Hanover

The Hanover Tennis Club held a meeting on Thursday, April 9, and elected officers and committees.

Pat Siegh of Kitchener, who was suspected of having booze in his car while motoring from Walkerton to Hanover last August and who was chased in a high-power machine by License Inspectors Widmeyer and Beckert with the result that when he was swung south around the Queen's Hotel corner at Hanover with the officers in pursuit, he hurled a bottle of whisky out of his bus which was later picked up and found to be the real old stingo, was arraigned in court at Hanover on Monday last, when he was convicted on the evidence of a woman who saw him hurl the glassware from his chariot at the Queen's corner during the wild chase of August last.

Spreng, D.D. of Napierville, Ill., preached two powerful sermons. The missionary meeting in the afternoon was conducted by the field secretary, Rev. B. R. Weiner, and his address was much appreciated by all. The program of the Conference from the initial service to the close was of a high order.

Walkerton

A local Irishman, with a strong liking for Irish melody, passed a house on the station road the other evening and, hearing the strains of an Irish jig floating through the ether from within, he could no longer hold himself, and with the pavement for a dance floor, he soon was tripping the light fantastic on the asphalt. While swinging an imaginary partner, he lost his balance in the dizzy whirl, and falling on the cement, he broke a rib on his left side. Unlike Adam, who was asleep and didn't feel the loss of a rib, the Walkertonian was very much aware that one of his staves had snapped, and mingling his groans with the dance music that was still floating over the air, he realized all right that some have friends who give them pain. Arising in his agony, he limped to a doctor's, where the necessary treatment was applied.

The Easter dance given by the local K. of C's, was a highly successful affair with a large attendance.

William Doerr, aged 18, of near Teeswater, appeared before Magistrate McCartney in the Walkerton police court on Wednesday afternoon on a charge of receiving stolen goods knowing them to have been stolen, and which case arose out of the theft of certain articles from Dentinger & Beingsness's general store at Formosa, for which Stanley Benninger, aged 15, was convicted and let go on suspended sentence, resulting in Doerr being acquitted of the receiving charge.

A citizen, who returned home from work the other day and found that his wife had left and taken her portion of the furniture with her, decided to break up housekeeping, and, renting his domicile to another and happier swain, came into the Herald-Times' office and advertised the balance of his household effects for sale. Before we could get to press, however, with the ad, the tenant backed out and left the deserted hubby with the house on his hands. The upshot was the furniture sale was called off, and the man of misfortune will now probably continue to carry on, plowing a lone furrow, as it were, in single harness.

A Chesley youth, who drove over to Walkerton to get a hair cut on Saturday night, surprised a local tonsorial artist by jumping out of the chair and creating a scene by leaving the premises with only half his alfalfa cut. Going to another shop, he presented the semi-shorn pate to the shears-wielder there, who thinking the last barber must have suddenly gone on strike, found on enquiry that the Chesleyite verily believed that in a multitude of barbers, like a multitude of counsel, there is wisdom. The last barber made sure that he didn't get away from him before the job was through, and assessed him the same as if he had covered the entire territory with his shears.

James Kirby of near Teeswater was fined $20 and costs by Magistrate McCartney in the police court here recently for assaulting his former hired man, Lawrence McKay.

The annual meeting of the Walkerton Lawn Bowling Club was held in the Council Chamber, town hall, Wednesday evening, April 15. The suggestion that the ladies be invited to form a bowling club, too, was enthusiastically endorsed. It was pointed out that successful ladies clubs are carrying on in many other towns.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Thomas Jenkins were held at the family home, Friday afternoon, and a large company of friends and neighbors were present. Interment was made in Walkerton cemetery.

The home of Messrs. William and James and Miss Jennie Craig, who are leaving the farm on Con. 5, Brant, to live in town, was taken possession of by a great throng of friends on Tuesday evening of last week, who came to give a fitting send-off to this highly esteemed family, who have resided in the community since early pioneer days.

On Monday evening, Knox congregation held a meeting to deal with the matter of calling a pastor. The unanimous choice fell upon Rev. Robert G. McKay, M.A., B.D., of Dresden, who had occupied the pulpit the previous day with great acceptance. A man who worked for a farmer a few miles from here complained to the authorities here this week, that, since leaving the agriculturist's employ last winter, he hasn't been able to get his clothes from the boss. He claims to have made three pilgrimages for his apparel but each time has been turned away minus the desired garments. We understand the Crown has taken the matter up and a demand is being made on the planter to get busy and produce.

"Yes, my friends," said the theological lecturer, "some admire Moses who instituted the old law; some Paul, who spread the new. But after all, which character in the Bible has had the largest following?" As he paused, a voice from the back bench shouted, "Ananias!"

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 5

What 'Orange Pekoe' Means

Many buyers of tea have come to ask for 'Orange Pekoe' believing that it signifies fine quality. This is not, however, necessarily the case. In the trade 'Orange Pekoe' is only a name given to the first leaf below the bud or tip on any Indian or Ceylon tea bush. An 'Orange Pekoe' leaf grown at a high elevation usually possesses a very fine flavour. If, however, the plant is grown at a low elevation, it may still be 'Orange Pekoe' but also be of very poor quality. The consumer's only safeguard is to buy a tea of recognized goodness. High grown 'Orange Pekoes' comprise a large part of every blend of "SALADA" and give to "SALADA" its unequalled flavour.

The progress with radio transmission is a short of revolutionary.

Station KDKA, for example, has been transmitting its program regularly on a wave length in the vicinity of 50 meters. The power at this wave is very small compared with that used on the conventional wave lengths. And yet, the signal is consistently reaching greater distances. The short wave station is frequently picked up in England and the program broadcasted for local listeners has been received at distances to 10,000 miles.

Amateur operators have been obtaining remarkable results of meter wave length. With this and exceedingly low power, have frequently communicated coast to coast in DAYLIGHT. What effect is the performance of these shorter waves going to have on the broadcasting of the future? It is hard to say.

Saving Radio Tubes

The brother "bug" who will above-mentioned 10 tube set, now he is getting the same result with 5 tubes had he taken a slight precautionary measure. This consists of connecting a 110-watt incandescent light bulb in series with one of the B battery connections. This bulb will be permanently in the circuit. In case of an accident, it will pull the B battery from "shooting" tubes.
