Bought She Would be by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wis.—"I suffered from which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief. I had entirely recovered from my ailment and should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

From Ogdensburg, Wis. "I had been in bed for nearly a year and could not get up. I had been told that the good old fashioned Compound contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and it cured me. I should try it for special free advice."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. About three inches of snow fell on the early morning of Victoria Day, and everything appeared dreary. On Saturday, ex-Reeve Nichol, of Glenelg, was in town, and told us his garden, which had been planted some time previously, was covered with about a foot of snow. On the 27th of May, 1917, we had a similar snow fall.

Notwithstanding the heavy enlistments, Owen Sound's population has decreased only 91. The present municipal census gives 11,819. Duncan McNab, reeve of Orillia, died on the 21st of May, after a week's illness. He was a Scottish Highlander, and in his 81st year. He leaves a family of four sons and three daughters.

OVERDOING IN POTATOES?

(Vim, in The Weekly Sun.) I have been asked, "Is potato planting going to be overdone?" several times. My answer to one and all is, "I do not think so." The great flurry in cities and towns over the food question will not amount to any appreciable increase in the national supply, and besides, seed is so abnormally dear and scarce that no great number will plant extensively; also much seed planted will be diseased and lacking in vitality, and consequently will not yield well. So that it appears to me that we need not fear a slump in prices for this season's produce.

I take the liberty of urging my readers to plant all they can properly care for, both from the viewpoint of profit and patriotism. We grow no crop more needed by all, and no crop more important for the national well-being. Our growing youth need them to develop into strong and energetic men and women, and our laboring classes need them to neutralize the evil effects of a meat diet. From the King down through all grades of society, the potato occupies an important part in our dietary.

This continent uses yearly upwards of 300 millions of bushels, and in normal times Toronto alone uses 2,000 bags per day. According to the 1915 crop report we had nearly 174,000 acres in potatoes, which yielded nearly 13 1/2 million bushels, with a yearly average of 18 1/2 million bushels for the province. Two-fifths of these will be culls, and only fit for stock feed. This leaves about 2 1/2 bushels per head for the whole population. This is not nearly sufficient, consequently we must draw large supplies from the eastern provinces, which greatly increases the cost to the consumers.

This condition should not be. Potatoes are a very profitable crop at 75c. per bag. We made money at 45c. per bag, because we reckoned the culls were worth the cost of the labor, and the field was put in the best condition for a crop of barley and grass seeds. In fact, our present farm was purchased chiefly by the profits of growing these roots.

It is with potatoes as it is with fowl—every farm, large or small, should look well to these small but important sources of income. By each farmer planting an acre or two of potatoes, and giving them proper care, generally, he will have plenty for his family, and sufficient to sell to realize a sum that will supply many little demands. An Irish woman was asked how she managed to clothe and keep her large family so tidy. "Traught," she replied, "Sure, the hens did it." This was true, as many of our good mothers can testify to.

When to Plant

Regarding the time to plant. Nature is our best guide. Potatoes are a sub-tropical plant, and cannot stand much frost, so that there is nothing gained by planting before the soil is somewhat warmed, when the maples are in leaf, and the wild plum is in flower, is the right time. Of late, it has been quite general to plant in the last of June, so as to have the tubers forming in the cool autumn weather. This method has given some splendid crops, on naturally cool and damp soil, but on soils of a dry and hot nature, the plant should have a good chance to form top and get a good root hold before the heat and drought of summer.

The record of the school in past years is a flattering one. The trustees are progressive educationally, and spare no pains to see that teachers and pupils have every advantage for the proper presentation and acquisition of knowledge.

FEES: $1 per month in advance.

H. R. KOCH, Chairman J. F. GRANT, Secretary.

We must be guided by reason and past experience in all matters of farming, and it is not always safe to "farm by the book." Some of our teachers assert that immature sets are the best, because they give the best yield. I prefer a fully developed and ripened tuber, as more likely to give a vigorous plant and tubers of a better table quality.

However, we shall have to plant what we can get this season, and the more potatoes we raise, the better able shall we be to keep down the price of flour, so that all may have plenty to eat and be happy.

We have a stock of ground feed wheat on hand that we are offering for the next few days at $40 per ton, sacks included. If you need feed, buy now, as we have only a limited quantity to offer at this price.—The Rob Roy Cereal Mills Company, Limited.
