There is a considerable amount of sickness among cattle and some deaths, but such was feared as there was so much rust and dust in the fodder. Stockmen will have to be on the alert and try to combat the evil.

DURHAM SENIORS ENTER FINALS

(Continued from page 4) Wingham defence and placed the rubber behind McGee. Seven minutes more and Elvidge got Durham fifth goal when he went in and shot and battled in his own rebound. The last corner of the period was scored when 18 minutes of the playing time had elapsed, McGirr going in and gathering up a rebound from Buschlen's bullet shot from the left wing, which, though neatly handled by the Wingham goalies, bounced off his pads and he had little chance when McGirr flipped it past him.

The pretiest goal of the evening was scored when the whole forward line went down together, and while Buschlen was not used in the play, he was right there if necessary, McGirr and Elvidge carried the puck right up to the Wingham defence, who prepared to body their fast skating opponents. When ten feet across the Wingham blue line McGirr flipped the rubber over to Elvidge, who had pulled away from his opponent, and by the time Elvidge was in danger, McGirr had eluded his. Elvidge passed to McGirr who, boring right in, faked a shot and passed to Elvidge, who scored.

While the Durhams did all the scoring in the game, it must not be thought, however, that Wingham was idle. They were right in the play from start to finish, and if not dangerous in the first session, decidedly so in the second and third stanzas. On two or three occasions it looked as if they might score, but the air-tight work of Clements and Wilson, and the fact that Kress in goal was at his best baffled their every effort.

With the defense working with clock-like precision, and the forward line backchecking like fiends the Wingham team got in for very few close shots, and these were cleverly picked off by Kress, who was invincible.

Trying hard at the close of the second period, it would have been easy for the Wingham team to have mixed it up in the last frame, but it must be said that while they gave the boys a go for their money, they played the game and went down to defeat in a sportsmanlike manner. Bold on the bell, was fair, and if he did allow a little too much checking around the boards, some of which looked questionable, he sat down hard on the rough stuff and banished any player who showed a desire to mix it up.

A Clean Game The game throughout was very clean. Nine penalties in all were imposed of which Wingham drew five and Durham four. These were all for minor infractions, mostly for tripping, though Clements was sent to the pasture for handing out too strenuous a bodycheck to Brown and the Durham blue line. The only penalty imposed for rough stuff was handed out to Clements and W. Lockridge who attempted a Gene Tunney shimmy in the second period and were sent to the hoosegow for two minutes.

Now Enter Finals According to an announcement in the London Free Press Durham are now slated to meet either Listowel or Tavistock in the finals of the Northern League championship. Durham has played its semi-final games, and Listowel and Paisley are still to decide a winner in Sections A and B of their district. At Paisley on Tuesday night, Listowel emerged the victor with a one-goal lead, and it is a foregone conclusion that they will battle with Tavistock in the next round. Durham meets the winners, but which team it will be cannot be told. The Tavistock team is reported fast and good goal getters and some people who claim to know say they will put Listowel away handily. This, however, remains to be seen.

The line-ups at the Wingham game were: Wingham (0)—Goal, McGee; defence, Meyers and A. Lockridge; centre, Howson; wings, Brown and Patterson. Subs, W. Lockridge and Armstrong. Sub, goaler, Akins.

Durham (7)—Goal, Kress; defence, Clements and Wilson; centre, McGirr; wings, Buschlen and Elvidge. Subs, Kress and Rowe. Sub, goaler, McDonald.

SPOKE SUNDAY IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

(Continued from page 1) English and the majority of the passengers spoke no Chinese, it was necessary that interpreters be engaged. It was in this capacity that Miss Baty and another missionary made several trips on the Empress of Canada, their duty being to be present in the dining room and elsewhere on the boat and interpret between the Chinese crew and the European travellers.

China in Bad Shape Discussing the present conditions in China Miss Baty said they were very bad, though perhaps not so bad as newspaper dispatches would lead one to believe. The Chinese, themselves were a peaceable people. They wanted no trouble, but the Russian and German propagandists had been successful in turning the masses against the rest of the world and that now China had a standing army of two million trained soldiers who were ready to go into action at any time. Five years ago they had none.

The hospital of which Miss Baty was a part was one of the best in China. It was a three-story 100-bed hospital, and was without doubt the best equipped institution in the country. There was a full staff of graduate nurses and doctors, one of whom was from the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minnesota.

In conjunction with the hospital, the evangelistic missionaries of the church held services in the hospital as well as in the outlying dispensaries scattered at various points throughout the country.

Present Requirements Summing up her ideas of the present requirements of China as it affected the Western World, Miss Baty thought that there were several things that would have to be better understood if the greatest success was to be obtained. She classed these under one head: The Call of the Orient.

There was need of a sympathetic understanding of the Chinese people, Britishers, especially, had to get away from their so-called racial superiority idea. There were many Britishers in China who were doing incalculable harm by their airs and their "swank." There were many educated Chinese in that country, most of whom have a better education than their British "superiors."

The humanitarian demands of the country, too, should not be overlooked. In China there was much sickness—leprosy and tropical diseases. The Occident could show their interest in the Chinese by sending them medicine and doctors and in this tangible manner show these people that we are taking a real interest in them.

The call of the womanhood of China was also an important thing to be considered in dealing with this country. Children were being worked from 12 to 16 hours a day, and the status of the women of the country was not what it should be. While they were given a higher standing than in any period of the history of the country, there was still much to be desired. The women of China were still more or less chattels. They were not allowed, except under the most favorable circumstances to eat with their lords and masters, and up to a few years ago had nothing to say as to who their future life partners would be. Christianity, however, had taught them many things and now they had the privilege in many parts of the country of rejecting an undesired suitor. While the binding of feet was not now practised in the southern part of the country, it was still the custom in North China.

Miss Baty said that the door of Opportunity is open to any minister, doctor, nurse, or agriculturist. The Chinese like and want our western ways and professional people of all kinds could find many openings as teachers.

While the Russians had been instrumental in fomenting trouble and were responsible for the present anti-Christian outbreaks, this was only amongst the more ignorant classes. There were many Christian Chinese, and the most influential, who are favorable to Christianity and take a great interest in the work. Buddhism is dying out in Southern China, though Confucianism is still strong, but not nearly so strong as a few years ago.

THE JERSEY SIDE Among the many milk-producing cows the Jersey breed is noted. Many other breeds are esteemed, but none surpass that from the little Channel Isle of Jersey. For centuries cows of this breed were famed for their products, but about 200 years ago strict measures were adopted to protect the breed from crossing with inferior cows. Cattle importations were, and still are, prohibited. Scientific principles were adopted by the breeders and a scale of points for judging agreed upon. Rigidly adhered to, these regulations have greatly improved the breed and have been adopted by Jersey clubs all over the world, marking a notable advance in the health and milk-producing qualities of cows. And so it was that an obscure little island taught the world how to breed cows.
