts viii, 4-17. Memory Verses, 5, 6—Golden Text, Acts viii, 30, 1. c.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The persecution of the saints, which began with the murder of Stephen, continued under Saul as a leader or at least a very active persecutor, for he is said to have entered every house and committed men and women to prison. The persecution was so great that it is said that all the believers, except the apostles, were scattered abroad through Judea and Samaria, but they went everywhere preaching the word, and thus God made the wrath of man to praise Him (verses 1-4; Ps. lxxvi, 10). Philip, the second of the seven Spirit filled men who were chosen to serve tables, now comes to the front as a preacher and is the prominent worker in the rest of this chapter.

There was a man in Samaria who had been bewitching and deceiving the people by sorcery, drawing people to himself as a great man, but when he saw greater works wrought by Philip he naturally became interested and professed himself a believer and was baptized. But Peter and John, having come from Jerusalem to help in the good work, found him out when he offered them money if they would give him the power of the Holy Spirit (verses 9-25). The gifts of God cannot be bought, nor does a true messenger of Christ ever seek any honor or glory for himself, for the Lord Jesus never sought His own will nor His own glory and told the people that they could not believe unless they sought honor from God only (John v, 30, 44; vi, 38; viii, 50). The Holy Spirit never honors any mere man, but through men honors Jesus Christ.

We must cease from men and see no man save Jesus only (Isa. ii, 22; Mark ix, 38). When Peter and John had helped the believers in Samaria they also preached the word of the Lord in many Samaritan villages as they journeyed back to Jerusalem (14 to 17 and 25). The Lord Jesus had said before His ascension that when they received the power of the Holy Spirit they would be His witnesses not only in Jerusalem and Samaria, but unto the uttermost part of the earth (Acts i, 8). The first part was being fulfilled, but some of the ends of the earth have not heard yet after nearly 1,900 years. How great is His patience! In the power of God, manifest in the words and works of the apostles and evangelists, we have seen something of the interest of heaven in the work of giving the good news to men. We have also seen the ministry of angels in taking Peter and John out of prison and sending them to preach in the temple (chapter v, 19, 20), and now, while Philip is busy in the midst of this great work in Samaria, a messenger from heaven is sent to him to tell him to leave it all and go away down to the desert road from Jerusalem to Gaza, but seemingly without giving any reason as to why he should do this.

Did ever a busy preacher of the gospel receive such a strange command? There did not seem to be any reason or common sense in it, but rather an interference with a great soul saving work. Might not Philip seem justified in saying, as Nehemiah once did, "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down?" (Neh. vi, 3). It was an evil spirit who was seeking Nehemiah, but it was the risen Christ who sent His angel to Philip because he saw a man of Ethiopia returning from Jerusalem without having heard the gospel, although the apostles were at Jerusalem. I see two or three important things here—the necessity of trying the spirits to see whether they are of God (1 John iv, 1-3), the necessity of always making plain the way of life in Christ lest some hungry seeking soul may go away without knowing how to be saved and the necessity of prompt obedience when God speaks, no matter how unreasonable it may seem to us.

We are glad to read that Philip arose and went (verse 27). If he had any committee to consult he would probably have been hindered; but, like Samuel, he was a man of God and had an ear for God and a willing heart. It is certainly most interesting to see this traveler, this treasurer of the queen of Ethiopia, reading the book of Isaiah as he journeyed and to be just at the place which told of a suffering Messiah, which we call Isa. liii, 7, 8, when a stranger approached the chariot, and hearing the words being read (for he was evidently reading or being read to aloud), he asked, "Understandest thou what thou readest?" Then followed the invitation to Philip to ride and to explain the Scripture, and we see a heart opened to receive Jesus Christ as Saviour and Messiah, a desire and readiness to confess Him in baptism, and a truly happy man went on his way rejoicing, having found in his chariot, by the word of God, what he had not found in Jerusalem. The Spirit of the Lord, who controlled Philip (verses 29, 29), carried him to Azotus, and he went on preaching everywhere.

DAILY SUNDAY'S SERMON

Subject: "Who Was Jesus?"

Some time ago I was startled by having this question flung upon me from the headlines of a daily newspaper: "Who Was Jesus?"

