The Boy Scouts' Column
EDITED BY GREEN PLUME

District Camp.
The Scoutmaster has received word from Lieut.-Col. McIntyre, District Commissioner, that the annual district camp will be held this year at White Cloud Island, from the 5th to the 19th of July. The camp will be for Boy Scouts only of the Owen Sound District and will be in charge of Col. McIntyre and Senior Scoutmasters of the District. The camp is ideally situated on White Cloud Island in Colpo's Bay, about twenty miles from Owen Sound on the Bruce Peninsula. The camp is reached from Owen Sound by boat. The camp program is divided between instruction in outdoor activities such as woodcraft, pathfinding, cooking, first aid, swimming, etc., and in recreation.

The Scoutmaster of Durham Troop expects to take about ten or twelve members of the Troop with him to the camp for the first week, July 5 to 12. The Troop was highly commended by the Commissioner on his recent visit and it is hoped that it will not fall down in its quota to the District Camp.

Oh You Hike!
Old Jupiter Pluvius was there with oodles of rain for the Durham Troop's overnight hike on Friday and Saturday last. After the wetting that some of the fellows of the organization of a Duck Patrol has been seriously considered. However, everybody had a good time except Ashley and Whitmore, and they didn't get enough to eat for supper on Friday night owing to the sudden downpour of rain. It is understood, though, that they have since made up for the deficiency.

The Troop got under way about five o'clock Friday night, about twelve strong. After a brisk march of six miles McGillivray's farm was reached and the Troop got busy preparing their beds in the haymow which Mr. McGillivray most kindly placed at their disposal. After beds were made the Troop fell to preparing supper, each Scout cooking his own meal over a fire lit by himself in the open. The end of the repast was hastened by a downfall of rain, and the fellows were forced to make tracks for the hay, where the evening was spent in games and songs. Lights went out at 9 o'clock but it was long after that before the last voice was hushed and Morpheus came into his own. Even at that it is doubtful if Clark Junior slept very well in view of the fact that he had for bedfellows a nest of mice. Morning came at last, but with it no let-up in the steady downpour of rain. At last an S.O.S. call was sent out and a couple of parents responded with cars to bring the stranded Troop back home. Let's all hope we'll have better luck next time, and that the sky will be clear.

The First of July.
An invitation has been received from District headquarters to take part in the 1st of July celebration in Owen Sound. It appears that the Seenie City is preparing to do itself proud on Dominion Day, and the Scouts of the District have been requested to take part in the parade and put on a Rally with demonstration of Scout Work. Durham Troop have been invited and the S.M. hopes to take up a full Troop. Just what phase of Scoutwork they will be asked to demonstrate has not yet been made clear.

No Meeting.
Owing to the absence of the S.M. from town, there was no Wednesday night meeting this week. Next week it is hoped that the Troop will be out in full force, as the S.M. is desirous of having every scout a second class man by the 1st of July.

ANGELICAN BISHOP FAVORS AMENDING THE O. T. A.
Head of Niagara Diocese Condemns Evils Under Present System—Feels Certain That Ontario Government Will Change Act.

Confidence in the Government to amend the O.T.A., or to provide an improved one, was expressed by Rt. Rev. W. R. Clark, Bishop of Niagara, in his address at the annual meeting of the Anglican Synod at St. Catharines last week.

"We know something of the efforts which were put forth at the beginning of the war to curtail the sale of liquor and promote temperance," stated his lordship. "Drastic methods were adopted in this province. An Act was adopted in 1916 prohibiting the sale of liquor except native wines, within the province, for beverage purposes. The Act was to continue in force to the close of the war, when the Government would submit the question as to whether the law should be continued or rescinded."

"No one wants to see the saloons re-opened, or yet the sale of liquor by the shops. That there are certain blemishes in the present Act its best friends will admit. No doubt there is a great deal of secret drinking. Men have their cellars stocked and there is much drinking in the midst of their families, and we know what other evils the act has produced. Men have become rich in the bootlegging business. Homes have been pointed out to me where the farms have been neglected and where beautiful houses have been erected from the profits in this business. Some doctors also have reaped a rich harvest in issuing liquor certificates wholesale."

"I feel that we can trust the Government of the people to amend this act or to give us an improved one. We are prepared to support severe measures for the punishment of those who influence others to drink."

