

For The Quiet Hour

THE SINGING HEART

I trudge along the footpath way, Sometimes a wee bit wearily; It may be under skies of gray, With low clouds drifting drearily; Still on I fare right cheerily— I' faith I would not part For gear or gold with what I hold— The Singing Heart!

For gold takes wings and flies afar, And gear is oftimes hampering, And peace of mind it well might mar, And deaden joy with pampering; My merry thoughts go scampering, Quite free from envy's smart— Indeed, maybe some envy me, The Singing Heart!

And never think I walk alone Upon the road I fare along, For hearts that answer to my own A-many pilgrims bear along; There's comradeship full rare along Our way, through field or mart— No earthly ill for long can chill The Singing Heart!

—Kind Words.

D. A. DAVIS, Y. M. C. A. SENIOR SECRETARY FOR Europe, in a letter concerning a recent trip to Latvia, writes that when the work of the Y. M. C. A., which had been carried on for Russians in Germany, was closed out, many thousands of Russian New Testaments left in the storehouse were sent to Russian clergymen for distribution. He says: "The Archbishop of Riga told me with tears in his eyes that, except on Easter day, he had never seen such crowds of people pour into the church as came to receive from his hand a copy of the New Testament. Mothers crowded in and lifted up their children that the children might, with their own hands, receive a copy of this rare and sacred book. He said that in some towns, even of 30,000 people, a copy of the New Testament could not be secured at any price, and that even those copies which could be secured in Riga, the capital of the country, cost so much that it was impossible for the poor people to buy them. Many families, who for years have longed for a Testament, have finally had their great desire satisfied."

SOMETHING LIKE A RELIGIOUS REVIVAL, OR AT least increased interest in church attendance, seems to be sweeping over Northern and Central Europe if one may compare the year 1924 with other previous years, says Rev. Thomas Van Ness, writing in The Boston Transcript. He continues:

"I well remember in Copenhagen in 1899 attending the 'Church of Our Lady,' where there is to be seen Thorwaldsen's remarkable marble statue (at the Communion table) of Jesus, with outstretched hands, giving the universal invitation, 'Come unto me,' and where down the two sides of the church are ranged the accompanying statues of the apostles, all save Judas, whose place is taken by St. Paul. At the time, there was the most meagre of congregations, the great church resounding to the footsteps of some belated worshiper who had almost to himself the larger part of the aisles and seats and the minister preaching to the few who were huddled up around the pulpit. This last summer, on a Sunday in June, I went to the same church. Imagine my surprise to find the whole body of the floor filled with people, and even the galleries very nearly full. Yet the service was not of especial interest nor was the preacher a man of marked ability."

"On the 'Drottningholm,' going over from New York to Göteborg, I met a Methodist minister, a Dane by birth, but a man who because of his long residence in the United States knew American religious conditions at first hand. He told me, to my astonishment, that it was easier to support a denominational organization in Copenhagen than in any of our Mid-Western cities. He preached every Sunday there to some eight hundred or one thousand. 'These people,' he said, 'according to their means, contributed very liberally.' He also spoke of the increased interest in religious education shown by the clergy of the Established Church of Denmark and the numerous discussions now going on regarding the theological basis of Christianity, all going to show that the former indifference was being replaced by a genuine desire to improve the church and to add to its effectiveness."

"NO GREATER CURSE HAS BLIGHTED AND IMPEDED the onward movement of the Kingdom of God during the years than overlapping and competition on the part of the different denominations. More time, brain power, physical and nervous energy have been expended along this line than any other."

