—Gazette, Section 41 of the Highway Traffic Act provides that all such accidents must be reported. The penalty for violation of this provision is not less than $25 and not more than $100.

The English of It
This is probably why the English language is so hard for foreigners to learn.

"I've lost the links," said the soiled shirt.
"I've lost the links," said the golfer, as he wandered aimlessly through the woods.
"I've lost the lynx," said the hunter, as he saw tracks around his trap.

The German Reichsrath or Imperial Council on Saturday approved the Government bills giving effect to the Locarno treaties and providing for Germany's entrance into the League of Nations. The vote was 46 to 4, with 3 abstentions.

E. G. Theodore, former Premier of Queensland, was defeated by Dr. Holt, Government candidate, in the Australian Federal election of last Saturday, the belated election returns received in Brisbane, definitely deciding the matter.

Dr. Rudolph Hilferding, the German Socialist leader, who once was Minister of Finance, assailed Premier Mussolini of Italy in the Reichstag in a discussion of the Italo-German trade treaty. He declared that the treaty "has depreciated because it bears the signature of Mussolini whose speech is in diametrical opposition to the spirit of Locarno."

Alleging that 5,000 Albanians of Moslem origin are being treated like a "herd of cattle" in Greece and are about to be illegally shipped to Turkey in exchange for Greek residents there, Albania has protested to the League of Nations that this compulsory exchange is in violation of Greece's pledges, and has demanded that the question be placed on the agenda of the next session of the League Council.

Loss of the monitor-submarine M-1 with 68 lives last week now appears to have been due to a collision with a Swedish steamer, the British Admiralty announced on Saturday. Information sent by the captain of the steamer Vidar, now at Stockholm, that he felt a shock at the time and in the vicinity of the submarine's disappearance leads to the conclusion that the M-1 struck the Vidar and sank immediately.

The increase in the membership of the trades unions of Great Britain in the past year, a little over two per cent, though small, is welcomed by the trades union officials, coming as it does after successive reductions of over 20 per cent of nearly 1,250,000 members in 1921 and 15 per cent in 1922. The membership at the end of last year was slightly over 5,500,000, compared with the membership in 1920, which was over 8,000,000.

Less than four per cent of the members of the trades unions in the United Kingdom claim exemption from the payment of the levy imposed on the unions for political purposes, according to an official return from over 100 unions whose membership totals 2,500,000 of which 90,000 have claimed the right of non-payment of the levy. The agriculturists' unions of England, Scotland and Wales have paid the levy, but in two Scottish unions with a total membership of 13,000, over 4,000 have "contracted out" of paying the political levy.

The Governmental parties apparently gained a complete victory over Independent candidates in Chile's Parliamentary elections which were conducted throughout the country without disorder. The new deputies will receive a salary of 2,000 pesos monthly. It was opposition among army officers to this increase which led to the revolution of September, 1924.

Thirty-nine members of the crew of the steamer Northumberland were arrested on charges of absenting themselves from the ship without leave. Three of the number gave their undertaking in court in Melbourne, Australia, that they would return to work and were allowed to go free. The others refused to give a similar undertaking and were sentenced to two weeks' imprisonment.

There was a significant development in the Labor party in the British House of Commons last week which heretofore has escaped comment. This was the formation of a so-called "ginger group" which was responsible for forcing the Labor leaders to propose an amendment to the motion of the Foreign Minister, Austen Chamberlain, for the ratification of the Locarno treaty, although Ramsay MacDonald previously had assured Mr. Chamberlain that the Labor members of the House did not intend to submit an amendment.

COLORADO BEETLE HIBERNATES IN WINTER

The Colorado beetle is a most persistent insect. It starts to hibernate in August, September or early October and turns up ready for business in the spring. In Ottawa, as told by the Entomological Branch in Bulletin 52 of the Dominion Department of Agriculture on "The Colorado Potato Beetle in Canada," tests have been made as to length of life of the creature and under what circumstances it will retain vitality.

In wintering cage tests with beetles in New Brunswick, several lots were forced into hibernation at an early date by confining them in wire cages on the soil with only enough food for one day. All had burrowed within three days after the food had gone. From three lots put in the cages August 30 and September 5, 205 beetles out of 600 emerged the following spring. Out of 200 put in September 10, 42 emerged, and out of 3,230 put in the cages on September 13 and later, only 360 emerged in the spring. This lettin says, that the earlier the beetles hibernate in the autumn, the better they survive. The beetles commonly go into the soil immediately below the place where they last fed. In a damp, cold clay loam, they have been found within 2 inches of the surface and none at all below 6 inches, while in a loose, sandy soil, only a few hundred feet away, none were found at less than 14 inches and some at 17 inches. In a dense, gravel-loam soil, only an occasional beetle was turned out when the plough was cutting 5 inches deep, but a number could be found by digging 3 inches more in the bottom of the furrow.

The Difference

"What is the difference between an apple and a nice-looking girl?"
"Don't know. What?"
"An apple has to be squeezed to be cider, while with a nice-looking girl, you have to be beside her to squeeze her."
