Problems of the Farm

Contributed by Grey County Department of Agriculture

Farm Help Coming

A telegram was recently received by the Grey County Branch, Department of Agriculture, from Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, intimating that a large number of experienced married men were coming from Great Britain to engage in farm work. Should farmers wish to take advantage of these men's services, it would be advisable to call or write to the Department of Agriculture, Markdale, or the Minister, at Toronto.

Changes in Foul Brood Act

Beekkeepers in Grey County should note the following changes in the Foul Brood Act in 1925. Briefly, the changes are:

1. That every beekkeeper in the Province keeping one or more colonies must register.

2. That every beekkeeper in the Province wishing to move, sell, barter or give away colonies of bees or used equipment, must secure a permit from this office before moving the bees.

Wool Supplies on Hand

The Canadian Co-operative Wool supplies necessary for the shipping of wool are now in the office of the Department of Agriculture, Markdale, and can be had by requesting the same. As wool prices are much in advance of last year's prices, the farmers having wool for sale will receive large returns.

The number of Ontario shippers is increasing quite rapidly. In 1922 3,200 shipped their wool, 3,700 shipped in 1923 and over 4,000 in 1924. In Grey County, approximately 225 farmers consigned their wool to the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers. A few weeks ago, Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, when addressing the Canadian Club, referred to this strong Farmers' Co-operative commodity organization in these words: "If we could reduce all marketing to the same status it would be a good thing for the farmers of Ontario." Such a statement should make farmers think.

APPLES OF GOOD QUALITY FOR THE HOME GARDEN

A good home fruit garden is a great asset to any family. It provides an abundance of appetizing and healthful food, and often prevents children from yielding to temptation and "hooking" apples from the neighbors. For the home garden, the varieties planted should cover the season well, and be of good to very good quality, if such trees are available, according to W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist.

Early Summer—Two of the hardiest and best early summer apples are Tetofsky and Yellow Transparent. Tetofsky is the better in quality for eating, but is rather small and bears only every other year. The Yellow Transparent is the best for home garden. Crimson Beauty is a highly colored variety and hardy, is very early but is inferior in quality.

Summer—The principal summer apple for commerce is the Duchess of Oldenburgh, and this is a very reliable sort for home use as well, but the quality is not good enough for a dessert apple. For the home garden, the Melba, originated at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will, it is believed, soon take the place of the Duchess. The Lowland Raspberry is a Russian variety of good quality. In some parts of the Maritime Provinces, Williams Favorite does well, and it is good in quality.

Autumn—The Wealthy is the outstanding autumn variety for the home garden, as it comes into bearing early, the trees bear heavily, and the fruit is good both for eating and cooking.