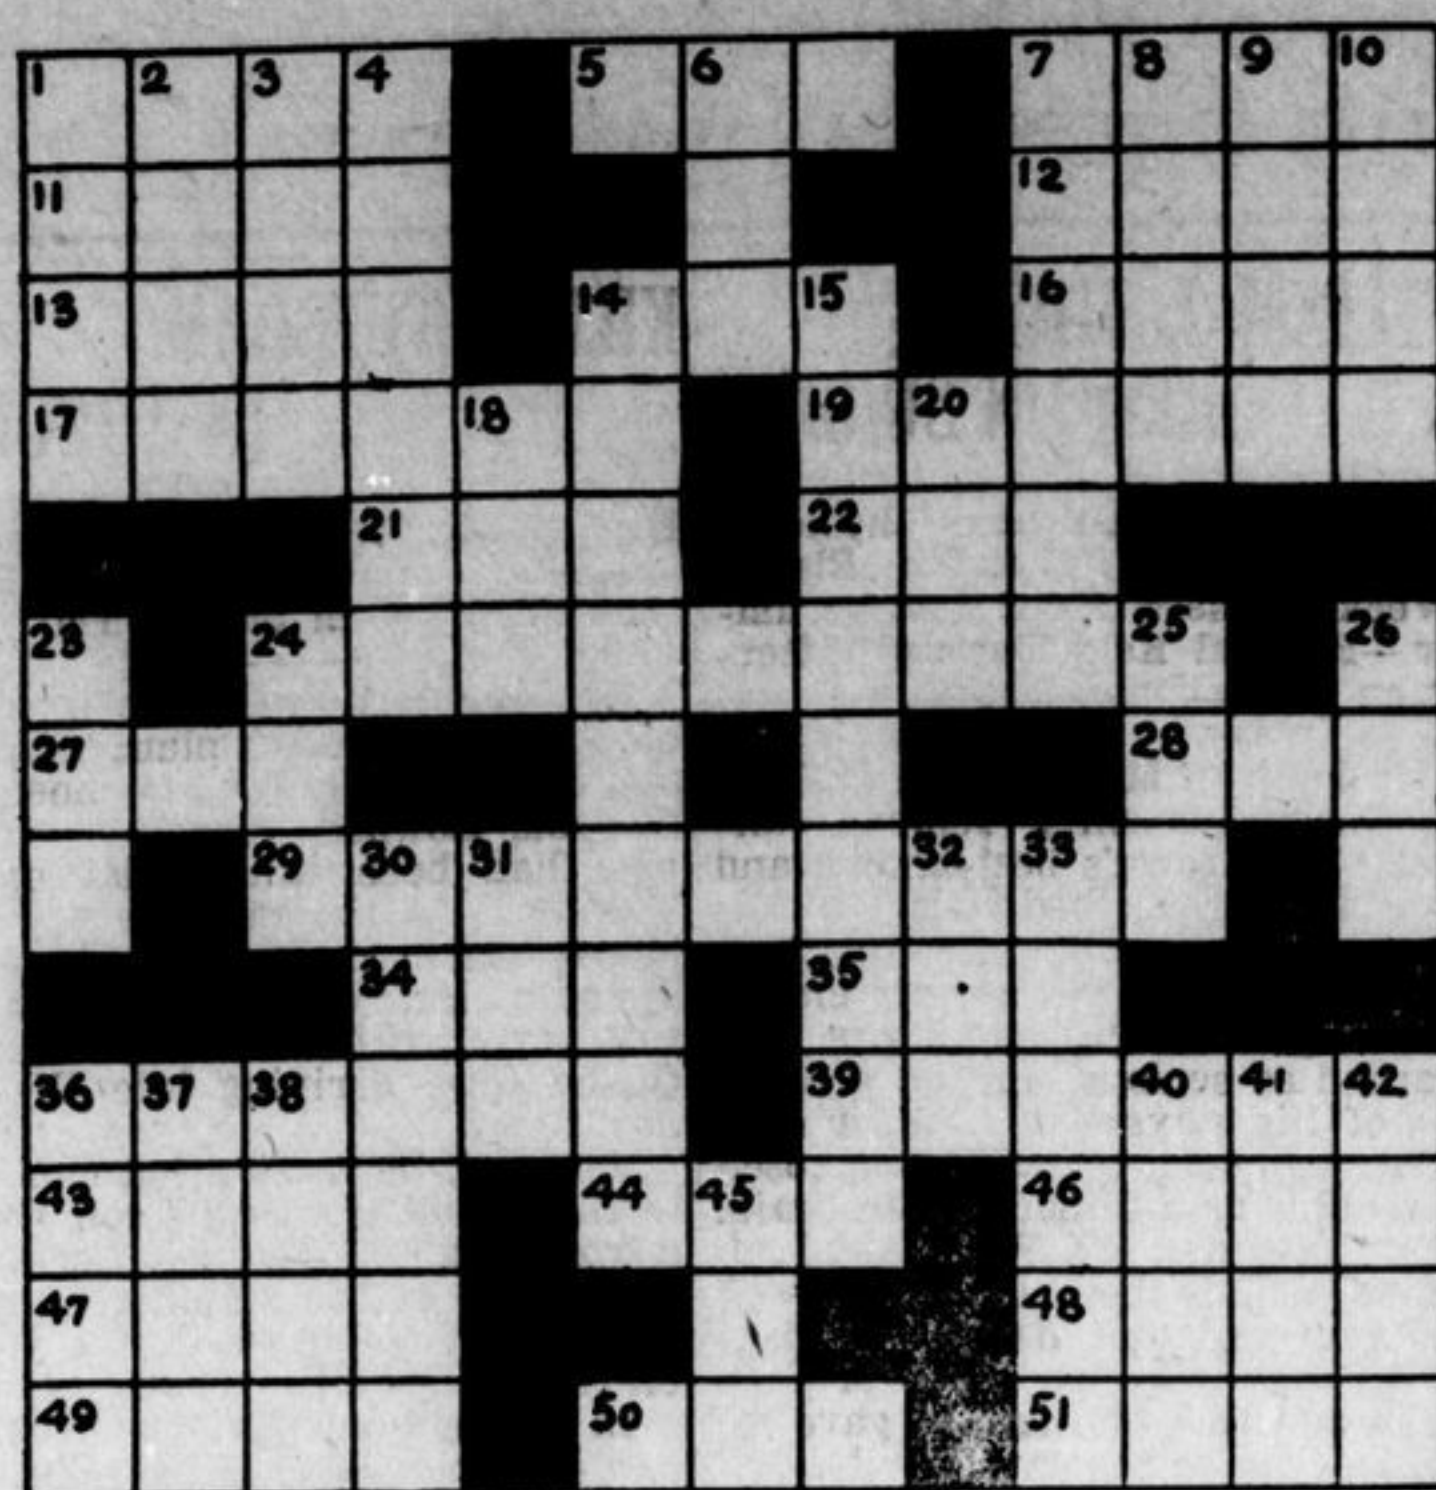

"I have a distinct judgment that if all Christian institutions, all Christian men and the God of all these men and institutions were to co-operate on a high moral and religious plane toward Christianizing America, that within the next quarter of a century the task would have been accomplished.—Melvin P. Burns.

A NATION-WIDE DRIVE WITH THE ULTIMATE OBJECT of putting Germany in the dry column was launched on May 10 with a series of addresses from pulpits of all denominations. The leaders of the movement, according to the Christian Observer, say they hope to have 15,000,000 votes pledged to the cause before September. Women figure prominently in the movement, one of the strongest contingents in the prohibition army being the evangelical women's league, with more than 1,000,000 members. Failure to secure prompt and efficient legislation through the national parliament and local diets has prompted the leaders of the movement to adopt the local option device, as a quicker method of gauging public sentiment as regards prohibition. "Germany spends 2,500,000,000 marks annually for beer, wines and liquors, which is anything but flattering, when it is recalled that the Dawes reparation loan amounted to only 300,000,000 marks," one of the dry leaders remarked by way of reflecting on the financial effect of prohibition on Germany's public and private economies.

THERE IS A RIGHT WAY OF USING INFLUENCE. Observe how Jesus puts the matter when He says: "Let your light so shine." The word so should be emphasized as indicating the manner of the shining. Light may be so held in the hand as to dazzle the observer. Light may be brought too near the eyes. Light may be set at a wrong angle. Light may be wasted, its beams displayed so as to be of no use to the man who would read or work. Hence it is not enough to be luminous, but so to use our luminousness as to be of use to other people.—Joseph Parker.

Where are now those chains that bound me,— Chains of sin and self and pride? Hallelujah! Jesus broke them. When I sought his riven side. Now a sweeter, nobler bondage Does my raptured soul enthral, For there's pleasure in his service, More than all, yes, more than all!

Answer to Last Week's Puzzle No. 26.

