YANKEE COURTS HAVEN'T BRITISH PEP, SAYS JUDGE

Vermont Jurist Blames the Courts for Crime Waves in American Cities.—Outlines Factors Which Contribute to Efficiency of British Courts.

"Unhappily it is getting to be a trite saying that among all the so-called civilized peoples of the modern world, we Americans are the most lawless. The charge is pressed against us, not only as an indication of the breakdown of our criminal justice, but also, by the more pessimistic, to bolster up the contention that democracy, because it will not respect its own laws, is doomed to failure."

These statements were made in a lecture recently before the summer school students of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., by Judge Edmund Curtis Mower, head of the department of political science at the University of Vermont, and a member of the summer faculty of Northwestern University. Judge Mower has had long judicial experience in the state courts of Vermont and has made a close study of English criminal procedure. In the lecture, a comparison of the American court system was made with that of the English.

Fail to Protect Life

The distinguished jurist emphasized a number of facts revealed in an illuminating survey made by the American Bar Association. A committee of this association made the report that "no modern people comparable with us in point of enlightenment and general governmental capacity so ignominiously fails to protect life and property against the criminal. In comparison with other great civilized nations, the English government affords to its citizens, through the enforcement of its laws, a maximum of protection against evil-doers, while the United States, under the same comparison, affords its citizens a minimum of protection against evildoers."

"Two conclusions of great significance were reached by the committee," continued Judge Mower. "First, that crime is on the increase, not merely in gross but in proportion to population. Moreover, that the largest proportion of this increase was to be found in crimes accompanied with violence. In the ten years previous to 1922, no less than 35,000 of our citizens have perished by poison, by the pistol, or the knife or by other unlawful and deadly injury."

There is an average of less than one murder a month in the city of London, and approximately one a day in the city of New York. A careful comparison of the criminal statistics of all Canada, with a population of about 9,000,000, was made by the same committee of the American Bar Association. They found as of the year 1921, as many prisoners in the Joliet penitentiary alone as in all Canada's penitentiaries; twice as many burglaries in Chicago as in Canada, and four times as many murders in Cook County as in all Canada.

English Use Dispatch

Judge Mower outlined certain factors which he believed contributed to the efficiency of the English court procedure. "English cases especially criminal cases, are disposed of in far less time than would be required in the average American court. In England, the interval between arrest and trial, and between conviction and the final disposition of the case is a matter of weeks instead of months or years. Justice is not only swift in its decision, but also in the great majority of cases that decision remains final. Punishment is a great deterrent of crime, and in both England and France, it is far surer than with us. The less technical procedure of English court procedure is the dominating role played by the judges. At all times, the English presiding judge is in command of the situation; he does not hesitate to interpose, at any stage of the proceedings. He deems himself an integral part of the judicial machine, both as to law and fact. The judge leaves no doubt in the minds of the jury as to the state of his own mind with reference to the case. The dominant position of the presiding judge in English criminal trials greatly strengthens the court."

"To be sure, judges, if they are to enjoy these vigorous prerogatives, must be the highest type and profoundly sensible of their grave responsibilities. "If our criminal courts are to attain the efficiency of the English, we cannot too attentively see to it that the legal profession sends up to the bench its finest produce—not only good lawyers, but men of vision, of conscience, of courage, men imbued with a fine sense of the dignity and the high mission of the

Hints for the Household

For September

By BETTY WEBSTER

Readers, Note: If you have any questions concerning Recipes, and other Household Hints you would like to ask Betty Webster—address her in care of The Durham Chronicle.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

In September—our thoughts turn back to entertaining. The simple afternoon teas are now in order. Sandwiches are a natural refreshment. Not the filling ones of good old summer time, but pretty and dainty ones. The "open" sandwiches especially.

Open Fruit Sandwiches

Fresh currants—mashed and mixed with cream cheese.

Crushed Pineapple — and cream cheese.

Fresh strawberries—sliced thin and sprinkled with powdered sugar. Then placed between buttered home-made bread. These are very delicious.

An Unusual Filling—Take cucumber, celery, pineapple and black walnuts. Chop together and mix with French dressing.

Dates and Nuts—Dates and nuts chopped together and mixed with cream cheese is always a good filling for sandwiches.

COOKING HINTS

A New Salad

2 cups of crushed pineapple (drained). 1 cup of diced celery. 2 red pimientos (chopped).

Method: Drain pineapple. Cut up celery. Chop pimientos. Mix well with mayonnaise and serve on crisp lettuce.

Grape Jelly

6 pounds of grapes. 3 cups of water. 1 pound of sugar to each pint of juice.

Method: Crush grapes. Pour the water over them. Boil together 30 minutes. Strain juice through jelly bag. Add 1 pound of sugar to each pint of juice. Mix well. Cook. When this comes to a boil—boil 20 minutes. Take from fire and pour immediately into jelly glasses. Seal with paraffin.

