OLD-TIME JOCKEYS

Memory of Gus Thomas Recalls Days of Amateur Horse-Racing

M. A. Thomas, better known in his palm days as "Gus" Thomas, who died after a long illness patiently borne, was for years host of the English Chop House in Toronto. In his time in the seventies, the Chop House was the rendezvous of all the hunting men and leading horsemen of Canada. At race times it was a centre as busy and as full of life as the modern wheat pit, which, indeed, with its waggering and hum of conversation, it largely resembled. It was a period when there foregathered at the meeting of the Toronto Hunt Club at Sla-tery's Grove and elsewhere, such men as the late John Shedd, William Copland, J. C. Worts, Geo. W. Leys, Col. Cumberland, John Leys, George Goodrich, Henry Godson, "Old Man" Donaldson, H. P. Dwight and Dr. Andrew Smith, and when Major Myles, Robert Davies, Arthur Godson, the two Meads, Jim Carruthers, Alex.
Shields, T. P. Phelan, Dr. Campbell, John Dixon, and others, who afterwards came to the fore, were either lads or striplings.

STUART IMPOSTORS

Lord Lovat and Their Scottish County Accepted "Pretender's Sons"

Lord Lovat, appointed director of forestry, belonged to a Scottish family with a long and remarkable history.
One of the strangest episodes was the patronage extended by Lord Lovat's father to the two men who claimed to be the sons of the only son of the Prince Charles Edward, the "Young Pretender," and the Countess of Albany. In the lonely Catholic churchyard at Eskdale, seventeen miles from Inverness, there is a Celtic cross of reddish stone to the memory of these two impostors.

Their story was that their father had at birth been handed over to the commander of a British frigate, Captain John Carter Allen, who brought the child up as his younger son. The lad entered the navy, and in 1792 married Katherine Manning, a daughter of the vicar of Godalming. Their two sons, the proteges of Lord Lovat's father, first appeared in the Highlands in 1815, and their claim was accepted unquestionably, not only by Lord Lovat, but by the Earl of Moray and the county people generally. The brothers kept up their pretence so far that after dinner the younger would rise and give the toast, "The King," at which the elder, who remained seated, would gravely bow.

OLD-TIME PRIVATEERING

Nova Scotia's Blockade Running and Shipbuilding Heroes

In the county of Queens, in Nova Scotia, Snow Parker had built 46 vessels before 1826. Liverpool, in this country, was in the war of 1812 a great privateering port. Twenty or thirty prizes might be seen in that harbor at once, and a good many Liverpool vessels fell a prey to New England privateers. In this adventurous atmosphere flourished Enos Collins, for many years a member of the Nova Scotia Council. His grandfather in New England, his father in New England and Nova Scotia, and he himself were shipbuilders and shipowners. Enos was also a captain.
He was fond of running blockades, of loading ships and sending them in groups with cargoes to places that were only reached through peril of the enemy, and selling at several hundred per cent. profit. A true life of Enos Collins would be more exciting than fiction. A great many of the vessels of his large fleet were captured from the enemy.

Depth Gauge on a Hand Saw

In making the saw cuts for joints in timber, much time can be saved, and the job made more nearly uniform, by using a depth gauge on the hand saw. A simple contrivance for this purpose is made by clamping a steel square on the side of the saw, as shown. By adjusting the square

The Depth of Saw Cuts is Gauged Accurately by the Use of This Simple Device properly, cuts may be made which are deeper on one side than on the other. When this kind was used by a carpenter, his fellow workmen immediately followed suit by rigging up devices in imitation of it.—Popular Mechanics.

In the event of a fisherman using last year's gut, it will be found that soaking them in a solution of glycerine and water (ten per cent. glycerine) for about three or four hours, will strengthen and improve them.

When a fishing rod is not in use it should be hung up, and not tied tight in the bag. This will prevent any pressure being brought to bear upon the joints.

