

Roll of Honor Durham and District

This list is intended to contain the names of all those who have enlisted from Durham and vicinity for service overseas. In it will be found the names of some who have since been discharged as medically unfit, or for other cause. Our object in publishing this list is to show who of our citizens have actually worn the khaki, and we have made no effort to include any who have applied and have been rejected. There will no doubt be mistakes—omissions may have been made, or other errors crept in, and we ask the assistance of our readers, and those who have members of their family at the front to make the necessary corrections. We would like the name of every enlisted man from this district on this list.

A Red Cross knitting tea, given at the home of Miss Maud Richardson, on Wednesday afternoon of last week, was quite successful. Proceeds, $6.80.

Springhill Red Cross gave a social in the red school on Friday evening last, which was well patronized. Proceeds $13.50. Mr. Robert Sharp made his first attempt as chairman, and conducted a pleasing program very nicely. In a puzzle contest, Mr. Frank Chard and Miss Dell Thurston won 1st prize, and Miss Irene Orr and Geo. Aikens came second.

Mrs. Sullivan has had her residence improved with a new entrance, and modern window in front.

Mr. Pinder, baker, has given up business here and gone to Prince Edward county. A splendid opening remains for a good man in that line.

The trustee board of the Methodist church has purchased the brick residence of the late Dr. Carter for a parsonage. The property was sold last week by tender, the price secured being $2,000.

Mr. and Mrs. J.L. McMullen received the sad news last week of the death of their second son, Gnr. Charles McMullen, one of three brothers at the front, who died on the 10th inst. from wounds received in action. Charlie, who was 30 years of age, was born near this village, and was a fine type of young manhood, active and useful in Christian work. For a number of years he had been living in Toronto, where he joined the artillery, with which he went to France in February, 1915. He and his brother, Lt. Austin McMullen, took part in the battle of Vimy Ridge, passing through the ordeal safely. His young wife and a child, born after his departure for France, are living in Toronto. The bereaved families have the deep sympathy of this community. A memorial service will be held in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath.

Pte. Dan McKinnon, son of Mrs. McKinnon of this place, is reported killed in France. The widowed mother, and a brother and sister, have the sympathy of all in their loss.

Rev. Mr. Dudgeon was unable to take his work on Sunday, being laid up with quinsy. Mr. R. J. Woods of Corbeton, supplied for him. Mr. Isaac Sinclair's friends are pleased to see him about again, after a severe and lengthy illness.

There was a good turnout at the depot on Friday to bid adieu to the soldier boys of the 24th, as they passed through for overseas.

Mrs. Jos. Clinton received word last week from her son, Pte. W. Fahey, who reported a pleasant sea voyage and safe arrival in England of the battalion to which he is attached from Moose Jaw.

The six inches fall of snow, and inclement weather made the 24th a quiet holiday. There were many stay-at-homes, and autos got an enforced rest.

Mr. Ross Douglas of Medicine Hat, Alta., arrived on Friday to visit his young sister, Jean, who is very low.

Pte. Charlie Thistlethwaite, who is improving in the convalescent home in London, visited his parents over the week-end.

Miss Minnie Hemphill of Toronto visited her uncle here last week.

Miss Beatrice Thistlethwaite was home from her school in Dufferin county over the holiday.

Mrs. John Edwards of Woodstock is visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Chard, and other relations. She was accompanied here by her cousin, Mr. Jas. Seeley, who visited over the week-end.

Mrs. W.H. Moore, Miss Edna Moore, Howard Moore, and Mr. O. Smith, motored from Toronto and were week-end visitors at Mrs. Parker's.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Trimble, Miss Trimble, and Mrs. C.N. Richardson, motored to Owen Sound on Sunday, to visit Mr. Trimble's sister, who is ill.

Dr. Little was visited over the holiday by his father and grandfather, Messrs. Johnson and William Little, of Owen Sound.

Messrs. Fred and Joe Armstrong, Roy McCauley, C. Cuthbert, and Tom Wardrobe, of Toronto, were visitors over the holiday and week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mitchell and Miss Holmes spent the week-end with friends in Toronto.

Miss Buckley was up from Toronto, visiting friends over the holiday.

Mrs. E. Simmons and children, of Horning's Mills, are on a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Best, and brother, Allie, who was recently injured. We learn some improvement is noted in his condition.

Mr. M. K. Richardson has been suffering much recently with rheumatism, but on Monday visited his office in Durham. He was motored by his nephew, Mr. C.N. Richardson. Mr. Sproule accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. O.W. Sinclair of Collingwood visited the week-end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sharp.

By an interesting "Pure Food" article in one of Toronto's papers, a few days ago, we learn Dr. C.F. Ottewill, formerly of this place, fills a very important position at the head of the abattoirs and meat inspection department. With four assistants, the work appears to be thoroughly done, safe-guarding the health of the citizens by their skill and vigilance.

Mr. Alex. McDonald, C.P.R. operator at McAleer, and wife, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Cairns, over the week-end.

Pte. Fred Stewart, grandson of the late Geo. Stewart, here is reported wounded in France.