STRONG MOVIE STORY FOR WILLIAM DESMOND

A thrilling story told with dramatic intensity, relieved by some pleasing comedy, is promised in "Straight Through." Blue Streak Western, starring William Desmond and to be screened in the Veterans' Star Theatre Friday and Saturday nights. In addition to the melodrama and the comedy, there is some wild horsemanship and fights that have done so much to make Desmond a prime screen favorite. In keeping with a promise, O'Day, Desmond's role, starts in by doing service to others, and thereby gains for himself the name of Good Deed O'Day. However, some of his good deeds are not appreciated and comedy often results.

Then comes the time when O'Day learns that the gambler's consort has become the wife of O'Day's best friend, and the resultant complications are told in many tense sequences. O'Day, in his efforts to make certain that the woman keeps her promise to "go straight," subjects himself to the suspicion of, first, the townspeople, then of the woman he loves, and lastly, of the friend himself. In time, the woman tires of her assumption of goodness and arranges to flee with the gambler.

Desmond is supported by Marguerite Clayton, Ruth Stonehouse, Claude Payton, Albert J. Smith, Bill Gillis, Frank Brownlee and George Marion. Arthur Rosson directed.

RAN DOWN FOX WITH A FORD

The glare of a motor car headlights seems to overcome the efficiency of a fox's faculties as well as those of men, as is evidenced by a report from the Bruce Peninsula. On the Centre Road, about four miles north of Mar post office, a red fox appeared in front of a car driven by Mr. Lorne Boyle of Warton about midnight recently. The fox turned and ran ahead of the car, keeping in the glare of the headlights. Boyle opened the throttle and after going at a good speed for a mile or so, overtook the fox, which disappeared under the car. The front axle hit the animal on the head, killing him instantly, and Boyle is in possession of a nice, large, red fox hide.

BURGLARS PAY VISIT TO PAISLEY STORES. Entered Two Places on Sunday Night and Returned Monday Night. Two Cars Also Stolen. Messrs. D. C. McGregor's and L. O. Charlesworth's stores were broken into on Sunday night of last week and a quantity of goods taken. The glass panes in McGregor's front door was smashed by striking it a heavy blow, apparently with a large piece of board that was left lying there, and then the door was unfastened. Some candy and gum was all that was missed from the place. The front of the till was smashed in an attempt to get it open but the burglars were not successful in their effort. The till contained some change. Entrance to Charlesworth's hardware was effected by removing a pane of glass in a rear door. Flashlights, safety razors, jack-knives and other small articles were taken, and the cash register was tampered with in an effort to extract the contents, but in this case they were also unsuccessful. Some chocolate bars were left on top of a show case where the robber was loading up with hardware. These were not from McGregor's store, so the gang must have been in a third place, but so far, it is not known where. Suspicious movements of a couple of men on the street on Monday night prompted Mr. R. W. McFarlane and a couple of clerks, who were in the store late doing some work, to remain on the ground, and the result was the near capture of the desperadoes.

HER NERVES BETTER NOW

Received Much Benefit by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Chatham, Ontario. "I started to get weak after my second child was born, and kept on getting worse until I could not do my own housework and was so bad with my nerves that I was afraid to stay alone at any time. I had a girl working for me a whole year before I was able to do my washing again. Through a friend I learned of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took four bottles of it. I gave birth to a baby boy the 4th day of September, 1922. I am still doing my own work and washing. Of course, I don't feel well every day because I don't get my rest as the baby is so cross. But when I get my rest I feel fine. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and am going to keep on with it until cured. My nerves are a lot better since taking it. I can stay alone day or night and not be the least frightened. You can use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound." Mrs. CHARLES CARSON, 27 Forsythe Street, Chatham, Ontario. Mrs. Carson is willing to write to any girl or woman suffering from female troubles.

shortly after one was seen driving at a very fast rate in a Ford car that looked like Thomas Monk's of the Balmoral Hotel. Inquiry at the hotel proved that the car was gone and had been taken from the garage there after prying the lock off the door. Five persons then went to a vacant house on the old McCully property on North Street where it was known a couple of trespassers had been occupying on Sunday. There a quantity of the stolen hardware, confectionery, fruit and other goods were found and identified by the owners.—Paisley Advocate.
