

For The Quiet Hour

UNREMEMBERED BLESSINGS

I thank Thee, Father, for Thy blessings all—
The gift of comfort and of happiness—
That on my journey day by day befall.
Gladly Thy lovingkindness I confess.
Much I forgot—the beauty of a rose,
The smile that fled on swift and silent wings,
The whisper that the heart no longer knows.
I thank Thee for the unremembered things.

I sit today and count my blessings o'er—
And they are many by Thy boundless grace—
Kind friends, deep joys, enough of earthly store
For food and raiment and a dwelling place.
These are enough, yet all along the way
So much beside Thy hand in bounty brings
To be forgotten, that I come today
To thank Thee for the unremembered things.

THE OLDER EMPHASIS WAS ON GOD'S SOVEREIGNTY, NOW it is (surely rightly) on God's fatherhood. But is fatherhood an idea which we and our children are equipped to handle without some regulative and balancing conception? Is fatherhood among ourselves an idea of stable moral content? One recalls as solemn warning attributed to Peter in an early Christian writing, "If," he says, "you are going to call on God as father, who without respect of persons judges according to every man's work, pass the time of your sojourning here in awe, knowing that you were redeemed not with corruptible things as silver and gold from your empty manner of life handed down traditionally from your ancestors, but with precious blood as of a lamb, blameless and spotless, the blood of Christ, who, for known indeed before the foundation of the world, was manifested in these last times for you who by Him do believe in God."

Here distinctly the atoning sacrifice of Christ is commended to us as a regulator of the idea of God's fatherhood, and it is regularly hinted in the word "by Him ye believe in God" that Christ thus conceived is the only safe gauge of our conception of God.—G. A. Johnston Ross.

Dr. Mullins of Louisville, who is perhaps the ablest thinker, and speaker in the Southern States, was discussing the question of religious leadership, and showing the deep need of leaders and qualified interpreters in the religious life of today. This is how Dr. Mullins pointed his remarks:

Many young men are impatient of the course in college. "I wish to be offered in sacrifice to the cause of Christ. I want to be laid on the altar of service, and I do not feel that it is worth while to spend the time in the seminary." And I will say to him: "That is a beautiful devotion, to desire to be laid on the altar, but, brother, consider for a moment whether there will be much on the altar when you are laid on it."

Very truly did Dr. Mullins add that "the young man who seeks by a short cut to be laid on the altar has not a very worthy ambition."

JESUS CHRIST WAS NOT HATED AND CRUCIFIED BY THE JEWS; HE WAS DESPISED AND REJECTED OF MEN.

I was recently rebuked upon this point with a rare piquancy and most pathetic simplicity. A learned man followed me after the discourse and said:

"I was with you on the occasion of your five hundredth noonday service. I am the preacher in such and such a synagogue, and if you will excuse me, there was one line in the carol which gave me pain. See, 'The wicked Jews! Why did you sing that about the wicked Jews?'"

Within the lines of a narrow history, the carol was right, but within the true boundaries, it was wrong. They were not the Jews that mocked Him, spurned Him, killed Him; it was man, every man. We crucified the Son of God, we Gentiles had our share in that foul tragedy. As He hangs there, tell all the world that this was not a geographical incident or a mere passing point in history; it was the work of the whole race, and every eye must look upon it, and every heart mourn it as its own cruel deed.—Joseph Parker.

AN INTERESTING ARTICLE RECENTLY APPEARED IN THE Presbyterian of Philadelphia, on "The Limitations of Scholarship," by Dr. Breed of Pittsburg. After saying that he wrote the article for the sake of certain timid Christians, who, conscious of their own lack of scholarship, are apprehensive as to the outcome of the scholarship of others, he makes the following points, which need only to be stated: (1) Scholarship has never discovered any great spiritual truth accompanying salvation, least of all any of the fundamental truths of the Christian system; (2) A certain so-called scholarship, instead of discovering and promoting truth, often prevents its discovery and stands in the way of its promotion; (3) We need not be at all disturbed by the aspersions of a certain scholarship which derides the ignorance of many who maintain their faith; (4) Those who have not much scholarship are yet fully competent to sit in judgment on that which scholarship offers; (5) All this becomes the more manifest and emphatic when we remember that the history of scholarship is largely a record of mistakes. On all these, the writer enlarges with impressive force, and the article as a whole is as convincing to the mind as it is assuring to the heart. God never speaks to the mind only, but to the entire personality, thought, emotion and will, and all scholarship that is worthy of the name will not fail to address itself to these three essential features of life.

AGAIN AND AGAIN IN HIS AUTOBIOGRAPHY, FINNEY SAYS: "I let out my heart to my people." A heartless performance brings only a heartless response.

