EVER IN EVERY WAY

making Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

N. S.—"I took your medicine down condition and inwardly I had pains in my right side times that I could not walk. I saw about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and have taken five bottles and am better in every way and I have written my letter to help other women. Mrs. ALVITA M. PRATT, S. S.

Breakdown Relieved

Ontario.—"It is pretty hard on your feelings in nervous system, I felt low spirited, had pains in my right side, and I could not go anywhere. I did not fancy work, and I would not after a few minutes of work. I have been in Canada five years and have never since I have taken your medicine because it has done for my husband's breakdown as recommended it to me. Mrs. M. H. BURLEIGH, 10 Burleigh Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

RED STOLEN AUTO

A trustworthy doing time at the Reformatory, recently the superintendent's automobile was stolen. Chief of Provincial Police Commission early Monday morning received a report on the 4th Line of a red car, which is a Buick, with license No. 10, damaged, but Henry was to be seen and has not been reported. EYESIGHT OF CHILDREN

By DR. W. J. SCHOLDS

Note: Dr. Scholds will answer such health questions in these columns as will be of interest to others and permissible in public print. Personal questions will be answered only when accompanied by self-addressed and stamped envelope. Address Dr. W. J. Scholds, in care of The Durham Chronicle.

Perfectly normal eyes seem to be rare. Careful examination of school children in one Eastern city showed that only a little over 7 1/2 per cent had normal vision. In many instances, however, the defect was so slight as to cause no trouble.

Guy A. Henry, director of the Eye Sight Conservation Council, says, that in tests of 483,154 school children in 19 cities, the total eye defects averaged 21.9 per cent. This includes both uncorrected defects and those corrected by glasses.

He says that proper care of the eyes, and correction of defects during early childhood, would mean better eye sight during adult life and in old age. Many eye troubles appear during youth, and are caused by neglect or abuse of the eyes during childhood.

Large errors of vision cannot be overcome by any exertion on the part of the eye muscles. They cause poor vision. Cases of this kind obviously need glasses in order to see.

Get Proper Glasses

The slight errors can often be overcome by the exertion of effort on the part of the eye muscles. These are the cases in which headache and nervous disturbances due to eye strain are likely to occur. Symptoms of eye strain indicate that

HEALTH QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mineral Oil Least Harmful

G. E. B. asks: "What would you recommend as a laxative where one is required for regular use?"

Reply

Mineral oil, or one of the preparations of mineral oil and agar, would be about as harmless as any. Try to get a permanent cure. Be sure that a sufficient share of the diet consists of cooked and green vegetables, fruits and coarse breads. Drink at least six glasses of water a day. Take some exercises that bring the muscles of the abdomen into play. And cultivate regular habits.

As the tendency to constipation lessens, reduce the daily dose of mineral oil, or of mineral oil and agar, until they are entirely discontinued.

The Schick Test

Mrs. F. M. C. asks: "Kindly tell me what the Schick test is?"

2. Is it harmful?"

ALPINE CANADA FOR A SEPTEMBER HOLIDAY

If Jasper National Park is a delight to all the senses in early summer, what words can we find to picture its glories in early autumn? The bracing mountain air becomes more bracing still; the foliage is at its loveliest; the weather perfect. Jasper Park Lodge, on Lac Beauport, remains open up to the 30th of September, with all its activities in full swing—golf links, tennis courts, swimming pool and dancing pavilion; while, for the delightful trips to nearby glaciers, canyons and waterfalls, the horses and automobiles are at your disposal.

The famous Triangle Tour of British Columbia may also be enjoyed to the fullest extent in September; by train through the Rockies and Bulkley Valley and down the mystic Skeena, by boat over the smooth waters of the Sheltered Skeena Seas, the world's most wonderful sea trip. Finally, the entrancing journey by rail from Vancouver back to Jasper, past mighty the defect, however slight, requires correction by means of properly fitted glasses.

Errors of vision requiring glasses for their correction may be present if the eyes readily become inflamed, if the lids are irritated, discharge, are crusted, or tend to develop sties.

The eyes of babies and children should be shielded from excessive glare and from injurious lights. When the child begins to read, the light used should be steady, non-glaring, and should come from the left side. Children should not be permitted to read fine print, or print on highly glazed paper. They should be taught to avoid straining the eyes by holding books or papers in bad position, as when attempting to read in bed. As reading requires much more visual effort in the child than in the adult, it should be greatly limited in amount.

Parents and teachers usually have the best opportunity of detecting signs of defective vision in early childhood. They are also in the best position to teach the child to avoid improper use of the eyes.

1. The Schick test is a test for susceptibility to diphtheria. It is carried out by injecting a small amount of diluted diphtheria toxin into the skin of one forearm. A similar injection of inactive material is made into the skin of the other forearm as a control. In those who are susceptible, redness develops after about 24 hours over the area in which the diluted toxin was injected. In those who are not susceptible, no more redness develops over the area in which the diluted toxin was injected than over the area in which the control injection was made.

Some people have a relative immunity, or resistance to diphtheria. Others are readily susceptible to this disease. Those who are susceptible can be protected against diphtheria by the injection of toxoid. Hence, the value of making the test to find out who is susceptible, especially among school children, soldiers, sailors and others likely to be exposed.

2. The Schick test is harmless.

TINY LAD GORED BY BULL

Alsim Chevrette, a lad of 13 years son of Mr. Walter Chevrette, a farmer residing near Thunder Bay, in the Township of Tiny, was badly injured by a young bull recently. The boy had been in the habit of prodding the bull with a pitchfork which rather spoiled the animal's temper. While he was driving the bull from the pasture on this occasion and prodding it from behind, the animal turned and charged the boy. The bull tore his clothes, knocked him down and trampled him and then threw him over the fence, which is probably the only thing that saved his life. When medical attention was rendered, injuries were found all over the boy's body, but he is expected to recover. The bull was shot that evening.—Collingwood Bulletin.