CONSCRIPTION MEASURE
PASSES THROUGH SENATE

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—The military service bill received third reading and was finally passed by the senate this evening, after nine amendments to it had been defeated. The bill was carried on division and no vote was taken. An amendment to interpret the word "clergy" as defined by each particular denomination was defeated by a vote of 34 to 24, a government majority of 10.
This amendment was moved by Senator Beaubien, one of the government members. All other amendments were lost on division.

The measure will now go back to the commons, where the amendment proposed by Sir James Loughheed and passed, making approval of the minister of justice a condition of prosecution, will be considered.
If the amendment is accepted by the commons, the senate will be notified accordingly, and there will only remain the signature of the governor-general, but if the commons refuses to accept the amendment the bill will be returned to the senate with a notification of the refusal; the upper house will then reconsider its amendment.
However, the Loughheed amendment coming from the leader of the government in the senate, will in all probability be accepted by the commons.

The bill will in all probability reach the lower house this week and next week will be signed by the governor-general. Immediately this formality is effected, compulsory service will be in force and when the raising of men will start to decide. The first move will probably be to establish the local tribunals to consider exemption cases. The first men to be called out will be the unmarried and widowers without children between the ages of 20 and 35, that is, men from 20 years of age to men of 34.

Also as soon as the bill is signed by the governor-general and therefore becomes law, criticism of conscription will be a punishable offence.

USELESS TO REMAIN; DR. CLARK
GOT OUT.

Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—Dr. Michael Clark, M.P., who has so strongly supported the Borden war policy, has left the city. His reception yesterday evidently gave him the impression that it was useless to stay longer at the convention, and so to-day he left the hotel, having checked out for the east.

The convention re-assembled in the Industrial Convention Hall at 2:30 this afternoon. This is a much more suitable auditorium than that in Royal Alexandra, its total seating capacity being placed at 5,000.

Nominations of the provinces for Committee on Resolutions were received and adopted. This is made up of 20 members from each province, plus the Federal members and defeated candidates.

Delegates to the convention of Liberals of four western provinces devoted their two-hour session this forenoon to organization. C. M.
Hamilton, of McTaggart, Sask., who was chosen as permanent chairman conducted delegates in the election of other permanent officials and the appointment of certain committees.

J. B. McConica, Liberal candidate in Kerrobert, Sask., moved that the convention "Cable the Canadian commander-in-chief, hearty congratulations upon the splendid ac-chievements of the Canadian army in the past and our undivided and unanimous support for efforts in the future." The resolution was enthusiastically carried by a standing vote.

Final action before night on the was forecast when the Senate convened to-day, is the information contained in a despatch from Washington, of August 8th. Adoption of conference reports on the food control bill and the bill providing for a food survey and stimulation of production virtually was passed.

All Out of It.

Grace's uncle met her on the street one spring day and asked her whether she was going out with a picnic party from her school. "No," replied his eight-year-old niece, "I ain't going." "My dear," said the uncle, "you must not say, 'I ain't going.' You must say, 'I am not going.'" And he proceeded to give her a lesson in grammar: "You are not going. He is not going. We are not going. You are not going.
They are not going. Now, can you rest-say all that?" "Sure, I can," rest-sounded Grace quite heartily. "There-ain't nobody going."—Harper's Magazine.

THE RED CROSS LAWN PARTY

The garden party Tuesday night on Dr. Jamieson's lawn was a most interesting gathering. It was under the auspices of the Red Cross, and the workers and visitors all seemed possessed of a real patriotic spirit.

The Citizen's Band was in attendance, and rendered a number of nice selections for a remnant of an organization that had little or no practice for a long time.

Mr. John Rowland was here from Walkerton and was asked to take the chair, a position he filled with marked ability. He declined to give the chairman's address at the time indicated on the program, but he more than redeemed himself before the meeting was closed. There were a number of returned soldiers in attendance, and he wanted the audience to hear about the war, as depicted by actual eye-witnesses of the awful tragedy.