A fresh start for all is the heart of the gospel. It is, above all, the sense of having done with the past through the remission of sins that gives a man heart to tackle the future.

The one way in which General Booth perceived he could lastingly change men and women was to make them, from the moment of their conversion, seekers and savers of the lost.

THE EDITOR OF A RELIGIOUS JOURNAL HAS RECENTLY remarked on the peril that besets many leading ministers today through the "temptation to overdo and underthink." This is how another paper comments on the statement:

It is safe to conclude that every minister is subjected to this temptation and peril. The Church has been demanding of its spiritual leaders a combination of all the gifts and virtues in one man: saintliness, statesmanship, organizing ability, administrative genius, pulpit eloquence, as well as the fine art of successful shepherd of souls. . . . For the sake of pastor and people, more opportunity should be given the minister to think and study. Even where that chance seems to be denied by the multiplicity of calls upon his time and strength, the minister must insist on time to think and study both for his own soul's health and for the welfare of the people committed to his charge, of whom he must one day give account to the Chief Shepherd. Continued overdoing and underthinking is fatal.

THE LIGHT DIVINE

As through a massive window fall,
Set high within Cathedral wall,
The downward sweep of sunrays hold
Something of majesty doth hold.

So, through a soul, though dust may dim,
The light divine shineth from Him;
And earth, illumined, speaks more plain
Of beauty when our Christ shall reign.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From The Chronicle File of June 1, 1905.

Our old friend, Dr. John Cochrane, writes from Liverpool that he has just returned from a three months' trip on a Platte River steamer to Buenos Ayres and that he is about to start on another for Valparaiso, Chile. The Doctor is employed as ship surgeon and is getting a sight of the world and his pay at the same time.

We regret very much to learn that Archie McDougall is on the sick list, and is now in Owen Sound taking a month's holiday. He left here last week to take a position at Tillsonburg but was unable to remain for more than a few days.

Seven cars of export cattle were shipped from here last week for London, England. The stock was bought in the surrounding townships by Mr. Lionel Robson of this town and Mr. T. R. O'Brien of Fergus.

A meeting of the Durham Baseball club will be held in Dr. Pickering's office this Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

After undergoing a critical operation two weeks ago in Fergus hospital for the removal of pus from the pleural cavity, Arthur Allan returned Monday much improved in health and appearance.

A quiet wedding took place last week in the town of New Hamburg at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Piefer when their second daughter, Lezida, was united in marriage to Mr. A. G. McComb of Durham.

The Durham Manufacturing Company commenced operations again Monday morning after being closed down a couple of weeks for repairs.

Mr. Richard Morrison has the stone work of his new house built and is ready for the brick work. When completed, this will be one of the best houses in the neighborhood.—Corner Concerns correspondence.

June 8, 1905.

We regret very much to learn of the death of Miss Phenia Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Davis of the Middaugh House. The young lady was 20 years of age and died after eight days' illness at her home at Fingal.

The Middaugh House has been sold to Mr. John Murphy of Markdale.

The death of Ben Male, which occurred Tuesday morning, removes an old pioneer from the town of Durham, where he has been a well-known resident for about 35 years. In his early years, he was stage driver between Clifford and Walkerton and Durham and Mount Forest.

We intimated briefly last week of the death in Saginaw, Mich., of Mrs. Greig, sister of Mrs. W. Calder of this town. The remains were brought here, and interment took place Friday afternoon. Besides the husband, a little boy, four or five years of age, survives.

"SILK STOCKING SAL" HERE THIS WEEK-END

New Photo Play by Richard Schayer Reported Best Out of Hollywood in Many Seasons.

A new crook drama of distinction, worthy to take a place on the screen comparable to that of "Kick In" and "Within The Law" on the legitimate stage, is "Silk Stocking Sal," starring Evelyn Brent. The story comes from the pen of E. Richard Schayer, and was written especially for Miss Brent. This versatile young actress gives a startlingly vivid portrayal of the title character, and those who attend the Veterans' Star Theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week when the picture opens for its initial showing here, will agree with other critics who have already singled out Miss Brent as one of the outstanding artists of the season. "Silk Stocking Sal" is a fast-moving melodrama of underworld and society life in New York City, and enough comedy has been injected into the work to relieve the taut dramatic situations which have been evolved. Richard Ellis and Earl Metcalf give Miss Brent fine support in the most important male roles. Tod Browning directed the picture.

