LOCOMOTIVE WRECKED DOING SCREEN STUNTS

Have you a locomotive in your home?

You have not. Almost everybody at some time or another has some kind of a flivver. But locomotives aren't as common as all that. They are hard to get. And when they get them in the movies they keep them just long enough to smash to pieces.

In "The Danger Signal", for instance, an engine is seen thundering along—and the next instant crashing into space to become a junk pile. "The Danger Signal," a new Columbia feature which comes to the Veteran Star Theatre next Friday and Saturday, December 10-11 deals with railroad love and adventure.

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by Wynne Ferguson

Copyright 1926, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 5

If the question were asked: "Which do you enjoy the more, winning or losing?" practically every auction player would reply: "winning." That is probably right and yet it is a well known fact that the winning player is always willing to quit while the losing one will play all night if he can get a game. It seems to be human nature to desire to cash in on one's profits, to quit a winner, and yet that is one of the greatest mistakes a player can make. The time to keep on playing is when you are winning. "Push your luck and limit your losses," is one of the greatest maxims of the game and yet the one least followed. When you are holding good cards during an evening's play, don't think about taking home your profits. Keep on playing while your luck lasts and don't stop until it changes. On the other hand, if you are losing, don't keep on playing. A bad luck streak is one of the hardest things to break there is, so don't try it. One of the best "money" players in the county is a man who plays auction bridge for high stakes and wins, makes it an invariable rule to stop playing if he loses three rubbers in succession. It may not be good sportsmanship but it certainly is good judgment. Think it over and see whether you are getting the most out of your good cards and losing as little as possible when you are holding poor cards. If you can learn this lesson and stick to it, you have made great strides toward becoming a winning player.

The other night a point was raised in one of the New York Card Clubs that caused considerable discussion. The dealer bid one club, second hand passed, and the dealer's partner held the following hand:

Hearts—10, 8, 4, 2 Clubs—none Diamonds—10, 9, 7, 6, 3 Spades—J, 8, 5, 3

Answer to Problem No. 6

Hearts—9 Clubs—none Diamonds—9, 8, 6, 3 Spades—none

Spades are trump and Z is in the lead. How can Y-Z win every trick against any defense? Z should lead the four of diamonds, winning the trick in Y's hand with the king. He should then lead the ten of clubs from Y's hand. B should discard a diamond, for if he trumps, Z will overtrump and thus make all his cards good. When B discards, Z should trump the club, although it is a winning card. If he doesn't trump but discards the ten of diamonds, B should he deny his partner's club bid or pass? As a general rule a player should overbid his partner's bid when he has two or less of the suit, but to justify such procedure he should have at least one trick in his hand, either in the suit bid or half a trick in the suit bid and our partner's bid without a trick in your hand. Such procedure is as bad as passing with many tricks in the other suits but only one card of your partner's suit. Auction is a partnership game and you can get the best results only by telling your partner the truth. When you deny his suit bid you should tell him two things: First, that you have only two small cards or less of his suit; and second, that you have at least a trick in your hand and a suit worth playing for. If those elements aren't both present, pass and let your partner bear the burden. In the hand given, the dealer's partner should pass. A bid of two diamonds is very unsound for the hand doesn't contain a trick of any description.

Answer to Problem No. 5

Hearts—K, 9, 7, 3, 2 Clubs—8, 7, 3 Diamonds—J, 10, 7 Spades—A, 3

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart, A passed, and Y bid two diamonds. If all passed, what should B open? The eight of clubs is the proper opening lead. It is a close hand but the only other alternative, the ace of spades, gives up command of that suit and may, therefore, be very disastrous. The trump lead is not sound. Three trumps to the jack ten are strong enough either to support partner's trump holding or to trump opponent's high cards. For that reason they should not be led. The eight of clubs is the only real sound lead.

Answer to Problem No. 6

Hearts—none Clubs—10 Diamonds—A, K, 7, 2 Spades—none must make a trump trick as Z will be forced to trump the next diamond trick. When Z trumps the ten of clubs with the deuce of spades, he should lead the ten of diamonds, winning the trick in Y's hand with the ace. He should now lead the seven of diamonds and must win the rest of the tricks as he has the ten, seven of spades over B's eight, trey. This problem is an example of the grand coup.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Some kitchens would be all right for a woman who wanted to reduce but even at that most of them prefer to do their ten miles a day in the open.

Its cast includes Jane Novak, Dorothy Revier, Robert Edeson, Gaston Glass, Robert Gordon and other well known players.

The scene where the huge iron monster hurls itself over the hill, ends with the showing of the complete wreck. Erle C. Kenton, who directed this drama of the thundering tracks, was satisfied with the result, but if he had been displeased it would have taken a long time and great trouble to duplicate that one incident, and the great pile cannot be sold even as junk since the cost of moving it far exceeds its value.

So it can be seen that it isn't an easy thing to film a wreck, and that it must be done with considerable care and preparation to achieve the desired result.

When pressing trousers or other articles of clothing where creases are necessary, add a teaspoon of sugar to a cup of water and sponge crease with it. You will find the crease will stay in twice as long.

EDUCATIONAL COURSE IN SWINE

An Education Course in Swine Marketing is being conducted under the auspices of the Canadian Swine Breeders Association; the Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers; the Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, at the Union Stock Yards, Toronto. This course is open to seven Junior Farmers from the County of Grey.

The young men selected should not be over 26 years of age. They may come from any section of the County. The course starts at 1.15 on Wednesday, December 15th and continues till Friday noon. The course consists of Lectures and Demonstration in cured, Wiltshire Sides; Grades and Grading; Judging Hogs and Carcasses. In addition there will be trips of inspection through the Abattoirs; and Lectures on Animal Diseases and meat inspection.

Through the generosity of the various Department of Agriculture, Breed Association and Packers liberal prizes are being awarded for judging live hogs; grading hogs and judging carcasses. The first prize is $9.00, 2nd $8.00 etc. till $1.00 is reached for the 9th prize.

The Swine Breeder's Association have given a grant for the work sufficient to pay every boy's railway fare over $3.00. That is if a railway ticket cost $6.85 return a refund will be sent the boy shortly after the Course of $3.85. The Abattoirs in the past have always provided a free dinner for the boys on the last two days of the Course. Therefore any boy will only find it necessary to get five meals for himself till he returns. There will of course be two nights lodging to be provided for.
