

Glenelg and Priceville

February is bidding farewell to all those to whom its existence was uncomfortable, and sometimes its successor, March, is not much better. So time is marching along, and a couple of months more will bring us to the beautiful month of May. We spent some ten days at our old home with brother and sister on the Durham Road, Glenelg. We notice that the good road made on the old Durham Road is already abandoned on account of drifts in heavy cuts which are some ten to fifteen feet deep, and the Glen Road is still good travelling. This was one of the greatest mistakes. Thousands of dollars spent on unnecessary work, but where instead of some 10 or 15 thousand on the big hill, a couple of thousand would have made the Glen a first-class road.

Quite a number of the young men and girls in the vicinity of Priceville thought it was not good to be alone, and a number of them united (not in church union), although some of them differed in that union. It is said that a man will leave father and mother and cling to his wife, but in some instances this demand is not observed, for we often see that a bill of separation or a divorce is advertised. A certain minister was performing the solemn rite of marriage, and after propounding the preliminary questions on a stormy winter day, he pronounced them man and wife by saying, "Under this roof in stormy weather, I join this man and woman together; let none but He who rules the thunder, ever put this man and woman asunder."

Priceville is holding its own fairly well, and a good business in general is done by all in business of a different nature. In church matters the old Presbyterians are holding their meetings in the old post office which is comfortably fitted up, and a full attendance is there every Sunday. The Sunday school is largely attended under the superintendence of Mr. Thomas Nichol. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Sutherland, always gives good sermons, and those in the church are getting good delivery by their pastor also. The Rev. Mr. Campbell of Toronto preached on Sunday in the Presbyterian hall, Priceville. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Sutherland, was away on his duty as Moderator of the Presbyterian church in the Presbytery of Orangeville.

Assessor Moore of Glenelg will be tramping the snow drifts by this time. He needn't begin to tell us of the difficulties to contend with by being out in all kinds of weather, for we tramped Glenelg thirteen times for the same purpose. The late Mr. Bill Tramped Glenelg fifteen times and others some three and four times.

Mr. Alex. McLean is helping Mr. Arch. D. McKinnon, South Glenelg, taking out wood.

Some person or persons who did not obey the commandment, "Thou shalt not steal," took 70 bushels of oats from Mr. Colin McLean's barn on the Durham Road three miles west of Priceville. The house on the farm is not occupied, so it was an easy matter to get to the barn.

Priceville can boast of having a good barber in the person of Mr. Gordon McLean, son of Mr. Hector McLean, north line, and the young man is doing good business.

Priceville branch of the Standard Bank is doing good business on Tuesday and Fridays. We thank the obliging Mr. Porter who attends for giving us a lift coming from our old home.

The sick ones in Priceville and vicinity are getting better. Professor Konold was seriously sick but we heard he is better again, so we hope the old gentleman will tune up his piano and give good music once more.

Mr. Arch. McLeod, who spent a couple of months visiting friends in the vicinity of Priceville, left for his home at Garman, Manitoba, last week.

Alex. McDonald, son and daughter of Saskatchewan, who spent since Christmas visiting friends here left for his home this March 1.

Saw logging is about done. Taking out wood for the buzz saw is the general work at present.

The residents of Priceville are sorry to be losing a good and faithful citizen. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McDonald are moving to Owen Sound this week to engage in the store business. Their many friends wish Mr. and Mrs. McDonald success in their new home. Mrs. McDonald was organist for the Presbyterian church, and both will be greatly missed in the choir.

Quite a number from Glenelg took in the play in Durham last Friday night.

Our mail carriers are very regular in their attendance in all kinds of weather—Albert Livingston from No. 1 Durham up Edge Hill way, Dan. McLachlan on No. 2 Priceville and down concession 4, Glenelg, to the base line, Hermie McLean on route No. 1 down the Durham Road West and up the second concession South Line, Glenelg.

Priceville

(Our Own Correspondent) March is here at last, very much a lamb, and we may see the lion in a temper before the end of the month. But here's hoping otherwise. The crows are visiting our section again, and we hear that the ground hogs have been seen out.

Dr. Carr of Owen Sound paid a flying visit to our village last week. We are glad to hear that Mr. D. G. McLean and Mr. Donald McLachlan, both of whom have been ailing for some time past, are on the improved list again. We hope they may soon be able to resume their work again.

