BENEFITS OF GRADING

Standardizing of Farm Products Necessary for Best Market.

Instances of the Folly of Not Grading—Selling by Description vs. Inspection—Butter Exportation in New Zealand.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Grading of farm products is necessary for the enlargement of markets. It is based upon knowledge of what the consumer wants. It gives the consumer of farm products the kind, shape, size and quality of products desired. It brings increased returns to farmers and effects savings to the middlemen.

In the production of farm products, unavoidably widely varying shapes, sizes and qualities of products are brought into existence. These must be sorted out so that the product sent to a certain market will meet with the approval of the purchaser. Standardizing means that a grade of product will be the same year in and year out, in this way confidence in grades may be built up.

The Folly of Not Grading Instances. It must be remembered that consumers, like farmers, are engaged in business. They are not able to sort products. Therefore, when they purchase ungraded products they have to buy things they don't want, and this results in waste. Grading of farm products would mean a reduction in the cost of marketing. For example, out of 2,600 cars of apples appearing on a Chicago market within a period of three months in the fall of 1914, it was found that 410 cars were unfit for sale; and not only was this true, but they also depressed the price of apples. The freight, cartage and labor of handling had been paid for the purpose of starting 410 cars of apples on the way to market, which nobody would accept, did not want, and could not use.

Or to take butter: Investigations have demonstrated that lack of grading has resulted in serious loss to middlemen. In the state of Kansas for instance, one-fifth of the butter received was paid for at the rate of 27.1 cents per pound,—the ruling price for butter—though this 20 per cent. had to be reworked before it could be used by consumers. For this butter renovators paid 20 cents per pound, so that there was a loss of 7 cents per pound. No middleman can long stand this.

The problem of financing the sale of farm products is important. By grading farm products finance is facilitated. Suppose a farmer has a carload of a certain grade of product. He may go to the bank and say: "I have a carload of No. 1 apples. I want to borrow some money." The bank manager understands what this means and is prepared to advance money. But if the farmer goes to the bank with ungraded products the banker immediately asks, "What kind? Who grew them? Are they good or bad?" He may even require that they be inspected, and in the end the farmer will not get as satisfactory advances as though the products was graded.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON FORESTRY.

(By Canadian Forestry Assoc.)

Q.—I understand that Canada has made some practical contribution in restoring the forests of the British Isles devastated by war necessities. What does this amount to?

A.—The Dominion Forestry Branch has sent the British Forestry Commission over 13,000 pounds of seed, mostly Douglas Fir, Western Hemlock and Sitka Spruce, (British Columbia trees) and this great quantity will be planted in nursery beds and millions of young trees developed therefrom. The number of seeds averages about 200,000 to the pound which would make the Canadian contribution almost three billion tree seeds. Of course this entire number will not germinate and only a fraction will reach maturity when the seedlings are planted out in the forests of the Mother Country.

Q.—How many forest rangers are guarding the forest wealth of Ontario this year?

A.—About one thousand men. The amount spent by Ontario on forest protection is approximately $500,000.

Q.—How many men were killed and injured in the air patrol for forest protections last year in Canada?

A.—One man was killed in the carrying out of the entire program of the Air Board, which included total flying distance of 181,000 miles. There were a few casualties in privately-flown machines but considering the distances covered, the loss to personnel compared excellently with an average season of canoe and other standard forms of patrol.

Q.—Is there any preference as between young trees developed in a nursery and saplings taken from the woods for planting in open park spaces.

A.—By all means stick to the nursery stock. It may be smaller to start with but usually it will produce a larger and healthier tree with in a very few years.

namely, that they should be subjected to only a moderate degree of heat. This is necessary because the principal constituent of the egg is albumen, and the proper temperature for cooking albumen is from 160 to 180 degrees Fahrenheit. Eggs cooked at this temperature will be found tender, soft and jelly-like and very easily digested, while those cooked at 212 degrees, or even higher, will be firm, tough, very hard to digest, and frequently when prepared in the form of custard or scrambled, they will separate into a watery form of "curds and whey."
