

PDEN CHURCH GARDEN PARTY

Tuesday Night on Grounds of St. Andrew's Church, and Was Well congregation of the Hampton church held their annual garden party on the grounds of St. Andrew's church, and this annual affair was greeted with a good crowd, something over 100 taken in at the gate.

grounds were well lighted by lanterns, and those who attended an excellent time in social intercourse and in listening to the silent program.

chairman of the evening was Mr. Cooper of Parkhill, and following a softball match between the Durham and Knox teams, in which the Durham team stood 6-6, no time in getting the program in motion. The Hanover orchestra was present and rendered several good musical pieces while a quartette of young people consisting of Wilfred Anderson, Anshel, Elizabeth Hughes and Helwig, gave an excellent number. There was also a Helwig sisters that was enjoyed.

Miss McAlister and Miss Dierlan were popular, as was also a trio by the Durham children.

addresses by R. T. Edwards, a former candidate, and Miss McKessick of Massie, were of the program. Luncheon was served at the close, and during the booth, run under the auspices of the W.M.S., did a business.

but untrained reformer secured permission to speak at the party.

he pleaded, "lose no time in turning to the pathway of duty and come tomorrow." "I kid myself," came a voice. "I've got eighteen years yet."

when people were more interested, they were also more interested.

THE BLESSED FEMALES When the husband meets his helpmeet every morning in debate, And he's trying to explain to her why he was out so late, There is never any question that his argument will fail, For the female of the species can talk longer than the male.

When the argument is hottest and they get down to brass tacks, And they hand each other's relatives a lot of pungent whacks; You would think that hers were angels and that his should be in jail, For the female of the species can think faster than the male.

When they're whacking up the boodle that he's earned throughout the week, And deciding how to spend it, he's a pretty helpless geek; It is sad for him to look at his percentage of the kail, For the female of the species can grab quicker than the male.

When they do their weekly shopping and they linger 'round the store, Till the husband thinks that living is a most decided bore; She can take a 50-cent piece and get dry goods by the bale, For the female of the species can buy cheaper than the male.

When it comes to information on the gossip of the day, On the neighborhood activities and things that people say; She has got her husband beaten when she gets upon the trail, For the female of the species can "hear" lots more than the male.

The Horrors of Anticipation Two men, says The Tatler, met in the street one day. "Hallo, Bill," said one. "I haven't seen you for weeks! But what's wrong? You're looking mighty seedy. Been ill?" The other passed his horny hand across his brow. "No, I ain't been ill," he replied. "It's work wot's doin' for me—work from eight in the mornin' till six at night and only one hour off. Think of it!" "Awful!" agreed the first. "And 'ow long 'ave you been there?" "I ain't been there yet," explained Bill gloomily. "Begin tomorrer."

THE CHARGE OF THE BOBBED BRIGADE

Bobbed hair to the right of us, Bobbed hair to the left of us, Tresses asunder, Some with a heavy crop, Some with a lighter mop, Into the barber shop Walked the bobbed hundred.

Women of high degree, Women past fifty-three, Determined that they shall be One of the number, Women of every class, Mother and little lass, Flappers all join the mass Of the bobbed hundred.

Some with banks, some without, Some shingled round about, Some in curls, some in doubt, Fear they have blundered, Some of them look real swell, Some of them look like, well— Just as well not to tell On the bobbed hundred.

Wanted Calf From Cow Attired in Highland dress, with his kilt of Royal Stuart tartan, the Prince of Wales was piped to the chair at the banquet of the Highland Society of London to the lilting tune of "Hielan' Laddie." Proposing the toast of "The Society," the prince told a yarn which convulsed his audience. "There is a story," he said, "that I heard recently of people who were entertaining the new minister, and they did not know what to give him to drink as a nightcap. So they gave him a glass of milk and put in some of their best whisky. Next morning they could not find the minister, and after a little search, they found that he had gone to the byre, but he was not there when the searchers arrived. "The man in charge was asked had he seen the minister, and he said, 'Yes.' They asked him what the minister said to him, and he replied, 'He said I want the first calf from the cow from which I had that milk!'"
