No Irish Republic

(Lloyd George in 1921.)

You could not have an independent Irish republic if the whole of Ireland agreed in demanding it any more than you could have an independent republic in Wales if we were unanimous. There is a limit, Abraham Lincoln discovered, to the disruptive right of the minority. The Southern States of America had just as good a right to set up an independent republic as Ireland, Wales or Scotland. They were a distinctive community. Mr. Gladstone thought they should have been allowed to do so at that time. History now shows that Abraham Lincoln was absolutely right in saying, "There is a limit to the right which even a separate community has to tear up a large combination which has been working together for the common needs." That is the limit in Ireland.

She Got In Under the Limit.

(San Francisco Argonaut.)

If you did not smoke, and had a perfectly good wife that did not smoke, and you sent her to the seashore for a vacation and a rest from household cares, and she returned with a little square, flat silver case, and about her person the sour smell of cigarettes, what would you do? You would? Well, remember that women have had to stand that cross reek from their husbands a long time, and they have stood it like soldiers. But the minute a man had it to stand, he declared he wouldn't, and sent his wife for divorce. That is the Kingscote divorce case in England and it was settled by a sort of compromise. Mr. Kingscote was a gentleman, in the English sense, and his wife had been a lady, but he set up the theory that she had ceased to be a lady when she contracted the nicotine habit. The court had no judicial opinion in the matter and called in an expert, a man that kept a tobacco shop. He testified that before a lady smoker ceased to be a lady she would have to smoke fifteen cigarettes a day. As Mrs. Kingscote smoked only fourteen she got in under the limit, and remained a lady. As soon as Mr. Kingscote learned she was a lady he saw his mistake. If she were a lady, why, by Jove, he would play the game out like a sport, much as he hated the smell. He had his barrister withdraw the complaint. Mrs. Kingscote will continue to burn 'em; but she will never again smell just as a lady should.

Pay Cash.

(Brantford Expositor.)

Pay cash, is one of the best of slogans for a household. One of the best agents for filling the poor house is a charge account. Paying cash puts a constant check on buying, while a charge account encourages reckless purchases. It's so easy to buy and "have it charged," but when the day of reckoning comes it is not so easy to settle the bill, and many a conscientious merchant is accused of adding to the bill simply because the customer cannot realize all his moments of past foolishness.

Soon or Later.

(Hamilton Herald.)

Redistribution of the constituencies on the basis of population must come sooner or later. The London Free Press points out that the City of London, with 60,000 population, has only one representative in the Provincial Legislature, while the rest of the County of Middlesex, with only about two-thirds of London's population, is represented by three members. There is no reason why one farmer's vote should be worth three times as much as one city man's vote.

Greatness and Simplicity.

(London Advertiser.)

The funeral of Dr. Graham Bell was a model of simplicity. His casket was made in his own workshop by men who knew and loved him; in it all that was mortal of the departed genius was carried to a simple rock grave by men who were working with him. The greatness of the man was shown by his close and intimate relationship with the men around him.

The Land of the Free.

(Guelph Mercury.)

Mennonites now in Alabama regret leaving Canada for the sunny south. The Western Provinces are not yet on record as regretting the move, and they are in no hurry to have them return until they indicate a willingness to abide by the laws and customs of this country. If there is any more freedom anywhere in the world than in Canada, the Mennonites haven't been able to find it.

Coal and Men.

(Guelph Mercury.)

Nature blessed this old earth with great stores of coal, and it was never the intention that they should be seized by groups of men who had no regard for the rights of the nation by monopolizing this great natural wealth. Here is one instance where governments have a right to control what no human being had any part in creating.

Honor Among Teachers?

(Carleton Place Central Canadian.)

Carleton Place is not the only town having difficulty in securing teachers. Some weeks ago our Board of Education advertised for a Public school principal and among the applicants received made a choice and at once wired the applicant that he was accepted. This man wired agreeing to come here and later confirmed it in a letter in which he asked some particulars regarding houses, etc. Two weeks later he wired again resigning his appointment stating that he has accepted the Orangeville school at an advance in salary. If this is the teacher's idea of honor, the school is better without him. It would appear from the above that no application was made for the Orangeville school until after the acceptance of the engagement in Carleton Place, which makes the case just that much worse-looking for the teacher, and the Board is to be commended for reporting him to the Department of Education, as well as to the Orangeville Board of Education. What would any teacher think of a School Board, after engaging a teacher, give him a curt dismissal because some other teacher came along, offering to accept the position at $100 or $200 less in salary? That's how it looks when conditions are reversed.

Vagaries of the Law.

(Milverton Sun.)

