

For The Quiet Hour

WORDS MOST GRACIOUS

By Frederick Scott Shepherd

CHRIST lives! O word most gracious!
 And living, thus
 He gives to us
 A blessed hope, most precious.
 Christ lives! O word assuring!
 Here hearts find rest,
 And souls are blest
 With joy and peace, enduring.
 Christ lives! O message glorious!
 Beyond earth's strife,
 There is a life
 O'er sin and death victorious.
 Christ lives! Proclaim the story!
 That those, brought low
 By sin, may know
 His wondrous grace and glory.

TO TRAIN A GENERATION TO RESPECT THE LAW AND to obey it is the task confronting the Christian church today. To build up sentiment for law enforcement is a difficult task. Prohibition as a theory brings deprivation to no one, but prohibition as a fact takes champagne from any who desire it. Constant pressure from rich and poor is brought to bear on lawmakers and the officers of the law. It is not easy for these men to stand in the face of strong influence and unpopular criticism. Those who are thirsty shout louder than those who desire no wine. The dry forces may not be called upon to out-shout the wet, but they are challenged to make firmness out of influence noise. It is the duty of every Christian to expect law enforcement, and to back all officials to the limit in their efforts to bring to justice those who break the law. There are enough Christian people to bring about and to maintain good conditions, but the danger is that good men and women will not speak and act, while thirsty men and women both shout and work. The Constitution is Challenged. The churches must stand as a unit for law and order.

—DR. W. A. MORGAN.

"MIND NIKITA, THE TEARS OF ONE THAT'S BEEN wronged never, never fall beside the mark, but always on the head of the man as did the wrong!"—TOLSTOY, The Power of Darkness.

Which could evade, if unforgiven,
 The patient search and vigil long
 Of whom who treasures up a wrong?
 There never yet was human power
 "And if we do but watch the hour."

BYRON, Mezeppa.

"For he that wrongs his friend
 Wrongs himself more, and ever bears about
 A silent court of justice in his breast,
 Himself the judge and jury, and himself
 The prisoner at the bar, ever condemned:
 And that drags down his life: then comes what comes Hereafter."

TENNYSON, Sea Dreams.

CAIRO AND ITS SUBURBS CONTAIN A POPULATION OF over 800,000 people.

It is the largest city in Africa. Its influence in the Near East is yearly becoming more pervasive and powerful. It is the capital of Egypt, and the seat of its government. It is the centre of Egypt's social life and learning and civilization. Its great Islamic university, the Azhar, its scholars, its literature and daily press read the confines of Arabdom, its wealth and political importance are yearly acquiring greater power over men's minds.

Over 630,000 of the people of Cairo are Muslims. For their worship on Fridays they have over 400 mosques and praying places. But with all these places of worship only about half of the Muslims of Cairo can be accommodated during the hour of worship. Consequently much ignorance prevails.

The Muslim population of Cairo is nearly twice as large as that of Constantinople. It is larger than that of any city in the world, and is steadily growing in numbers.

"AFTER THE WAR," SAID AN ITALIAN WRITER, SIGNOR Enrico Corradina, recently, "a new fact arose in Europe, a terrible fact, and it was called Moscow; today another new fact has arisen, and its name is Rome." Moscow is the home of the Red International, Rome is the home of the Black International, but in Rome, the final home of both, the Black, will be murdered by the Red. Both these cities are the head centres of two recent revolutions, as remarkable as any in the history of mankind. Both cities are in the throes of the creation of autocracies the most absolute and merciless the modern world has seen. Both cities are the cradles of international movements destined to meet in a final death-grapple. Both cities are cast by prophecy for roles gigantic and sinister, only less so than Babylon and Jerusalem. Both cities are becoming embodiments of the Scarlet Beast.—Pastor D. M. Pantou.

"A GOD THAT COULD UNDERSTAND, THAT COULD suffer, that could sympathize, that had felt for extremity of human anguish, the agony of bereavement, had submitted even to the brutal hopeless torture of the innocent, and had become acquainted with the pangs of death—this has been the chief consolation of the Christian religion. This is the extraordinary conception of Godhead to which we have this far risen. "This is my beloved Son."—Sir Oliver Lodge, The Substance of Faith.

WHO CAN ESTIMATE THE VALUE AND OUTCOME of the conversion of a boy?

What if Brigham Young had been powerfully converted when he was a little boy: what a different page might have been written in American history! I dare say that as an evangelist he would have been the equal of Charles G. Finney or D. L. Moody. What a splendid work some Methodist would have performed if he had gotten hold of a little lad by the name of Brigham Young and led him to Christ!

STRATFORD WOMAN

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Stratford, Ontario.—"After my first baby was born I started to work on the tenth day and did a big washing on the twelfth day. Being so young (I was married at 19) I did not know what was the matter, so let it go until I was all run-down, weak and nervous, and had a bad displacement. For nearly two years I could not sleep and I would always complain of having 'not a head-ache, but a brain-ache.' My mother is taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and she recommended it to me. After taking two bottles I began to get a little sleep and to feel better and I have never left off since then, except for about three months. I can safely say I have taken thirty bottles since my second baby was born. I think it makes child-birth easier as I had terrible pains with my first three children and very few with my fourth as I was so much stronger. I am now able to do my work alone, but I am still taking the Vegetable Compound as I am nursing baby."—Mrs. OMER PAUL, 49 Cherry Street, Stratford, Ontario.

If you are suffering from any weakness which causes such symptoms as pains in the side and back and nervous feelings, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial now.

Symptoms of Nervousness

The first signs in infants are restlessness to light and sound, fretfulness, thumb sucking, head rolling, thigh rubbing, digestion troubles, too early or late teething and rolling of the "soft spot," spasms.

Next in order appear the symptoms in young children—loss of finicky appetite, constipation alternating with diarrhoea, bed-wetting, night terrors, muscular twitches, stammering, lisping, restlessness, irritability, obstinacy, fears of various kinds, timidity, emotionalism.

If allowed to go uncorrected the symptoms become aggravated at the age of puberty, and the child now exhibits various aberrations: he is self-conscious; he has an intense tendency to do the opposite of what is requested of him; he holds opinions for a long time or constant repeats meaningless gestures.

These children also present certain physical deviations from the normal, such as asymmetry of the head and face, impairment of vision, adenoids and enlarged tonsils.

Treatment of Nervousness

The first requisite in the treatment of the nervous child is that of environment. It is generally impossible to reconstruct the physically and mentally in his home surroundings. On the contrary, it is surprising how completely changed—such a child—comes after a few weeks' sojourn amid unfamiliar scenes and atmosphere.

HEALTH QUEST

The Philosophy of Perspiration Mrs. L. K. writes: "I would like you to give me a little advice on the following question:

"Married woman, 32 years of age, eats and sleeps fairly well and is overworked. Breaks out in sweats and will do this even when sitting down, sleeping, or even out driving in the cold. After these sweats feel very tired. Could you advise?"

Reply

What you say about being overworked is superfluous. No married women are overworked, that they all think they are.

About the sweats. Those are the overactivity of the little glands on the skin whose business it is to cause the evaporation of just enough fluid from the surface of the body to maintain a uniform and normal temperature. They act more via-

An unstable nervous system exhibits itself during childhood in sixty different symptoms and signs. Not all are observable in each individual case, but sufficient to indicate a serious impeding nervous mechanism.
