THE PLEASANT TASK

He would not do the thing called work Unless the task were pleasant. His duty must not bind and irk. Joy must be ever-present; And so he searched the city through To find the job he'd like to do.

Now there's a chasm which divides Man's work from his playing. And one can't occupy both sides. Which goes without saying; There is no job on earth today Which pleases one so well as play.

The thing we really like to do Is seldom honest toiling. It's seeing irksome duties through Which keeps the kettle boiling; And if it's work, beyond a doubt, Somewhere it calls for courage stout.

And so from post to post he went To find a job which suited. But everywhere is discontent Away from tasks he scouted; He wanted work which seems like play And that does not exist today. —Edgar A. Guest.

By MARJORIE ADAMS

I received a letter not long ago from Canada asking for directions for making vinegar with brown sugar. I knew just a little bit about it. But, it really interested me, and I decided to find out more about the home manufacture and tell all my readers about it.

It seems that vinegar can be made in several different ways, and the brown sugar process is one of them. However, vinegar is soured alcohol and is made through a process of fermentation. And, I was surprised and glad to learn, vinegar made with sugar is dangerous to use—except externally—unless the fermentation is watched with laboratory care.

Of course, most of us can't give this attention to the product and ought not to try it. The only exception to this is the apple vinegar which can be made at home because the fermentation is natural and does not have to be watched so closely as when it is produced artificially by the combination of sweet and sour.

PRESERVING RECIPES

Pickled Peaches 8 pounds of peaches 1 pint of vinegar 4 pounds of sugar Stick two or three cloves in each peach; add a few sticks of cinnamon to syrup; cook five or ten minutes until tender. Cool peaches and syrup separately; put in jars and pour syrup over them. Let stand twenty-four hours; seal jars.

Sliced Cucumber Pickles

Peel and slice three dozen cucumbers and one dozen onions. Salt separately and let stand overnight. In the morning, drain, mix, pack in jars.

Put in kettle two cups of sugar, five cups of vinegar, three teaspoons of white mustard seed, two teaspoons of ground white pepper and one tablespoon of celery seed. Let mixture come to a boil. Remove from fire and let stand until perfectly cold. Then add four tablespoons of horseradish. Pour over cucumbers and onions and seal in crock or jars.

DESSERT RECIPE

Chocolate Pudding 2 cups of milk 2 tablespoonsful of cornstarch 2 tablespoonsful of cocoa 2 tablespoonsful of sugar 1 teaspoonful of vanilla Heat milk in double boiler; add paste of cornstarch, cocoa, sugar and a little milk; cook until thick, stirring constantly; add vanilla. Remove from fire; pour into sherbet glasses and cool. Serve with cream, plain or whipped. This will make four portions.

SALMON LOAF RECIPE

1 can of salmon 1 egg 1 cup of milk 1/2 cup of bread crumbs Mix ingredients; put into casserole or bread pan and bake in medium oven for twenty minutes. This may be served either hot or cold.

ABOUT ANTS

An English naturalist said that of all animals, an ant is nearest to man in his actions. He is a remarkable architect. In East Africa are to be found tall, slim towers of earth built up by the white ant. Some of these towers are twenty feet high, though the little creature that built them is only a quarter of an inch long. It is as if the ancient Egyptians had built twelve pyramids, one on top of the other. And the Egyptians certainly had tools, while the ant works only with the limbs nature gave him. A little field ant in a test made in a laboratory, held in its jaws a weight three thousand times heavier than itself. If a man were to equal that exploit, he would have to dangle from his jaws eight freight cars loaded with iron! Ants display teamwork of the highest order. They are also warriors, mathematicians, farmers, doctors and undertakers.

Marvels of Nature

A London girl on a visit to the country came to a pond whose shallows were full of tadpoles—thousands and thousands of little black tadpoles flopping about in an inch of mud and water. "Oh," she said, "look at the tadpoles! And to think that some day every one of the horrid, wriggling things will be a beautiful butterfly." Happy marriage! A union wherein one is content and the other resigned.