BAKING HINTS

Baked Ham With Scalloped Potatoes

9 potatoes. Flour. Milk. 1 1/2 pound slice of ham.

Method: Pare and slice the potatoes. Place a layer of sliced potatoes in bottom of buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with butter, flour and a little seasoning. Repeat until you have used all potatoes. Cover with milk. Lay ham on very top. Keep in ice box until time to cook. Allow at least 1 hour for this to bake.

Baked Apples

Baked apples are always a nice dessert. They may be varied by filling the centres with—Dates. Nuts. Little Cinnamon. Sugar.

Method: Core apples. Fill cavities with dates, nuts, little cinnamon and sugar. Surround with water and bake.

A LITTLE RUBBER HISTORY

Uncle Sam's howl about the British monopoly of rubber, and the announcement that Americans will establish rubber plantations of their own, have aroused some Canadian speculators of the older generation to recounting reminiscences that have a sting in them.

They relate that when British enterprise began rubber-planting on a large scale in Malaysia, American rubber companies by the dozen sprang up. Canada was flooded with advertising literature, sent direct in many cases, and liberally displayed in all American magazines on our bookshelves. Rubber stock was almost as well advertised as some oil stocks have been since. The prospectuses were most alluring, and the plantations were to be in Southern California and Mexico. The profits were not to begin for ten years, but after that period, they were to be enormous, and there were to be no losses.

It is declared that a vast amount of Canadian money went into those schemes. But the difference between British and American methods in the premises was seen in the fact that while the Americans did nothing, the British companies went ahead and made their plantations. By the time the war started these were in bearing shape and the product was a very useful factor in the Great War, whereas it is doubtful if a single rubber tree was ever planted in the American districts named.

But there is no doubt what befell Canadian investors in the United States rubber companies. If any one of them ever received a dividend, it would be instructive if he came forward and told us about it.—Montreal Herald.

The Question of Water for Your Country Home

In planning your country home nothing is quite so important as the question of water. Formerly it was considered sufficient for the farm or country home to have a hand pump or windmill. But now the hand pump and windmill are as obsolete as the old unsanitary outhouse or chemical toilet.

Empire Duro Water Systems

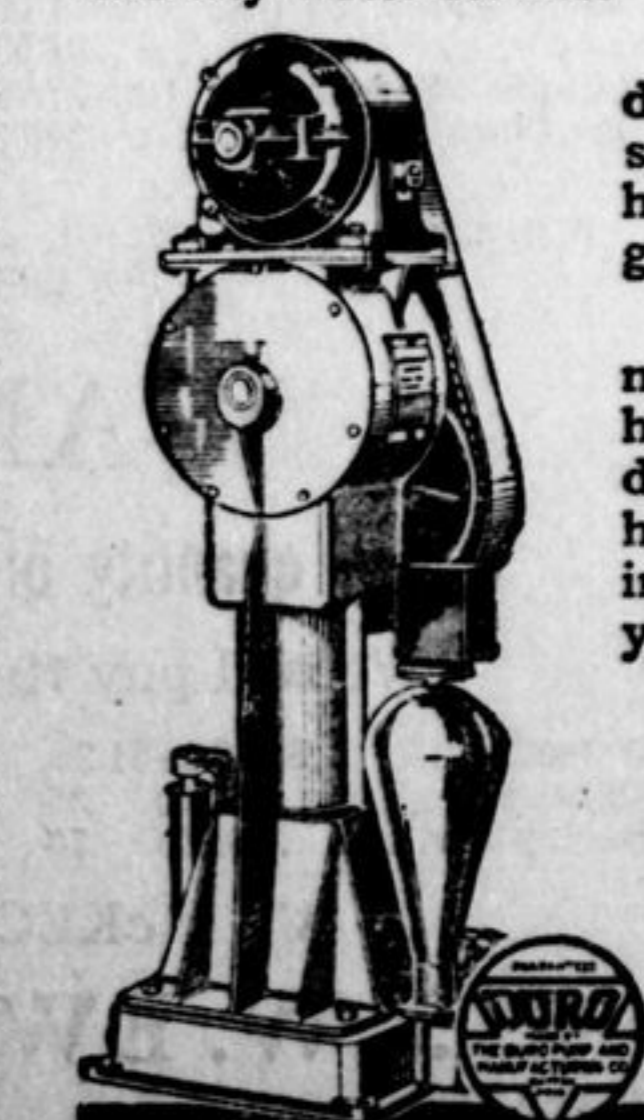

made in many sizes and styles, enable any home anywhere, to have running water under pressure, all over the house, just like city water service.

Duro systems can be used with deep wells, shallow wells, cisterns or springs. They may be driven from high line current, farm light plant or gasoline engine.

A Duro system is a sound investment—it lessens labor and promotes health and cleanliness. It replaces drudgery and despair with comfort and happiness. And it is also a permanent improvement that adds to the value of your property.

Have your architect or builder ask for an estimate. Specify Duro.