The vagaries of the law are peculiar, at least to the lay mind. Recently in Peel County a man charged with manslaughter had furnished bonds for his appearance in court when called upon, but before the time set, had committed suicide. The court took no notice of the fact of his death but ordered that the bail of the accused be estreated and his sureties, two in number, had each to pay into court the sum of $5,000. Even in our own county we had a paradoxical case a few years ago. A Mornington farmer charged two men with having robbed him. He had them apprehended, convicted and sentenced to a term in jail for the offence. When he made claim for the money found on their person he was informed that he would have to give proof that the money in the possession of the prisoners was actually the money taken from him, although the court had found them guilty of robbing him. This he was unable to do and consequently was unable to recover his property.

"Poor" Paper is Not Respected.

(Ottawa Journal.)

The prime duty of a newspaper publisher is to make his newspaper a paying proposition, otherwise it can have no influence. The newspaper that is always hard up and has difficulty in paying its way, is not respected, nor does its influence count for very much in the community.

Fundamental.

(San Francisco Argonaut.)

Every strike makes it necessary, if it is possible, to charge more for the service of the commodity the strikers help produce. Labor has a right to strike. But this does not mean license to commit murder, or to slug scabs, or to intimidate non-union citizens willing to work. The public is entitled to have such men work, if they are willing to do so, and in the long run it is the public that pays the bills.

Union members do not acquire by going on strike any rights, privileges or legal powers they do not have before they struck. Strike-breakers do not lose any rights by being strike-breakers. This is fundamental, and it is vital to all important human interests. No philosophy of pink Bolshevism in universities or dilettantes' drawing-rooms, can be permitted to undermine the stones of this foundation.

No Less Reprehensible.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

Both Australia and New Zealand are apparently eager to assume a fair share of the burden of empire naval defence. Possibly due to a more polyglot population, the same is not manifest to a marked degree in Canada, but is none the less reprehensible.

"BROKE THE BANK"; DIED BROKE

Charles Deville Wells, "the man who broke the bank of Monte Carlo," and hero of the celebrated song heard wherever the English language was spoken in the early nineties, died in Paris on June 22 in such abject poverty that his death has passed unnoticed until now. He was 81 years old.

Wells, after a record run of luck at Monte Carlo, soon became a bankrupt. He had many other vicissitudes, including several terms in jails and penitentiaries in England and France, for obtaining money by false pretences.

He used to blossom out with many get-rich-quick schemes. One of them was a system whereby he claimed any roulette wheel might be beaten by a player with a sufficient payroll. Applicants for the system, however, generally were relieved of their bank-rolls before reaching the roulette wheel.

TANGLED IN RED TAPE

(Mt. Forest Conferedate.)

"Whig," of the Fergus News-Record, while in Toronto last spring, had an opportunity of observing the way in which Departmental examination papers are read and marked in these latter days.

The markers are well paid, $12.00 per day, in fact very well paid, and are allowed to mark only ten papers a day. That beats the union bricklayers. We remember when we spent five or six summer's holidays, (not part of the teaching term) at that sort of work. We were paid from $4 to $6 a day, according to the money available and the time we spent at it. We would mark as many papers as we could, say from 30 to 50, and we sometimes worked seven, eight or nine hours if our section got behind.

Whig says one examiner marked nine the first morning and received orders to mark only one in the afternoon. It would have been possible to mark ten papers in two hours but they were not allowed to do it. At this rate, it cost $1.20 to mark a student's paper in one subject. No wonder the examination fees keep going up from year to year. Even at the present fee there must be a big loss every year. This must be paid out of the Provincial revenue. It looks as though the Ontario Department of Education was becoming all tangled up in red tape, says "Whig."

DRIVERLESS MOTOR CAR

RAN AMUCK IN LISTOWEL

Consternation was rife in the business section of Ingersoll one day last week when a farmer named Wilson, from the Foidens district, cranked up his automobile on King street west while the clutch was in. The car ran down King street, crossed Thames, and then crashed

FARMER'S WIFE REGAINS HEALTH

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fork River, Manitoba.—"I saw in the newspapers where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing so much good to women, and as I needed something I began to take it. I used to be very sick but I am not now. I live on a farm in the home-stead district and we have to do all our own work. I tell all the women I see what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for me. I think it saves me, from going to a doctor and is the best medicine women can take."—Mrs. Wm. COULTAS, Fork River, Manitoba.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for the ailments peculiar to women. It is prepared from medicinal plants, with care and accuracy. It can be taken by women of any age.

Women make a serious mistake in allowing themselves to become so weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Such symptoms as pains and irregularities, all-gone feelings, backache, headache, hot flashes, nervousness, with a general run-down condition, indicate some form of female trouble.

The Vegetable Compound has brought relief to thousands of women suffering from such ailments. Let it help you.

into Naylor's clothing store window, smashing four large panes of glass.

En route it ran down a little boy. He was taken to the hospital suffering from head wounds requiring stitches. Wilson was backing in front of the car in an effort to stop it. He tripped on the Thames street curb and the car also passed over him. He received a number of abrasions and also suffered from shock.
