WE "DOUGHNUT" BLAME BARNES FOR GETTING MAD

Anyone who has studied the history of the World War has been impressed with the importance of the part played by the American doughnut in keeping up the morale of the A. E. F. In bringing to the screen "The Crowded Hour," Bebe Daniels' latest effort, which has for the background of its vivid love story some stirring scenes of France in wartime, Director E. Mason Hopper assembled at the Paramount Long Island studio as many of the elements of the war as he could gather. Chief among these ingredients was a vast collection of doughnuts.

The ex-service men who were engaged to play American, French and English soldiers and officers hailed the arrival of the doughnuts with a shout and lost no time in demolishing them. T. Roy Barnes, who has the role of a "Y" overseas entertainer, was also delighted with the doughnuts, and did his best to make them disappear.

Then the director called upon Barnes to do his doughnut-eating before the camera. The actor ate the confections in long shots, close ups, medium shots, retakes, reverse angles and for a slow motion scene.

At lunch, when the supply of desserts ran low, the waitress brought him a couple of doughnuts. The next morning, after an uneasy night, a special messenger arrived at the studio with a neatly wrapped package, addressed to Mr. T. Roy Barnes.

True, it was after Christmas, and Barnes' birthday was not for some time to come, but keen anticipation hastened his fingers as he undid the package. From numerous wrappings of tissue paper there emerged a nice, brown—doughnut. Only the director's call of "T. Roy" saved the unhappy messenger from a horrible fate.

Barnes and Kenneth Harlan head the cast playing in support of Bebe in "The Crowded Hour," which will be the feature at the Veterans' Star Theatre Friday and Saturday, July 23 and 24.

Are you building?

Shall you be building this year? If so, profit by the experience of those who save money when building. Even on a small job you'll probably be surprised to find how using Long Distance enables you to get lowest prices.

"We bought all the material for a $75,000 building by Long Distance—it is the cheapest way"—writes a contractor in a medium-sized town.

"We use Long Distance to get prices on materials before making estimates or contracts"—writes another.

The leaders in every branch of industry know. They've proved it, as you can.

LADY SOFTBALLERS LOST AT OWEN SOUND

Went Wild in Fourth Inning, When Owen Sound Team Scored Ten Runs.—Loose Fielding Also Helped Somewhat When Durham Lost 19-6.

Durham Ladies' Softball team went down to defeat Thursday evening last week at Owen Sound when the Wawanekas of that place emerged on the top end of a 19-6 score.

For the first three innings, the game was evenly contested, and it was difficult to conjecture as to which was the better team, the score at the end of the third being 5-4 for Owen Sound. The fourth frame was the one where the beans were spilled, the Wawanekas shutting the locals out, while at their inning at bat they collected no less than ten runs.

It was a seven-inning contest, and had it not been for that awful fourth session, would have been a good game, though there were many errors on both sides at time. In the fifth inning Owen Sound crossed plate three times to Durham's twice.

the Sounders shutting Durham out in the sixth session, while collecting one run for themselves. Durham was shut out again in the seventh, and as Owen Sound were ahead, it was not necessary for them to go to bat in the final frame.

Reporting the game, The Owen Sound Sun-Times says that the real show-down came, however, in the last of the fourth when the girls from the south went to pieces and allowed every girl on the local line-up to get a run, while one of the girls scored two, making the total for that inning ten. So far as the Durham girls were concerned, the game was hopeless, and their chances of winning vanished from sight.

In five innings on the mound, Wilda Plante, the local pitching wizard, was credited with ten strikeouts. In the first of the sixth, Bill Garbutt put Vi-Couture in the box to look after things, and she held the visitors scoreless. Murdock, doing the heaving for Durham, pitched a good game until the fourth, when the locals hammered her all over the universe. Had she had better support, the runs would not have been piled so high.

tion and was killed when crossing the tracks at the Winnipeg depot. The case is being tried at Orangeville, but the C. P. R. Company applied to have the case tried at Kenora owing to the fact that a number of its witnesses are in Winnipeg. The lawyers for the defense objected to this, and the Supreme Court sustained the objection.

The C. P. R. Company, in making application, swore to nine witnesses who will be necessary and material and declared that two members of the Department of Investigation of the company would be necessary. It offered, also, to transport all of the plaintiff witnesses and one extra person to Kenora for the trial.

The plaintiff stated that seven witnesses, all of whom reside within fifty miles of Orangeville, would be necessary, and that the majority of the deceased is in delicate health, so that it would be practically impossible for her to make the journey.

Lucas & Henry of this town are acting for the plaintiffs.
