The actual date of their marriage was February 12. 1875, as told in our issue of that date, of this year, when it was decided that rather than hold a celebration at that time, it would be postponed until midsummer when it was expected that all the members of the family would be able to be present. The date was set for yesterday, and it must have been a source of great joy to the esteemed couple to have their children, now living in widely separated localities with them once more. Mr. and Mrs. Black's family consists of six sons and five daughters: Alex, at Fort William; Frank and John, at St. Charles, Michigan; Joseph, in Toronto; Angus P., in North Dakota, and George at home.