Well, let us try to find out who He was from some of the people who lived when he was here in the flesh, and who met him face to face. The first I will question are a strong man and his wife, and so to them I will say: "Who was Jesus?"

Both their faces brightened, and they both eagerly exclaimed, "Why, He came to our wedding, though we were only poor and unknown peasants, and turned the water into wine for us, so that we had as much good cheer as if we had been rich."

And from the countless other homes there come similar testimony that Jesus was a guest at the wedding and a friend ever afterward, who repeated time and again the miracle of turning water into wine for them.

Next I see a father, a lordly man, and with him there walks a noble youth of frank, open face.

"Who was Jesus?" I say to this father and his eyes kindle with a great joy, as he makes quick reply: "Why, sir, it was Jesus who gave me back this boy when all the doctors said that he must die. It was Jesus who turned sorrow into joy for me and mine. That is who Jesus was; the light and comfort of my home."

The next witness I would summon is a man so strong and robust that he seems never to have had an ill day in his life.

Let us ask him "Who was Jesus?" Instantly his face is so radiant it is evident that he has just heard the name of his best friend.

"Who was Jesus? Why, sir, it was Jesus coming down a mountain, followed by a great multitude, and without stopping to think what I was doing, I ran and fell on my face before Him, and cried out, 'Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean!'"

"Instead of rebuking me, as I deserved for my insane presumption, He laid his hand upon me and said, 'I will be thou clean,' and instantly I was sound and well again, for my flesh had become like that of a little child."

The next witness I would like to call is a woman; a matron who has silver in her hair, but her face is peaceful, and has a look of happy content.

Let me ask her the great question "Who was Jesus?" and at the name a great light transfigures her as she says with tears of joy in her eyes:

"Why, sir, it was Jesus who brought my son again to life when he was dead, and all was so dark and desolate in my poor heart. The boy was all I had, but one day he was brought home very ill and in three days he was dead."

"The time came for his burial and we were taking his poor body out to the place of the dead and when we had almost come to the grave we met a large company, and a man came forward who looked upon me with great compassion and said, 'Weep not.'"

"Then he came and touched the bier and said: 'Young man, I say unto thee arise!' Then he that was dead sat up and began to speak, and then he was restored to me and we returned to our home with great joy."

"And, sir, that was Jesus who gave me back my boy, and my son who was dead is alive again, became one of His most earnest disciples from that hour."

Who then was Jesus? It was Jesus who wrought all the great and mighty works we have been considering. It was Jesus who had compassion on the multitude, who wept over Jerusalem and at the grave of Lazarus. It was Jesus who never turned a deaf ear to the cry of the needy who sought His help.

It was Jesus who never lifted His hand except in blessing and what He did while here in the flesh He is still doing spiritually in a thousandfold greater sense all over the world, for He is the changeless Christ, who is the same yesterday, to-day and forever more.

That is who He was and is, and all ways will be. All hail the power of Jesus' name! Let anabels prostrate fall. Bring forth the royal diadem, And crown Him Lord of all!

Told by Billy Sunday A certain wealthy family returning home late one night discovered that a burglar had rifled their silver-chest of all its contents. The drawers were pulled from the buffet and their contents scattered on the floor. The table linen was disarranged, the dining room was in general disorder.

But the thing which struck the attention of the family was the fact that a marble head of Christ, which was so situated that its eyes fell directly on the silver-chest had been turned with its face to the wall. The black finger prints on the marble bust told the story. The burglar was unable to commit the theft with even a marble Christ looking at him, and had turned the face toward the wall.

May I not hope that you men and women will show at least the tender sensibilities of this burglar!

Facts About Your Watch In the average watch the balance wheel vibrates 300 times a minute, 18,000 times each hour, 432,000 times a day, and 157,788,000 times a year. As each vibration covers about one and a half revolutions, the shaft on which the balance wheel is mounted makes 236,682,000 revolutions in its bearings each year. A modern locomotive with 7-foot drivers would have to run 985,824 miles to make an equal number of revolutions. Running at the rate of a mile a minute, without stopping, it would take 683 days, or nearly two years, for the axle of the drive wheel of the locomotive to make as many revolutions as the balance wheel shaft of the watch does in one year, and it would cover a distance of over three-and-a-half times round the world.