Mrs. (Rev.) Dudgeon, and Miss Irene Eales, are in Toronto this week, delegates from the Women's Auxiliary and Mission Band to the W.M.S. annual convention.

LETTERS FROM THE SOLDIERS

A Letter from France.

A letter from Pte. D. M. (Mack) Saunders, was received last week by Mr. A. H. Jackson. It reads in part as follows:

France, May 1st, 1917.
Dear Mr. Jackson,—Just a line to say I received the parcel of tobacco all right, and appreciate your kindness very much. I divided up with Alex Donaldson, Harry Vollett, Bob Lindsay and D.K. Thompson. We are all together, and all wish to thank you very much. I received the parcel only a few minutes ago, and we are all having a hearty smoke on you.

We are in the best of health, and hope you are the same. I suppose Durham is a little quiet just now. I saw by the papers where Durham had been doing some curling, and it also runs in my mind that your name appeared in a hockey game they had on the night of the carnival. We will never run short of players. When we get back, we will just get after some of you fellows. We are having fine weather now, and it is a lot nicer when you don't have to wade in mud to your knees. I like France now, but was disgusted with it for a while when I first came. It was nothing but rain and mud, and then mud and rain for a change. Thanks again from one and all. Your friend, Pte. D. M. Saunders.

From An English Hospital.

A letter from Pte. Hector McGillivray, formerly of Dornoch, but now in a hospital in England, has been handed us for perusal. It was a personal letter, written to a friend at Dornoch, and not intended for publication. Parts of it will be interesting to those who know him, and those who don't know him will be interested in the cheerful character of his letter. He says in part:—

England, May 8th, 1917.
Dear Friend,—I received your letter on the 21st of April, but hadn't much time to answer it. Went up the line on the 22nd, was wounded on the morning of the 23rd, and my shoulder pained so much that I had to give writing up for a bad job.

I am in a regular home here, lots of milk and eggs, and they are awfully nice, too. There is a little Welsh nurse here. She is a cute little kid, and talks with a broad accent. I'm kind of struck on her, and think I'll take her back to Canada. There's an Irish nurse, also, and she, too, is very nice, but I'm a little afraid of her temper.

We have all kinds of soldiers here—Imperials, Australians, Canadians and Scotchmen, and another big bunch came in last night to our ward. I was out to a tea party yesterday, and had a great time. There were about 25 girls there, and we enjoyed ourselves immensely.

The weather in England is fine now; it is at its best. The ladies are very kind to us, and come in often and give us cigarettes, oranges, apples and lots of things. Some of the finest ones in England come to see us. We are only about eight miles from London.

The Canadians made a name for themselves at Vimy Ridge. I saw some of the 1st Canadian Mounted Rifles coming back, and they told me Dan, was wounded in the head and neck. I hope he made England. I hope to spend next Christmas at home.

I must tell you a little experience I had. I was a runner, and supposed to follow the officers of our platoon. There were two of us, and we were supposed to take messages back and forth. There was just one platoon going over on the right of the Imperials. We went up a road about 3.30 a.m., and waited until the artillery opened up. It was awful. It was just breaking day, and with a jug of rum and a rifle, it was no easy job of crawling along. We lost track of the other troops somehow, and the Germans turned their machine guns on us and started sniping, and a lot of the boys were killed or wounded, and we had to crawl over them. I was just digging myself in when I felt something tug at my haversack. I got it in the hip and the next one got me in the back right up near my left shoulder. It was a close call. My tunic was cut right across the back, so I decided the best thing to do was to leave, and I crawled over to a shell-hole where there were three others, one of whom died about ten minutes after he crawled in. We lay there till eight o'clock, knowing we would be shot if we got out and exposed ourselves. When it got dark we thought we would get back, but the Germans came over and chased us. We hated to run, but as there was one handful of us left it was the best thing we could do. Subsequently we got back and had our wounds dressed.

CARE OF THE MOUTH

The vital importance to the health of the body of the health or disease of the teeth and mouth has only quite recently been generally recognized. Even now there are numbers of people who only go to the dentist, or, indeed, take any thought of their teeth, when they are actually suffering from toothache. Yet the state of the mouth and teeth is of the utmost importance in the bodily economy.

In the first place, the state of the teeth affects the digestion in quite a direct way. Carious teeth, or decayed teeth, cannot grind up and pulp the food to the proper extent, so that it cannot be acted upon fully by the digestive fluids. Imperfect mastication, due to decayed teeth, is one of the commonest causes of chronic indigestion.

But quite apart from this direct influence upon the food, carious teeth and the diseased gums which accompany them play an even more serious part in the causation of illness. The poisonous products which lie in and around them are forced out by the pressure incident to the act of mastication, so that every mouthful of food is poisoned as it is swallowed. And "poison" in this connection is not a figure of speech. Such diseases as rheumatism and gastric ulcer, and every form of dyspepsia are nowadays traced directly to its action. In children, it causes fits, convulsions and coma, as well as many obscure feverish conditions, and the restoration of the mouth to a healthy condition often brings about the termination of illnesses which have stubbornly refused to yield to ordinary treatment.—Physician.
