Messages of Statesmen and Commanders to Empire and World on War Anniversary

"We look forward with confidence to success and triumphant peace," was the conclusion of an inspiring telegram from General Sir Douglas Haig, commander of the British armles in France, read at a packed meetin Queen's Hall Friday night to celebrate the second anniversary of the war. Earl Derby who presided read a telegram from Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, which was similar in tenor to that sent by General Haig, in a brief speech Earl Derby said: Notwithstanding our losses and the misery and anxiety caused by the war, the Empire is just as determined as ever to see German militarism crushed. Although the end of the war may not be in sight, never have we stood in so favorable a position as to-night." New Spirit of Nation

Premier Asquith received a tremendous reception when he moved a determination of the people of London to continue the war to a successful end. Premier Asquith said the war has breathed a new spirit into nothing more remarkable during the past year than the success with which the Entence Allies had developed a common policy and a united plan, which had resulted in the present successful and vigorous offensive.

"Our navy," the Premier continued, "with its ever-tightening grip, is throttling the life of Germany, and never in history has there been such demonstrative proof, of the supreme importance of the command of the sea. The enemy is everywhere on the defensive. In no theatre has he attempted to regain the initiative and there are s gas of material weakening and exhaustion. That is all the more reason why the allies should cooperate and maintain the struggle with increasing tenacity and unrelaxing will. The recrudescence of deliberate at a calculated barbarity on the part of Germany indicates her sense of desperation. Nor can we forget the great infamy directed against ourselves in the judicial murder of Capt. Fryatt, which has stirred the indignation and outraged the conscience of the whole world."

Resolve of All to Fight Andrew Bonar Law, Minister for the Colonies, characterized the war as the most wicked the world had ever seen, and declared Germany had forever lost the advantages which the saw the initiative entirely with the years of preparation had given it. Mr. Law read messages from Gen. Louis | the first time was exerting something Botha, Premier of South Africa, and like the power worthy of her numbers Lieut.-Gen. KING GEORGE TO ALBERT

Britain, With Allies, Determined to Restore Belgium

King George sent the following mesmage to the sovereigns and heads of the allied States, dated Aug. 3, midnight: "On this day, the second anniversary of the commencement of the or three new divisions would be orgreat conflict in which my country ganized in England, providing work desire to convey to you my steadfast resolution to prosecute the war until our united efforts have attained the objects for which we in common have taken up arms." Simultaneously the King sent a message to the King of the Belgians as follows: "On this, the second anniversary of the day my country took up arms to resist the violation of the neutrality of Belgium, I desire to assure your Majesty of my confidence that the united efforts of the allies will liberate Belgium from the oppression of her aggressors and restore her to the full enjoyment of national and economic independence." The King also sent a message to Gen. Smuts expressing his appreciation of the skill and courage with which the operations in East Africa had been executed.

Foster Pledges Canada

Peaceful People Eager to Accept Challenge To Go On

Speaking for Canada at the Queen's Hall gathering on Friday with Asquith and Bonar Law to renew war pledges, Sir George Foster said that for one hundred years the Canadian people had lived in a land of uninterrupted peace. But when the declaration of war was made the heart of Canada responded as the heart of the mother country had responded to that declaration. Notwithstanding all the horrors and sacrifices of these and that with the united action of two years of war, it was best for the | the entente allies on the many fronts, present and infinitely better for the they were pressing forward to the cernture that Germany declared war and tain collapse of the German efforts mave us an opportunity to fight it out and to an assured victory of the al-

POZIERES VICTORIES

Australians and English Take 5,000 Yards and Repulse Attacks

London reported on Monday: Further important gains, including the capture of German trenches on a front of about 3,000 yards and of a depth of 400 to 600 yards, north and east of Pozieres, on the Somme battlefront, were made by the British troops in two days' fighting, in which Australians and men of Kent, Surrey and Sussex shared, it was announced in British official communiques. British artillery has shelled villages in the rear of the German lines and has caused large explosions. The 3,000 yards mentioned above, with the 2,000 captured by the Australians, makes 5,000 yards of trenches in all reported captured since Friday night.