Miss Lydia McKinnon is somewhat better again this last few days. Master Jack McMillan, son of Mr. W. J. McMillan of South Line, Artemesia, who was operated on for appendicitis in Durham hospital last week is doing fine.

Mrs. W. M. Watson, but recently married, was the victim of a severe attack of appendicitis on Saturday evening last and was rushed to Durham hospital where Drs. Jamieson and Blake performed an operation. We sincerely hope for an early recovery.

Last Friday evening a shower was given to our young neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Watson in their residence near the river. A household of well-wishes gathered together and with the very best spirit proceeded to make themselves at home with dancing and games. A very useful display of gifts was in evidence. The party broke up late or early Saturday morning. Everyone enjoyed the wide-open hospitality of our new neighbors. We hope for their success.

We are sorry to lose one of our older residents, although they are of the younger set, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McDonald, who we understand are starting in business in Owen Sound. As we cannot keep them, we shall wish them God speed, and may be later we can reclaim them. They are always willing workers in our community life and will be very much missed.

Traverston.

(Our Own Correspondent) A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. The evening was spent in games and dancing until midnight when a dainty lunch was served by the ladies after which Mr. and Mrs. Caulfield were called forward, and an address was read by Miss Jean Black, and at the proper time a purse was presented to them by Mrs. A. Corner Concerns

(Our Own Correspondent) Mr. William Atcheson gave a party last Friday night that is spoken of by all present as one of the most enjoyable events they have attended for some time. Dancing and card playing were the chief pastimes.

Music was supplied by Messrs. Hooper, Morlock, Gordon and others.

Mr. Joseph Lennox has purchased a new piano for his daughters. It is a Heintzman.

Mr. Clark Watson has rented the farm of Mr. George Lawrence who is having an auction sale on Saturday and moving to Durham. Snowmobiles are sometimes seen on our roads now. We imagine they will receive about as much welcome from teamsters on the badly drifted roads as farm horses are at present accorded in Durham.

Mr. James Marshall spent a couple of days last week with his sister, Mrs. James McNally of Traverston.

Mr. Earl Mead has purchased a cutting box and engine by which he will be able to feed more economically and better.

Mr. E. V. Matthews had a little experience a week ago that he wouldn't wish to have repeated. He was stooping to pick up something at the end of a drag saw when it was put in motion by the man at the engine who did not notice Mr. Matthews. The saw took the skin off his nose but did him no more harm.

It was with sadness we learned of the death of Mr. William Grabsy, who was raised to manhood in this part.

It was just as we expected. The first and strongest protest against Durham's selling of all accommodation for horses comes from those at a distance. It is a serious matter for those living at a distance of ten or twelve miles and wishing to support the town to come in of a cold, stormy morning through heavy roads and find no place to give their team a comfortable dinner. Horses stand high in the affection of teamsters, especially if they are their own. As for us folks living four or five miles away, the situation is even more amusing. Of course, we are excluded from attending evening concerts or other social events in town, for although church sheds afford good accommodation for a couple of hours in day time, no sane person would think of leaving them there for four or five hours at night. But it is maybe just as well that we don't see and hear what goes on in Durham after dark. Country folks are apt to hold up their hands in holy horror at what town people would call a bit of innocent pastime. Besides we know this sort of thing can't go on for long. A country town depending on farmers' trade for a living cannot carry on any more successfully without horse stabling than a farmer could operate his farm without stabling for his live stock, and it won't be long till we see the Durham Board of Trade with hat and coat off trying to rig up some kind of a shelter to stable a few horses. In the meantime, they will have the opportunity of hearing expressions of opinion on the matter especially from those living at a distance or from those on a long journey during the winter who intend to make Durham the stopping place to refresh their team and have dinner.

Mixed The minister advertised for a man to make himself useful in house and garden, and that evening a young fellow presented himself.

"Well," said the minister, "can you clean boots?"

"I think I could," said the young man looking surprised.

"Can you clean windows?"

"I'll try."

"Are you good at work in the garden?"

"Can you wash dishes and polish silver?"

"Gracious!" exclaimed the young man, "is it as bad as that?"

"As bad as what?" asked the minister in surprise.

"Well, you see," explained the young fellow, "I'm going to get married, and I came to ask you to publish the banns, but—"

"Oh, that's all right," said the minister hastily. "Just give me the particulars."