GAS PIPE LEAKS, CAR BADLY BURNED

A Gray-Dort car belonging to Mr. N. E. Anderson of town was badly burned last Thursday evening about eight o'clock. A new top had been put on the day before, and the car was being prepared for re-painting the next day. The fire, which destroyed the body and wiring, was extinguished by neighbors and the fire brigade before the gas tank exploded. As the car was only a few feet from the house, it was fortunate that no explosion took place.

Mr. Anderson had been drawing gas from the car during the day, and the spring of the tap had not closed the tap properly. Tapping it in cracked the thread where it connected with a continued dripping, causing a continued dripping. While drawing a can from underneath the car, it came in contact with the fuel tube and lights, making a short circuit which supplied the spark. The gas burned along the tube, and the fire was completely broken off. The gas flowed out, and the flame had enveloped the whole of the body of the car when the brigade arrived.—Thornbury Review-Herald.

A DEADLY FOWL PEST

Perth County Agricultural Representative, M. C. McPhail, has issued a warning to all farmers and poultrymen to be careful in buying baby chicks imported from the United States as the dreaded "European Fowl Pest" may be brought into the district by so doing. The disease is described as follows, by Mr. McPhail: The infected fowl loses its appetite and soon becomes very droopy, with ruffled feathers. A sticky exudate may paste the eyelids together and close the nasal passages. The windpipe may also become clogged with this exudate and some birds in an effort to remove it, shake their head, at the same time producing a wheezy sound. An affected bird usually dies within five or six days, and in acute cases, may die within one day of becoming affected.

BLEEDING THEIR WAY

The boy who pays his own way through college by outside work has always been a familiar figure in American life and fiction. To this end, college students have exploited almost every field of activity; they have taught school, played baseball, chopped wood, tended store, stoked furnaces, both in cellars and engine rooms, waited on hotel tables, helped with surveying and road building and done a hundred other more or less useful and remunerative things.

ABLE TO DO HOUSEWORK NOW

Sick a Year. Got Great Benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bloomington, N. S.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains and headache, also for nervousness, sick headaches and sleeplessness. I was troubled in this way for over a year, and a friend told me about the Vegetable Compound and induced me to take it. I must say I have received great benefit from it and am able to do my housework now. I recommend the Vegetable Compound myself and am willing for you to use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. WILLIAM Mousse, Bloomington, Annapolis County, N. S.

Do you know that in a recent canvass among women users of the Vegetable Compound over 220,000 replies were received. To the question, "Have you received benefit by taking this medicine?" 98 per cent. replied "Yes."

This means that 98 out of every 100 women are in better health because they have given this medicine a fair trial.

Mrs. Morse is simply another case of a woman receiving "great benefit." Women suffering from the troubles so common to their sex should listen to what other women say who have experienced the same sufferings and found relief. Give this dependable medicine a chance—and at once. It is sold at all drug stores.

At Ann Arbor, Michigan, they have found a new way of earning money. Nearly a hundred and fifty students in the University of Michigan are selling their blood for transfusion into hospital patients who need that sort of treatment. A boy gets $15 for three hundred cubic centimeters of blood which is somewhat more than half a pint. The practice is not dangerous if not too frequently repeated, for a healthy boy who eats plenty of food can quickly make up a loss of blood no greater than that.

I felt just as good as if I had never been in it. I would like to feel just as good as I do now. I think it would be a good thing to have 'overhauled' myself.

"So I went to a doctor and him what I wanted. I told him wanted everything on the bill gave it to me. He weighed me, measured me, asked me a few questions, hammered me and then to my heart and lungs looked down my throat. X-rays teeth and took my blood-pressure. My blood and urine were tested.

HEALTH QUEST

J. A. L. writes: "I am fretted bothered with heartburn. I believe it by taking a dose of ing soda. It comes on a while ter eating, but I do not get it every meal. I have taken me for my stomach which stops, a while but does not cure— would like to know what cause heartburn?"

Reply

Heartburn is a symptom, it has generally been attributed to an excessive acidity of the stomach, the digestive juices, some of the more recent studies of the condition show that heartburn may be present when there is no surplus of acid.

Some of the things that result in heartburn are infected gall-bladder, errors in the of exercise, constipation, the stomach or intestines, the foods, and an excess of sweets or seasoning, may cause it. Live principally on vegetable fruit. Drink lots of water more exercise. Avoid constipation.

Condensed Milk For Babies Mrs. R. D. asks: "Is it all to feed a baby condensed milk it cannot be nursed at the breast?"

Reply

Some excellent authorities on infant feeding believe that condensed milk has a place as a baby food. It would be best, however, your doctor suggest the proper for the baby. Knowing the weight and condition, he will in a position to tell you what food the baby to meet his individual requirements.