"While we hold that to abstain from a lawful thing is a most excellent discipline, we hold that any man who has reason to believe that his own example will help a weak man to escape from the habit is morally bound to practice abstinence, but to advocate abstinence from wine as from a sinful thing is to condemn the institution of Christ and to undermine belief in God."

The bishop advocated an effective campaign to meet the boy problem, pointed out "breach of trust" as the most deadly sin of the day, advised more attention to the religious instruction of the young, and called for a celebration of the jubilee of the founding of the diocese in every parish on the first Sunday of next May.

W. T. KEARNEY DIED SUDDENLY IN WEST
Well-Known Former Resident of Glenelg Passed Away in Moose Jaw Hospital After Very Short Illness.

The news of the sudden death of Mr. W. T. Kearney at Moose Jaw Hospital on May 14, will be received with regret by former neighbours in Glenelg Township, where he lived for many years, before going West in 1907.

We clip the account of his sudden passing from last week's Loreburn Herald. It says:

"After a very short illness the death occurred in the Moose Jaw hospital at nine o'clock on Wednesday night last of William T. Kearney, of Loreburn."

"Deceased had had a cold for several weeks but he did not consider his condition at all serious until the Monday preceding his death when he went to Moose Jaw for medical advice. On this day (Monday) he was around the town as usual up to train time. On arriving in Moose Jaw he went to an hotel and had his supper after which he consulted Dr. McCollough, who immediately took him to the hospital and then notified Mrs. Kerney to come as soon as possible as the case was critical. Mrs. Kerney accompanied by her son, Lorne, left early next morning by car for that city, and on arrival there found that Mr. Kearney was unable to talk above a whisper and could not be understood. He was conscious almost up to the time of his death and vainly tried to talk to those who were with him. The cause of death was pneumonia."

"The late Mr. Kearney was born at Orono, Ont., 67 years ago. He was married in 1883 and in 1907 came to Western Canada, living the first two years in the Arcola district near his family and homesteaded near the river, gradually increasing his land holdings until he had a three-quarter section farm of first class land. He was a successful and prosperous farmer. In 1913 he moved into Loreburn and for four years conducted an implement business, when his place of business was destroyed by fire. He then built a chop mill which he had operated since. A few days before going to Moose Jaw he had been busy in the mill grinding chop."

"He was of an unusually cheerful nature, had a large store of wit and humor, and will be missed in many circles. In his death Loreburn loses one of its oldest residents, known by everyone in the community, and one that was ready to help along a progressive movement. For the last year and a half he had been a member of the village Council.

"Mr. Kearney is survived by his widow and six children, two boys and four girls. Of the daughters, Mrs. Dormer resides at Elbow, Mrs. L. V. Bryenton at Loreburn, Mrs. Seekins in Montana, and Mrs. William Russell in Oregon. The sons, I. L. and W. H. Kearney, reside here. A son, James, was killed in the late war. Other immediate relatives of the deceased are two sisters, Mrs. J. Black of Minnesota, and Mrs. Blair of Durham, Ontario, to whom The Herald extends sincere sympathy in their sudden bereavement."

"The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon, Rev. L. A. Muttitt conducting the service. The church was crowded to the doors and it was one of the largest funerals held in Loreburn for several years. Interment was made in Loreburn cemetery, the pall-bearers being Messrs. T. Jack, R. G. Baldwin, J. B. Muter, A. Ector, J. Bartley, and A. Ellison. Many beautiful wreaths of flowers covered the casket."

Solicitors for Jane Caldwell,
Administratrix of the Estate.

growers will be several days late in getting them on the market. Fruit growers fear for the peach crop, which promised to be seriously affected, especially the early varieties.

EXAMINATION TIME WILL SOON BE WITH US NOW
The Lower school examinations will commence this year on June 2 and finish on the 6th. These papers are set by the High school principal and staff and pupils failing to receive the required number of marks may write on the Departmental papers later on in the month.

The Middle and Upper school examinations commence on June 23 and are not completed until July 7. The Entrance examinations are now divided into Parts One and Two. Part One, consisting of Hygiene, Art, and Nature Study, will be written on at the end of this month. Part Two papers, eight subjects in all, will be written on July 2, 3, and 4. From the foregoing dates it will be noticed this year that the Lower, Middle and Upper school, and Entrance to High school examinations are held on concurrent days. It looks as though the Department of Education is out to make the presiding officers work real hard for their money. However, even with this change, it will be found that the candidates, as usual, will be doing the worrying at examination time.