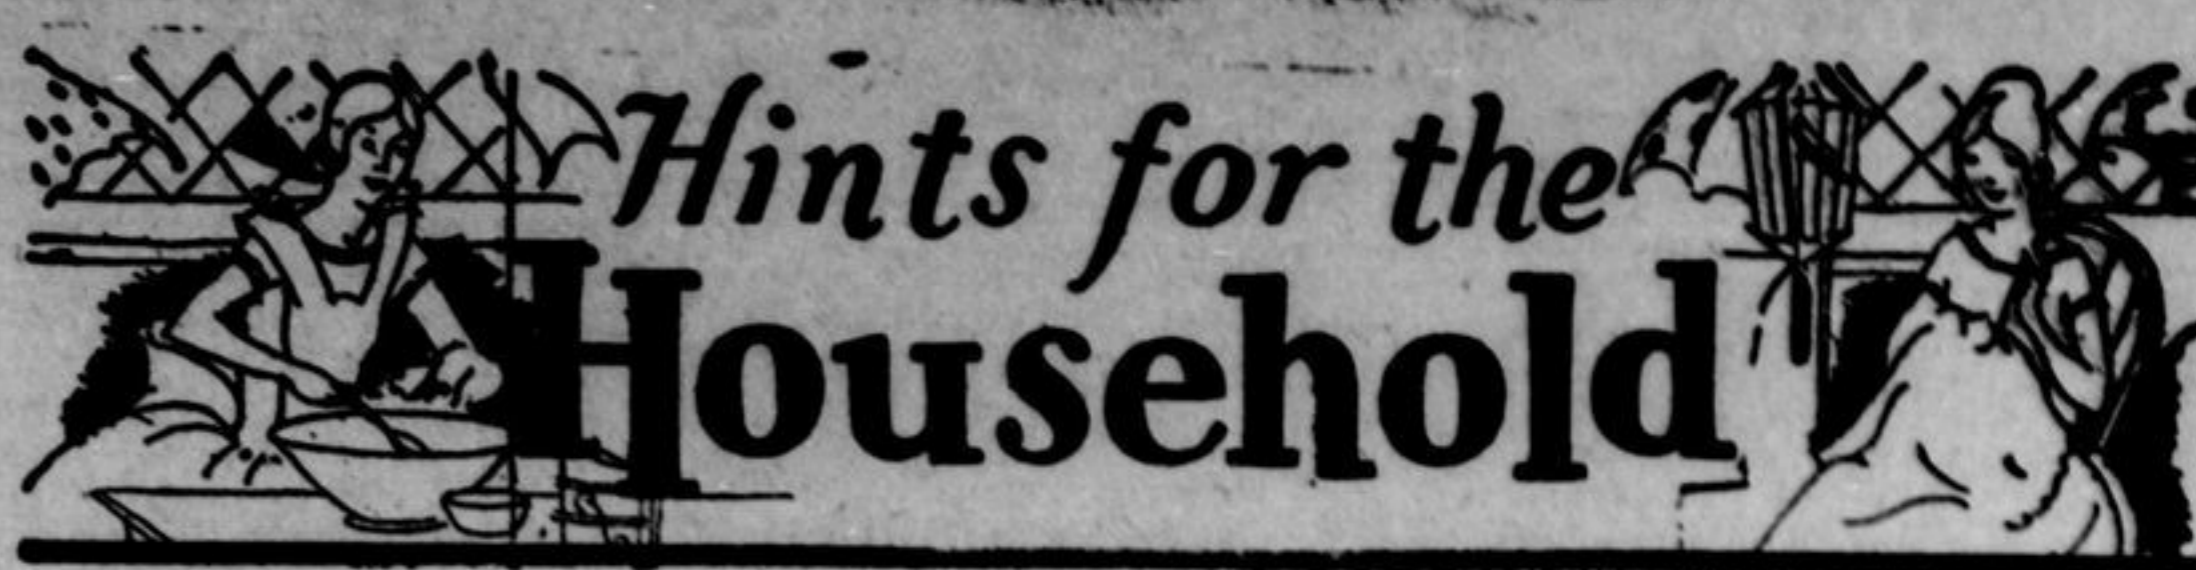

Early Winter—The Fameuse and McIntosh are the two most desirable varieties for home use of this season, and if only one is planted, it should be the McIntosh. Where it will succeed, the Cox Orange Pippin is an excellent sort for home use, but this is not suitable for the colder sections. Grimes Golden is also a good one.

Winter—Where they will succeed, some of the best winter apples for the home garden are: Tompkins King, Northern Spy and Delicious, but the last variety, on account of its mild flavor, is not very suitable for cooking. For the colder sections, there are no good, hardy, late keeping apples to compare in quality with the above, but Bethel, Scott Winter and Golden Russet all keep well and are among the hardiest.

GROWING "GREEN DUCKS"

Ducklings should remain in the incubator about thirty-six hours after hatching to allow them to harden off, and then be removed to the brooder and fed. The temperature of the brooder should be about 95 degrees F. for the first week and then gradually lowered. For the first feed, use bread crumbs moistened with water. Squeeze the water out of feed if on a flat board. Sprinkle fine sand and chick size oyster shell over the bread before feeding. This serves as grit for the baby ducklings. Provide fresh water at each feeding in a self-feeding fountain. Feed the ducklings four times daily for the first few days. Care should be taken not to over-feed for the first three or four days, but there is little danger from over-feeding after that time, says A. G. Taylor, Poultry Husbandman.

About the fourth day, start feeding some mash mixed with the bread

Rhubarb and pineapple are very good cooked together.

Creamed and Baked Cod Fish

Put creamed cod fish on a baking platter. Surround with border of mashed potatoes beaten light and mixed with egg. Dot with butter. Place in oven to brown.

Steaming Better

Question: "Why is it better to steam vegetables than to boil them?"
Answer: When steamed, they retain valuable salts that are lost in the water when they are boiled.

AMONG THE HOPS

You have missed one of England's fairest sights if you have not seen the hops in their prime in September. Viewed from a distance, the gardens are like beautiful woods of dense foliage, acres of massed dark greenery. Coming nearer, you will find the hop plants trained on countless rows of poles six or eight feet high, often with wires slanting away from them. The dark green of the avenues of foliage is broken in all directions by the hop clusters—exquisite vistas hung with festoons of gold. Soon, however, the hand of the pole-puller will be devastating the scene, and all that will remain to remind you of departed beauty will be the grey, gaunt hop poles strewn over the ground like soldiers on some stricken field. But the glory of the garden is not yet gone, and you will let me conduct you round.

All the village folk are out, and the men who are not actually picking or pole-pulling are busy in the roasting-rooms drying, pressing and sending away the produce of the hop gardens. Usually the "foreigners," as the home pickers sometimes call those from a distance, are set on in a garden by themselves, and it is one of these we will visit. What a gay scene it is, and how White-chapel is enjoying the sunshine and the fresh clean air of the country. There is plenty of chaff going about, and often the snatch of a song is heard. Why are these women's arms covered by old stockings, their fingers peeping through the feet of the hosiery? If you were to pick hops for ten minutes, you would soon discover, and at the end of the day, no soapsuds or pumice would remove the black stains. That explains the protective stockings.—F. W. Cobb, in Open Air.

SERVICE AT LESS THAN COST

For the carriage of newspapers through the mails, the Post Office department received $1,353,800.07 for the year ending March 31, 1924. The cost of carriage is estimated by the department at $3,500,000. Time was when newspapers were carried free, and weekly newspapers were sold for a dollar year and dailies for two or three dollars a year. Gradually the imposts have been raised, but there is no reason why every service should not pay its way. Newspapers are a business proposition, and the state is under no obligation to carry them at a loss.

LARGE POULTRY SHIPMENT

Last week Sam Goldman of Dundalk shipped 1,500 hens and 1,500 dozen eggs to Toronto for the Jewish feast.

"How fitting," thought the silk stockings as it was rolled into place.
