TO OUR READERS IN ARREARS

We have sent out accounts for over $700 for arrears on subscription, and if every one would live up to the golden rule, we would receive the cash by a very early mail. We know some will make remittance at once, and every dollar we receive in response will be heartily appreciated. If you owe the money you ought to pay. If we have made any errors, we are willing to make the necessary corrections. We have made the accounts out at a dollar a year, and shall accept that sum in settlement if paid at once. If not so paid, we shall be forced to charge $1.50 a year, to cover the cost of collection, postage and other expenses. We have been very lenient with our readers during the 20 years we have been conducting The Chronicle. The best way to show your appreciation of our leniency is to pay up promptly. Please do so to-day.

These pictures have never been shown at these prices before. Remember the date, July 25th. Admission 25c.

DEATH OF MRS. M. J. BOLGER

At the home of her sister, Mrs. John Runstadler, in Toronto, there passed away on Friday, the 13th of July, Mary Egan, the beloved wife of Matthew J. Bolger, of Durham.

About four months ago, while visiting friends in Toronto, she was taken ill with complications of the heart, and notwithstanding the most careful nursing and best efforts of some of the city's most prominent physicians, she gradually grew weaker until the end came.

The deceased lady was born in Proton township, Grey county, about 37 years ago, and to the family plot of the South Proton R. C. church, her remains were taken from Dundalk on Monday, on the arrival of the noon train from Toronto, a very large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends joining in the procession to the grave.

Being of an amiable and kindly disposition, she will be much mourned by a large circle of relatives and friends. Besides a loving husband and step-daughter, she leaves behind to mourn her departure an aged mother, a loving sister, Mrs. Runstadler, two brothers, John and Mortimer, all of Toronto, and a brother, Thomas, of Ingersoll. May her soul rest in peace.

Our mailing lists were corrected on Monday, July 16th. If errors or omissions appear, kindly let us know. We wish to have them absolutely correct.

An electric light wire short-circuited on a Kincardine bridge last week, and several horses passing over the wet roadway were brought to their knees. No damage was done.

THE TWELFTH AT ALLAN PARK

The Orangemen had unfavorable weather for their Twelfth of July celebration. The morning broke with a cheerless appearance; it rained quite heavily at times, and continued to rain for the greater part of the forenoon, and at intervals up to two o'clock. From then on, the weather man was more kindly disposed, old sol shone brightly, and the crowds began to move toward the centre of attraction.

A big picnic was arranged for at Allan Park, and when the weather cleared, a large and joyous crowd soon found its way to Robt. Brigham's grove, a beautiful and ideal spot for such a gathering. Here the booths were busy, and preparations were being made to furnish supper for all who would participate. All profits were to go to the Red Cross, and cards announcing the fact were conspicuously posted.

This is a real pleasure ground, and had been fitted up by Mr. Brigham for the accommodation of such gatherings. The refreshment booth and dining hall are permanent structures, erected for the purpose, and just at the rear, the waters of the Saugeen, swollen by the recent rains, ran swiftly past.

In due time, the Orangemen assembled for a brief demonstration, enjoyed a short parade, and soon gathered about the platform again when Mr. H. A. Fish, an ex-Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of British North America, was prepared with a rousing address, that was listened to with intense interest. Mr. Joseph Brown, Master of Durham Lodge, had charge of the gathering, and amongst the Orange veterans on the platform we noticed Wm. Sharp of Normanby, Henry Storey of Durham, Henry Lawrence of Glenelg, Henry Brigham of Allan Park, and others, all of whom were called upon for addresses, and made brief replies.

The Church of England Minister from Hanover was present, and made a brief, but pointed address, in which he noted his approval of the remarks of Mr. Fish, and the other speakers.

When it is known that Hon. Dr. Jamieson, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, and Hon. Mr. Martin, the Premier of Saskatchewan, were in attendance, the people of the locality will have reason to feel pleased, were it not for the fact that they came late, and were not called on for addresses.

In the evening a game of baseball was played between a team from Hanover and a team from the farming community near by. The Hanover boys won, but we have not learned the score.

There were Orangemen from Hanover and Durham, and at the close of the day's exercises there were several initiations in the Allan Park lodge-room.

The attendance was large, considering the unfavorable condition of the weather. We can scarcely make a guess at the number in attendance, but when the gate receipts are announced, a better estimate can be made.

The only music consisted of the fifes and drums of the different lodges formed up, and Hewitt's fife and drum band, which led in the program. It was the most like a Twelfth of July gathering of 40 years ago, of anything we have seen for some time.

A good supper was furnished for a quarter, and the ice cream and light liquid refreshments were disposed of at the regular five-cent rates. The ladies of the section contributed the eatables as a method of raising money for the Red Cross.

Coal prices dropped $1 to $1.50 in the United States last week, and it is expected to go lower, as the government is to fix the price. We wonder if the wave will soon reach Durham?