COMMUNITY MOURNS PASSING OF RESIDENT

Further Particulars Regarding Sudden Passing of John McKechnie of Bentinck Last Week.

Seldom indeed has the community received a greater shock than was experienced on Monday morning of last week, August 9, when it was learned that in the early hours of the morning the Grim Reaper had invaded one of the homes of the neighborhood and that Mr. John McKechnie, a young man in the prime of life, had been called away.

Mr. McKechnie, who with his wife, had just returned from Hamilton, where they had visited over the week-end and attended the wedding of Mrs. McKechnie's brother, Archie, had retired in his usual health Sunday evening. Shortly after midnight, Mrs. McKechnie was awakened by his unusually heavy breathing, and receiving no response to enquiry, became alarmed, and upon getting a light, was horrified to find that her husband had already passed away. With the aid of the telephone, neighbors were summoned, and the doctor called, who found that death was due to heart trouble, for which Mr. McKechnie was being treated although he had been working as usual, and nothing serious was anticipated.

Deceased was in his 36th year and was born and grew to manhood on the farm on the 8th concession of Bentinck, which is still occupied by his father, Donald McKechnie, and his only sister, Mary. He learned his trade as a carpenter with Andrew Hastie and assisted him for several years previous to settling on the farm upon which he has since resided. Nearly eight years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah McDougall, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDougall of Hamilton, formerly of Bentinck. He was a member of and for years a manager and Sunday school treasurer in the Crawford United church, and was always willing to do his share in any work that was being undertaken for the church, his seat being seldom vacant at the services of the sanctuary.

"Jack" will be greatly missed not only in the church but also in the neighborhood where his kindly disposition, his unflinching good humor, as well as his industry and readiness to render assistance when it was needed and even at a sacrifice to himself, combined to render him a universal favorite. Of him it might be said as Shakespeare said of one in former days, "His life was gentle and the elements so mixed in him that nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man!'"

To the bereaved widow, who mourns a loving and considerate of horseradish.

husband and to the father and sister who have lost an only son and brother, we extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathy. "And I heard a voice saying, Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, from henceforth yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labor and their works do follow them."

The funeral on Wednesday afternoon was, in the absence of his pastor, Rev. Mr. Young conducted by Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of Knox United church, Durham. Mr. Smith spoke from the text, John 11:35, and brought an appropriate message of sympathy, consolation and hope showing that Jesus wept for His friend and that He understands our sorrows. The large concourse which attended the funeral and followed the remains to the Rocky cemetery, where he was laid in the family plot beside his mother and sister, Margaret, was an eloquent testimony to the high esteem in which he was held.

The pall-bearers were, Messrs. Andrew Hastie, Will Campbell, Frank Twamley, Donald McDonald, Edgar Boyce, James McDougall, Alex. McDonald and D. J. McDonald. Among the many beautiful floral tributes were the following: Pillow, from his wife; wreaths from Mrs. McKechnie's father, mother, sisters, brothers and Walter Boyce, Mr. Dobson and Mr. and Mrs. Marr, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. George Torry, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hastie, Donald Hastie and Crawford United church; sprays from Mr. and Mrs. Archie McDougall and Miss Edna McDougall, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Esch, Mrs. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGashin, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hastie and Owen Sound friends.

The flower-bearers were Messrs. Neil McDougall, Jack McDougall, Norman McDougall, Walter Boyce, Donald Hastie, Percy Ledingham, Harold McKechnie, George Torry and John Penner. Among the friends from a distance who were present at the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. John McDougall, Mr. Norman McDougall, Mr. and Mrs. Neil McDougall, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDougall, Misses Kate and Lizzie McDougall, and Walter Boyce, all of Hamilton; Mrs. J. RADIO FOR BEES

A new use for radio has been found by a European beekeeper. Bees, he says, are peculiarly susceptible to sounds. When the bees are about to swarm, the owner sets up the radio loud speaker near the hives. The sound from the radio attracts the attention of the restless bees and seems to pacify them. Time is saved in setting the hive in order and in the gathering of the honey.
