

Why "Anuric" Is an INSURANCE Against Sudden Death.

Before an Insurance Company will take a risk on your life the examining physician will test the urine and report whether you are a good risk. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or the twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism and gout. The urine is often cloudy, full of sediment; channels often get sore and sleep is disturbed two or three times a night. This is the time you should consult some physician of wide experience—such as Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N.Y. Send him 10 cents for sample package of his new discovery, "Anuric." Write him your symptoms and send a sample of urine for test. Experience has taught Dr. Pierce that "Anuric" is the most powerful agent in dissolving uric acid, as hot water melts sugar; besides being absolutely harmless it is endowed with other properties, for it preserves the kidneys in a healthy condition by thoroughly cleansing them. Being so many times more active than lithia, it clears the heart valves of any sandy substances which may clog them and checks the degeneration of the blood-vessels, as well as regulating blood pressure. "Anuric" is a regular insurance and life-saver for all big meat-eaters and those who deposit lime-salts in their joints. Ask the druggist for "Anuric" put up by Dr. Pierce, in 50-cent packages.

STRENGTH AND BEAUTY

Come with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This is a blood cleanser and alterative that strengthens the liver and stomach into vigorous action. It thus assists the body to manufacture rich red blood which feeds the heart, nerves, brain and organs of the body. The organs work smoothly like machinery running in oil. You feel clean, strong and strenuous instead of tired, weak and faint.

20 YEARS AGO

From The Chronicle File of August 5th, 1897.

Our streets are in darkness. The McGowan Lighting Co. have sold out, and no provision has yet been made for lighting.

We learn that Mr. W. J. Mitchell, former editor of The Chronicle, has purchased a newspaper at Portage La Prairie.

Three hundred dollars a year, house, lot, butter and eggs, to married man. Must be a thoroughly experienced farmer, able to manage farm of 200 acres in South Dakota. Apply immediately to H. A. Hunter, Durham.

Building operations have commenced on the McIntyre Block. The cellar is being excavated and the earth is utilized in widening Lambton street, near the bridge.

Bruin wasn't guilty. One of our Glenelg farmers was passing his neighbor's pasture and noticed sheep, apparently worried by a bear, and as there was said to be a bear seen some days before, he concluded Mr. Bruin had been at work there and proceeded to investigate. They found the damage had been done by sheep maggot, the owner having cut the tails off the lambs in warm weather and didn't attend them.

Of the 32 who passed Form I or Commercial Examination, 28 were pupils of our Model school here, and received their training from Mr. Allan, whose success in Durham has won for him provincial-wide reputation as an educator. Of his 31 candidates, only three failed.

We understand, too, that some of Mr. Blakiston's pupils were successful, and with the extraordinary amount of additional work he must have, his unbroken success in the preparation of candidates for the higher examinations should not be lost sight of by the people of Princeville.

Rev. Mr. Connor of Trinity church exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Ryan of Adelaide, on Sunday last.

Mr. Archie Brown, of The Chronicle staff, and Miss Collier, saleswoman in Grant's store, wheeled to Owen Sound on Monday last, leaving here at five o'clock in the morning.

Mr. J. McKenzie Robertson, of the J. B. McLean Publishing Co., Toronto, and his brother, Alex., electrician, accompanied by Mr. F. J. Perry, sporting editor of The Toronto Telegram, were in town last week and called at our sanctum for a few minutes. They came on their bicycles, but were rain-bound a few times.

Mrs. R. G. Jasper, mother of Mrs. D. Greenwood, died recently at Hartney, Manitoba.

Mr. John Hughes, one of Normanby's oldest settlers, died on Monday, the 26th of July, at the age of 64.

M. Hughes and T. Ledingham, of Welbeck, passed the entrance examination.

Born.—At Smith's Falls, on July 14th, at the Baptist parsonage, to Rev. and Mrs. C. S. G. Boone, a daughter.

Died.—On Saturday morning, July 31, Louisa Selina, beloved wife of Wm. Petty, aged 33 years.

Moss Lake cor.—There was a lot of hay damaged in this locality.—The spring wheat is rusted a little.—Abram Hooper's fine barn is nearly completed. Mr. Moore of Durham is the builder.

"Is your motor a good hill climber?"

"Fine," replied Mr. Chuggins. "I only wish it would draw the line at hills. Sometimes it wants to try a tree or telegraph pole."

YOUR CHILD

Will not suffer with sunburn or heat rash if you use Zam-Buk.

The Superintendent of S.A. Fresh Air Camp at Clarkson's, Ont., says:

"We always keep a supply of Zam-Buk at our Children's Camp.

We use it constantly for sunburn, insect stings and bites, as well as for cuts, bruises and sores, and believe there is nothing to equal it."

Zam-Buk is especially suitable for a child's tender skin, owing to its purity of composition. It contains absolutely none of the coarse animal fat or harsh mineral drugs found in ordinary ointments.

HOW YOU MAY USE SOUR MILK

FARMER JOHN SPEAKS HIS MIND

"What shall I do with this bottle of milk, which has turned sour?" the young housekeeper enquired of the more experienced one, who was spending the day with her in the little cottage by the seashore.

"Make cottage cheese," was the response, as her guest knitted placidly on in the little screened porch that served as a dining-room the hostess was preparing lunch in the ship's cabin kitchen, as she called it, on the other side of the door.

