TRADE HORSES IN HAST REPENT AT LEISU

Young Glenelg Lad Got Worst of It in Hor Swapping Duel Last We

"Marry in haste and repent at I sure" is an old adage that still he good, as a lot of people have for out. Like getting married, hor trading, too, is somewhat of a char especially if one goes into it with his eyes open. Trading horses a getting married are consideral alike, and it remained for a you lad from Glenelg to learn last we that while "all is not gold that gl ters," also everything in horsefle that looks sleek and good sometin isn't. Horse-traders as a rule : not philanthropists, especially wl trading horses, and if there were a doubts in the young Glenelg ma mind when he came into town the certainly were not when he left. The story as it floated around The Chronicle office is, in brief: The young Glenelg man, a lad
