

SEAWEED AMMUNITION

Powder to be Taken From the Sea Waves

The curious fact is revealed in an interesting article in "Chamber's Journal" that seaweed is harvested for the purpose of making ammunition.

Seaweed, too, is of much value as a food. The weed which grows in such abundance in the Sargasso Sea, which is called "gulf weed" is used very largely for pickling and as salads.

When a horse is injured by careless feeding and watering, never water a horse immediately after feeding grain.

When horses are brought in hot from work they should first be given water cautiously and then fed hay and grain together, allowing them to exercise their own judgment in the selection of their feed.

GOOD FRENCH PROVERBS

It is said that the characteristics of a nation are revealed in its proverbs. Here are a few taken from "National Proverbs of France":

The absent are always in the wrong. Ready money doth great cures. Speak little and well if you would be esteemed as a man of merit.

Without bread and without wine love will come to nothing. Men who have little business are great talkers.

A woman is to her husband what her husband made her. When the foe fears us, we must dare everything.

Power is not shown by hitting hard or often, but by hitting straight. Prayer is a cry of hope.

Who makes excuses, accuses himself. A witicism proves nothing. A man whom nobody pleases is much more unhappy than a man who pleases nobody.

Good blood cannot lie. If you've a good case, try to compromise; if you've a bad one, take it into court.

HOW TO KILL HORSES

Feed and Water Carelessly—What Not To Do

Many horses are killed and many more are injured by careless feeding and watering. Never water a horse immediately after feeding grain.

When a horse becomes colicky or is foundered on a warm stomach, there is no one to blame but the one who had him in charge.

FEAR CAUSES DISEASE

Lets Down Drawbridge For Enemy to Enter Body

An eminent medical authority once made the statement that a great deal of contagion is due largely to nervous apprehension and fear. Terror causes radical changes in the secretions and nerve cells, and while the possibility is not the direct cause of disease, it certainly is sufficient to put the person in the proper condition to be attacked by the prevailing malady.

Cost of Carrying Water Twenty-five gallons of water is the average daily house use on most farms. It should be 150 gallons.

Why Dairymen Should Use Them Very Promptly Aside from checking fermentation, and therefore avoiding rapid spoiling of the cream the use of the cooling tank serves to take the animal heat out of the cream, preventing the cream and butter from developing an unpalatable smothered taste, which greatly depreciates the market value of butter.

Big Professional Fees When Sir Rufus Isaacs was at the Bar it is said his income reached about $150,000 a year. A leader of the Parliamentary Bar has topped that sum. Law and medicine offer big prizes to the few. It would be interesting to know which profession holds the record. Probably the largest fee ever given to a medical man was that given to Baron Dimsdale in 1769 for inoculating Catherine II. of Russia and her favorite Potemkin for the smallpox. It was $60,000 in cash and an annuity of $2,500 a year for life, the title of "Baron" being thrown in.

If a tool or implement is worth borrowing, it is worth taking home in just as good condition as it was when it was borrowed.

In transplanting lettuce or other soft plants, do not set too deep. If you do, the water is likely to collect in the lower leaves and cause them to decay.
