The autos are again on the road and the usual mishaps with them. Two Durham young men took a run down east of Varney on Sunday to view the beauty of the country just as the snow is breaking up, and when going along the piece of road where the creek sometimes takes the centre of the road their car turned off the road and went into the creek proper with the front of the car submerged and the back part on the road, adding to the natural scenery of the breaking up of winter when everything looks topsy-turvy, and upside down. Mr. Bryans with his team pulled them out and sent them on their way rejoicing.

We were all sorry to hear of the accident to Mr. Wm. Henry as he was a neighbor in early life.

Owing to the limited amount of snow that fell this winter it was expected there would not be the usual frost but such was not the case and the ponds and streams we imagine raised very rapidly. Our authority on the matter was the experience of a young man going to visit his lady love. At the time of going the water in the Grassy pond had just reached the road level and on returning his horse could scarcely ford it, and even then he did not stay any longer than usual.

It was feared by many farmers that the ice on the fields in February would smother the fall wheat, but instead it looks as fresh as when it received its covering in the fall.