"But I don't know how," she replied.

The guest put down her gay orange-colored wool and went into the kitchen.

"I'll show you how," she said. "In the first place, let us turn the milk out into a broad, shallow dish. If it is well clabbered, that is, thick, and a trifle stiff, we can begin at once. Fortunately, it is; see, it is almost of a jelly-like consistency. Let us put it on the stove now in a double boiler. Have you some hot water, not boiling, to put under it? If you cook with a thermometer, you can manage to keep the water at about 100 degrees Fahrenheit, which is said to be right for cottage cheese. Now, we will let it cook for about 20 minutes. First, though, let us break it up well into little pieces. When it has cooked long enough we will pour it into a cheese-cloth bag and hang it up to drip, and we can help a little of the whey out with a spoon. Don't let it get too dry, though, because, when the greater part of the liquid has been drained off, we are going to turn the curd into a bowl and work it together with a butter paddle until it becomes quite smooth and slightly resembles mashed potatoes. Be sure to remember to work a little salt into it.

"Cottage cheese is a convenient thing to have on hand, as you will doubtless discover. It is useful in ever so many ways. For instance, you can use it to excellent advantage in salads. Take a nice, ripe, red tomato for one. Scoop out the inside of a part of it, and put in a neat little ball of cheese, rolled like a butter ball on a nest of them, pour French dressing over it all, and there you have a delicious and easily prepared salad—a dainty one, too.

"Cottage cheese is good for sandwiches, also, especially when combined with olives or nuts or jelly or something of that sort. Probably you will invent plenty of uses for it yourself, after you become accustomed to making it.

"Sour milk is good for ever so many other things, too. In our house, we prefer it to sweet milk for making baking powder biscuits, only, instead of using much baking powder, we put in soda for a part of it. And, when we have corn bread, we always use sour milk; in fact, we think that you cannot make good corn bread with sweet milk, that is, not with the white meal which southerners use. Then there are griddle, or batter cakes and blueberry muffins—ever so many things that sour milk is good for; just get down your cook-book, hunt out the interesting-looking recipes that call for sour milk and try them. The next time I come to see you I will bring you over some of my sour milk recipes—for those blueberry muffins, for instance, and for a delicious cake which, by the way, does not require any eggs. You will like them all, I am sure."

HOW GREAT MEN DIE

A great man can die well when his reputation is secure. "You can write my life across the sky," said Charles H. Spurgeon in his dying hour. "I have nothing to hide."

John Ruskin affirmed that he had never written a letter which he would not be willing to have read before the whole world. To these two splendid utterances we would add the words of Sir Walter Scott:

"I have been, perhaps, the most voluminous author of the day, and it is a comfort to me to think that I have tried to unsettle no man's faith, to corrupt no man's principles, and that I have written nothing which, on my deathbed, I should wish blotted out." These are almost the last words of the man who redeemed the novel and made it not only a channel of great blessing to the world, but an ornament in every civilized home.

PREVENTS BACK-LASHING

A new device for preventing back-lashing in casting, now incorporated in certain fishing reels, consists of a bar to which is attached a wire bail that serves as a brake lever.

Whenever the fishline is taut, it draws the bail up into such a position that it releases the reel-brakes but when the line slackens, as when the line strikes the water, the bail drops down, setting the brakes so that the reel's speed is lessened, and no backlash occurs.

"Uncle Rastus, you are preaching for a new congregation now, aren't you?"

"Yes, suh."

"What are the prospects? How do you like the outlook?"

"Well, suh, de outlook ain't so bad, but de fust inlook I took at de rail afatch it had gone round 'mongst de congregation fo' collections was very disappointin', suh, very disappointin'."—Chicago Tribune.

Sunlight Soap

There is pleasure at every stage in the use of Sunlight. In the washing—for the work is greatly lightened.

In the ironing—for the clothes have such a fresh, sweet air of newness. In the wearing—for the clothes have inherited the exquisite purity of Sunlight itself—and are clean indeed.

A £500 guarantee attests the purity of Sunlight Soap. All grocers sell it.

ORDERED LIFE SUPPLY OF 4,000 GALLONS OF BOOZE

Before the state-wide prohibition went into effect in Nebraska on the 1st of May of this year, Aaron Larson, a farmer living near Omaha, went to a life insurance company, had himself examined, and found that according to the moduity tables he would probably live for forty years. Then Larson bought himself a forty years' supply of whiskey and salted it away in his barn...He built a special house for the liquor and stored it away in the most systematic manner.

There were 4,000 gallons of beer, whiskey, brandy, wine and other drinks. Larson had estimated that he would drink 100 gallons every year for the balance of his lifetime.

That is nearly a third of a gallon a day.

Under the Nebraskan prohibition law, an individual can have a "reasonable" amount of liquor in his own home, provided his supply was purchased and laid in before the law went into effect. After the law became effective, no further liquor could be brought into the state.

Larson made one mistake in storing his life supply of liquor. The law provided that the liquor should be kept in the home. Larson had constructed a special house for his liquor. It was not actually in his home, so Sheriff Clark raided the place and brought the supply down to the court house, where it filled several rooms.

Not only was his 4,000 gallons taken, but the court placed a fine of $100 on Larson for having liquor in his possession outside of his home.
