JUST LIKE A MAN—

By Gene Knott

The Lure of Golf
An old Scotchman and a youth had spent the whole day on the golf links and had had some remarkably close games. As they left for home, the old man remarked: "Hay, mon, but it's been a grand day."
"It has," the youth assented. "Think we could come again on the morrow, laddie?"
"Well," the young man answered reflectively, "I was so married, but I darsay I can put it off."
"Assembling the Parts"
Afternoon caller—"And your husband has become violently religious?"
Mrs. Radonut—"I should say so. Last Sunday he picked up the of- fertory from Fort Worth—the text from Winnipeg, the sermon from Boston and the doxology from San Francisco."

NOTICE TO PARENTS

Owing to the congested condition of the Public School at present, and the fact that the Easter holidays are late this year, it is requested, in order not to disorganize the staff and scholars now in attendance, that the parents and guardians refrain from starting primary pupils until the Fall term in September. This request is made following a special meeting of the School Board with Principal Graham and Inspector Wright, when the local school situation was fully discussed. (Signed) THE BOARD, W. S. Hunter, Secy.

THE DRY MASH FOR FEEDING BABY CHICKS

Where chicks are reared in large numbers or where there are many daily duties that require attention, the dry mash method of feeding is worthy of a trial.
The mash we have used is similar to that used by several experiment stations. It consists of the following mixture:
80 lbs. yellow cornmeal (of grade equal to or better than No. 2, Yellow), 20 lbs. middlings, 4 pint of cod liver oil, or two lbs. cod liver meal, 4 lbs. fine oyster shell, 4 lbs. bone meal, 1/2 lb. fine table salt.
The cod liver oil is mixed with some corn meal and then sifted into the entire mixture. Mix this mash thoroughly.
Milk is given as drink. Semi-solid buttermilk usually contains about 30 per cent of solids. When fed as a drink use about one half pound to each gallon of water.
If you desire to use dry buttermilk or skim milk, add about fifteen pounds to the above mash mixture, and give water to drink.
Use cut alfalfa as litter and renew it weekly, or else supply some kind of tender green feed.
The chicks are given the first feed about sixty hours after the hatch is completed.
For the first four or five days in the brooder they are fed five or six times daily.
Before putting the chicks in the brooder, fill the drinking fountain with milk or buttermilk. The milk should not be cold. The chills taken off is desirable. Use five or six drinking fountains to three hundred chicks. Place them around the hover about one foot out from the edge of the hover.
Place a little of the dry mash on boards, egg case flats or paper pie plates, etc. Leave the first feed before the chicks for one half to one hour and then remove them. This should be done five or six times daily for the first four days. The following days, one can begin to leave the feed constantly in front of the chicks.
It is a good plan to take all the infertile eggs and the dead germs (first test) and boil them for at least thirty minutes. Then put them through an ordinary meat chopper. Once each day give a mash composed of equal bulk of eggs and dry mash, all the chicks will eat in fifteen minutes. Be sure to have enough feed boards so that every chick has had a chance to eat. This feed should be given for at least one month, and may be continued roughly until the birds are ten weeks old.
No hard grain or scratch grain need be fed. The mash as outlined above is complete in itself, where cut alfalfa is used as litter. Some additional green feed will be beneficial. That is, a feed of lettuce, sprouted oats, minced potato peelings, or cabbage, is good. Immature, well cured clover hay, cut in about quarter inch lengths is a good green feed substitute. Where the chicks can get out on a good clean tender grass range, the conditions are ideal.
The above method of feeding can be used to broiler size, or for about ten weeks.
We usually continue this mash feeding until the chicks are broiler size. If the cockerels are to be marketed, more milk is fed. Five percent of dried milk or beef scrap is added to the ration, or about one pound of semi solid buttermilk is given extra to each hundred chicks from the seventh week to broiler size. The cockerels are separated from the pullets as they approach a weight of two pounds, possibly in many cases as small as a pound and a quarter. At this time we generally begin to feed some whole wheat and cracked corn. This is also fed from a hopper.

When the chicks are on range, the feed troughs or hoppers should be moved every few days. The ground near the feeders becomes filthy very quickly.
When the chicks are on range the ration may be changed considerably. Where there is plenty of direct sunlight and tender green feed, it is only a waste to feed cod liver oil.
In many cases the above feed mixture might be changed considerably owing to local circumstances.
With March and early April pullets that were maturing rapidly the milk could gradually be replaced with five per cent of beef scrap (50 per cent protein) and the milk entirely eliminated.
The grain ration could be changed in the way that ground barley and rolled oats may replace the corn.
Be careful of Your Seed
The attention of the Grey County Branch, Department of Agriculture, Markdale has been brought to the receipt of a large amount of No. 2 C. W. Oats. These are strictly feed oats, and as such are really not sufficiently clean to be used as seed. A considerable number of weed seeds have not been cleaned out therefore may cause considerable trouble if sown.
The weeds found in such Oats are usually as follows. There may be additional weeds or not quite as many: wild oats, ball and wild mustard, wild buckwheat, lambs quarters, sow thistle, pig weed, Canada thistle, bladder campion, bindweed, ragweed, etc.
Should you contemplate the sowing of seed you have purchased why not send a sample to the Seed Branch, 86 Collier street, Toronto or T. Stewart Cooper, Department of Agriculture. The impurities will be named free of cost. Both of these institutions are at your service.
Be sure you sow clean seed of the best varieties