British troops repulsed on Monday five strong and determined German attacks on their newly won positions north and northeast of Pozieres, driving out hostile detachments which had made their way into the British trenches at one or two points. The Germans also made several small attacks east of Pozieres Sunday night and these were all summarily dealt resolution expressing the inflexible with. Late Monday the French troops captured a line of German trenches between the Hem Wood and the Somme, according to the official statement issued by the war office. THIRD IS ALLIES' YEAR

Sir Douglas Haig Gives Strong Assurances of Confidence

The following despatch was sent sent on Tuesday from British Headquarters at the front by Frederick Palmer: "The third year of the war will be the allies' year. No less than France, now that we are ready, we shall give all the strength there is in ' us to drive the invader from her soil and from that of Belgium. Britain will not achieve her full strength on land, however, until next summer. All those who believe that our cause * is the cause of civilization may rest assured that this army has no thought | except to go on delivering blow after | * blow until we have won that victory by force of arms which will secure an enduring peace."-General Sir Douglas Haig.

At the close of two years of war and of the first month of the British offensive, the Commander-in-chief of the group of British armies in France, speaking of the situation, laid particular emphasis on the fact that the beginning of the third year of war allies on all fronts, while Britain for

There were present the following parliamentary delegates: Senator Dennis, Messrs. Armstrong, Shepherd and Nickle. Addressing the officers, Sir Sam Hughes said that two and her gallant allies are engaged, I for the many excellent surplus officers. He complimented the officers and men upon their splendid appearance, and said he was told by a wounded German soldier in New York that the enemy regarded the Canadians as amongst the best troops against them. Sir George Foster said that he was not a military man, but if he were any judge of good-looking, well set up and effective troops, then the men he saw before him were the finest body of troops he had ever seen.

Enemy Lose 600,000

In Two Months' War on East and West Fronts

It is stated by a reliable authority that Germany and Austria since June 4 have lost on both the eastern and western fronts, not including the Italian front, 380,000 officers and men in prisoners, and 370,000 in killed and wounded, representing a permanent loss of 600,000 men. In addition, they are said to have lost 600 guns and 1,500 machine guns. The German estimate of the British and French losses on the Somme is stated to be a gross exaggeration.

Russians Report Reverse Near Kovel -Hindenburg Promoted

Petrograd reported on Saturday: Gen. Sakharoff's troops continue to Lemberg. Petrograd reports the cap. The most recent attempt of the Turks ture of 1,300 Austro-Germans in a "hot attack" on the line of the Sereth and Graberki Rivers. All attempts of the Teutons to assume a counteroffensive in this region have proven futile. For the first time since the initiation of General Brusiloff's offensive on June 3rd the Russians have suffered a reverse. Friday's Petrograd War Office statement admitted that the Muscovite forces attacking the great Volhynian railway centre, Kovel, from the west, were driven from the village of Rudka-Nirvankaia, 19 miles from Kovel, and compelled to retire between 400 and 600 yards to the east. This came within 12 hours after an official bulletin from Berlin had given the news that Field Marshal von Hindenburg had been placed in supreme command of the day. Pursuing the advantages previously won in the region of the Graberka and the Sereth Rivers, Russian troops captured strongly fortified positions in the vicinity of the villages of Zvyjin, Kostiniec, and Renieuv, according to Monday's official communication to Petrograd. Uninterrupted rains have converted the country almost into a morass, making the going exceedingly slow. Sir Archibald James Murray, commander of the British forces in Egypt, reported that besides taking more than 3,000 prisoners in the battle with the Turks at Romani, his forces inflicted very heavy losses on them and had continued the pursuit of the retreating troops for 18 miles, clearing the Turks from the Katia basin. Military writers are unable to fathom the reason why the Turks ventured upon their attack.
