

Roll of Honor Durham and District

This list is intended to contain the names of all those who have enlisted from Durham and vicinity for service overseas. In it will be found the names of some who have since been discharged as medically unfit, or for other cause. Our object in publishing this list is to show who of our citizens have actually worn the khaki, and we have made no effort to include any who have applied and have been rejected. There will no doubt be mistakes—omissions may have been made, or other errors crept in, and we ask the assistance of our readers, and those who have members of their family at the front to make the necessary corrections. We would like the name of every enlisted man from this district on this list.

CONCRETE ON GREY COUNTY FARMS

"Ahmik" the Agricultural Editor of The Toronto Globe, writes as follows on the use of concrete for building on one Grey County farm: "Two of the most cheaply constructed silos in the province are located on the farm of Mr. W. H. Hunter, in Egremont township. The silos were cheap as to cost, but there is nothing 'cheap' about their construction; on the contrary, they are as substantial a looking pair of concrete structures as one would care to see.

"One of the silos is 12x30 and the other 12x34. The walls are eleven inches at the base, and six inches at the top. Mr. Hunter erected one of the silos with the help of his hired man, buying a set of wooden rings to serve as molds. When the silo was built, the molds were sold for what they cost. The actual cash outlay on the silo itself was only $56. The work of erecting the other silo was let by contract and the cost in this case was $75. It was not necessary, however, to buy gravel for either of the silos, as there is an abundance of this material all over the neighborhood in which Mr. Hunter lives.

"Seventeen acres of corn filled both of these silos last year," said Mr. Hunter. "The corn was mostly White Cap. I have grown Bailey, Leeming, White Cap and Wisconsin No. 7, all in the same year, and could see no material difference in their merits."

"Mr. Hunter's genius for economical and satisfactory construction work has not been confined to silo-building. It has extended to house building as well. His house is a balloon frame, with four inches of concrete, mixed one to five, on the outside. The outside is finished with concrete plaster, one to two. Inside, the walls are lath and plaster. There is thus an impenetrable outer surface to the walls and an air space in the middle of the same. Warmth and a dry inside are thus ensured. Here, again, Mr. Hunter did a good deal of the work himself, the four-inch concrete outer wall being put up with the aid of one helper in nine days. The house is 29x32, and is as attractive in appearance as it is comfortable within.

"Near the house is a well 100 feet deep operated by a windmill. This windmill pumps water into a tank in the attic, and from this tank water is supplied by gravity not only for household purposes (including flushing in the lavatory), but for live stock in the stables as well. There is a second tank, 6x5, in the attic, to which soft water is conveyed from the roof, with an overflow to a cistern below. This provides a plentiful supply of soft water for bath, washing, etc.

"One wholly unique idea has been put in practice in the Hunter home. The upper centre panels of the outer doors are removable by the mere turning of a set of buttons. In summer the panels are formed by screens, which admit air, but exclude flies. As fall approaches, the screens are taken out and the framed glass put in.

"You see," said Mrs. Hunter, "we can make these changes ourselves without bothering the men, and even the best tempered of men do not want to be bothered with adjusting screen doors when the rush of work is beginning in spring."

UNPATRIOTIC CIRCULARIZING

Liquor dealers of Quebec are continually sending price lists and order forms to hundreds of people in this locality, but it remained for one firm to out-do any of the others in their lack of patriotism.

A circular received by this paper on Tuesday, sent out by the Ontario Liquor Stores Co., with the name of Chas. D. Kanter attached thereto, was posted in Baltimore, Md., and had an American two-cent stamp on the envelope. The circulars were either printed in the States and mailed from there, or they were sent from Montreal and posted from that city to save the one-cent war-tax stamp. It is about as unpatriotic as it could be under the circumstances and does not mark that particular firm as a leader in patriotism. Possibly other liquor firms adopt the same method but it should not be permitted. Circulars advertising Canadian business should bear Canadian post marks and Canadian stamps.

PROTECTION FROM FLIES

Mix one ounce of pennyroyal with one pint of olive or rape oil. Shake and mix thoroughly and sponge lightly with this mixture over the horse in the morning and he will be free from worry for the day. This has been tested and found an excellent remedy. This is a good prescription, and experience suggests making more than one application a day.

WHAT IS EXPECTED OF CANADA

The following message from Baron Rhonda, the British Food Controller, to the Canadian people should be read by everyone, and the situation carefully considered by them. The requirements of the mother country, the need of greater production, the necessity of economy, the elimination of waste,—all call for careful consideration. But they need more than consideration, they need to be acted upon.

Baron Rhonda's Message.

"We look to the resources of Canada and to the indomitable energy of Canadians, for an answer that will shatter Germany's threat of starvation. In normal times the Mother Country is dependent on your Dominion for a large part of its food supplies. War has increased that dependence to such an extent that it is now vital for the United Kingdom and the Allies in Europe to obtain from Canada food-stuffs in far larger quantities than under peace conditions. That must necessarily entail effort and far-reaching economy, with their attendant sacrifices, on the part of the Canadian.

"I know that, like ourselves at home, the pick of your manhood have gone, and are going to take their splendid share in the front line of battle, and that, therefore, you are faced with the difficulty of a supply of labor. I also realize that an increased export of food supplies must entail diversion of effort from other enterprise, yet I am convinced that the people of Canada will surmount all obstacles and that the harvest, as far as human labor can achieve, will be a striking demonstration of Canada's efficiency and determination. The willingness of the Canadian people to permit control of their products for purposes of winning the war is naturally welcomed by all the Allies, as tending to increase the supply and to regulate prices. The certainty that we can rely on your whole-hearted co-operation, not only in utilizing every ounce of national energy to increase production, but in equitable adjustment of prices, gives me the greatest encouragement. I most heartily wish you every success in your all-important work."

On Friday evening, Dr. Clark, M. P., will address a "Win-the-War" gathering at Hamilton, the beginning of a series of meetings in which he will take part for the next three weeks throughout Ontario.

"SEVEN COME ELEVEN"

(Collingwood Bulletin.)

"Seven come eleven" rang out in the night air on Saturday night, shortly before twelve o'clock, when Special Constable William Michel was making his rounds on the road leading to the town wharf. Coming closer to the scene of the game, he found seven young men, some of whom might have been better in the bosom of their families, gathered under the glare of an electric lamp engaged in the old-time game of crap. Chief Ross, who had been notified, was also on the job, and together the officers soon had the players under their direction and on the way to the police offices in the town hall, though one of the septette was only induced to come along by the bullets from a revolver in the hands of one of the officials. At the police station the men admitted their offence, and after arrangements had been made for them to later appear before the magistrate, they were let go to their respective homes. The cases were set for hearing on Tuesday, but ere that time had arrived they had come to the conclusion that it was