Captain Ball was present, and told the story as he saw things in Mesopotamia and other places, but confined himself mostly to scenes around Bagdad. Lieut. Pinkerton had seen service in the trenches in the Western Front, and endured the hardships of trench life in the winter of 1915, when the boys, knee deep in mud, could only play a waiting game. He told of the severe fighting at Courcellette, the introduction of the tanks, the use of Fokkers by the Germans and the bravery of the Allies, who didn't fear to fight anything. He closed his brief address by saying Canada has made a name for herself. It was made by the Canadian soldiers in the mud of Flanders, and urged that they should now be relieved by the boys that were left behind.

Pte. Nutting, also of Walkerton, was called to the platform, and made an earnest little speech. The chairman explained that Pte. Nutting was a married man, with a wife and six children. He enlisted early in the war. He did so as a duty, and saw much hard service.
He was wounded by a bullet passing through his left shoulder and paralysing his left arm. He spent a long time in hospitals before he was invalided home, and is only a short time out of the convalescent hospital at Whitby, where he will again return for further treatment.
Sergt. Taggart, from Walkerton, was also on the ground, but escaped the eagle eye of the chairman till the meeting was just about to close.

In addition to the band solos were contributed by Mr. Allan Bell, and Mr. Misteale, a pleasing selection by the Methodist male quartette. The Misses Kerr, of Valney, accompanied on the organ by Miss Mountain, gave a very pleasing duet, and Miss Rita Irwin contributed a piano instrumental and played most of the accompaniments.

The grounds were pleasingly decorated, and well supplied with booths, where a rushing business was done in the sale of light refreshments.

About ten o'clock, the program seemed to be nearing a close but the chairman's speech was yet to come, and when Mr. Rowland began to unravel himself, there's no telling how long it will take him to run down. He was scarcely started, however, when the audience took on fresh life, and they never seemed to get weary. Mr. Rowland is a very resourceful speaker, and he never lets things lag. He bubbles over with an earnest patriotism and the audience sits with fixed attention for fear of losing something.

After talking long enough for an ordinary chairman to tire his audience to sleep, Mrs. Jamieson came out with a tissue-paper basket of candy, worth about five cents, and asked to have it auctioned off, and the chairman was to be the auctioneer. It was at this point the real fun began. Bidding was brisk.
In a few minutes, the valued parcel was knocked down to Mr. R. H.
McWilliams for the small sum of ten dollars. He handed over his cheque, got the prize, looked happy, and returned it to be sold. This was repeated a number of the times, and the aggregate proceeds from the candy basket amounted to $57.

The following were the buyers, and the sums they paid: R. H. Mc-Williams, $10; C. Ramage, $5; Dr. D.
B. Jamieson, $5; Dr. D. Jamieson, $5; Cam. McLachlan, $5; John Bonis, $5; Miss Carmont, $5; W. Irwin, $5; Jim McLachlan, $2; H. G. Misteale, $2; A. Sharp, $2; H. Allen, $2; W. D.
Connor, $2; Mrs. D. Jamieson, $1; J. Rowland, $1. Total, $57.

The total receipts were about $200. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speaker, after which the audience sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

"How does Gladys manage to preserve her complexion so well?"
"Easily. She keeps it in air-tight jars."—Baltimore American.

The LUX way to wash Shirtwaists Make a lather of LUX and hot water. Stir the blouse about gently—rinse carefully—press the water out lightly—hang to dry. No rubbing—no wringing. Result—the blouse beautiful!

DROP a little LUX into hot water. Stir it about. Instantly it dissolves, giving a thick, creamy lather. Drop in the garments and move them about. When clean, rinse in 2 or 3 relays of fresh warm water—press out the water and dry.
What happens? Your clothes are exquisitely clean and NEW. Nothing matted or shrunken.
Colors gleaming and un-faded. Why? Because LUX—silken little flakes of soap—is pure essence of soap and cannot harm anything that clean water may touch.
Shirtwaists, silk sweaters—dainty woollens—anything washable, from
